Separatists Issue Call For Anti-Trudeau Rally

SEAWAY LOCKS CLOSED

Up to 160 Ships May Be Stranded

MONTREAL (CP) — A strike by 1,200 workers effectively blocked vessel movements in the St. Lawrence Seaway today and trapped a large number of ocean-going vessels within the system.

The strike began at 8 a.m. EDT and an official of the striking Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers predicted it could last at least until after next Tuesday's federal election.

There were conflicting reports of the number of ocean-going ships, most of foreign registry, trapped in the seaway.

In Montreal, a spokesman for the national harbors board said 58 ships were caught between here and Port Colborne, Ont. But other reports said more than 160 ocean-going vessels were trapped.

Seven ships were reported at anchor in the seaway itself between St. Lambert and the Iroquois locks.

RUSHED THROUGH LOCKS

Some 30 vessels were cleared downbound Thursday and passed through the St. Lambert lock in Montreal in a rush to clear the seaway before the strike deadline.

The strike, called to back demands for higher pay, is the first to hit the seaway in its 10 years of operation.

Hopes for a last-minute settlement evaporated Thursday night.

"The government's inflexible stand and its failure to mediate in this dispute leaves us with no alternative but to exercise our legal and democratic rights to withdraw our members' services at 8 a.m.," William J. Smith, president of the CBRT, said in Ottawa.

MINER WAS LAST

The Cape Breton Miner, downbound from Toronto, was the last to clear the St. Lambert locks in Montreal at 8:08 a.m. The vessel, a self-unloader, is owned by Upper Lakes Shipping.

In Montreal harbor, outside the seaway system, a total of 32 sea-going vessels were berthed. Those scheduled to leave for foreign ports would not be affected by the system's closure.

Hundreds of seamen at Ontario ports were affected by the strike, which closed the sole passageway between Lake Erie and Lake Ontario at the Welland Canal. The last vessel to clear the canal was the John E. F. Misener of Canadian registry headed for Cleveland, Ohio, with a shipment of iron ore.

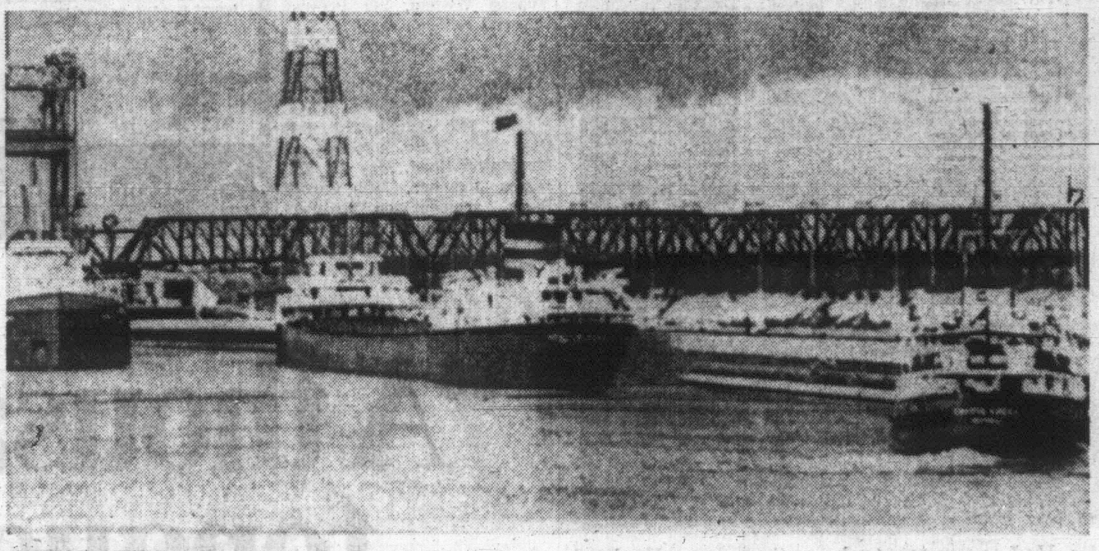
All ships above Port Colborne, Ont., in the Great Lakes were able to continue operating because the strike does not affect U.S. locks at Sault Ste. Marie linking Lake Superior with Lake Huron.

On orders from the seaway authority, sections of the seaway between Montreal and Lake Ontario were closed Thursday and traffic came to a virtual standstill in anticipation of the strike.

NEW WAY DISCOVERED TO DETECT TUMORS

HONEY HARBOUR, Ont. (CP)—Three McGill University scientists have scored a major breakthrough in the war on cancer by finding a new way to detect tumors in the gastric tract almost before they begin to grow.

The technique is said to be 80-per-cent effective which puts it on a par with the Pap smear test for women that has helped reduce the death rate from cancer of the uterus by 50 per cent since 1945.



THESE SHIPS at Montreal's St. Lambert lock are trapped in the St. Lawrence Seaway as 1,200 workers went on strike this morning. Oil carrier Coastal Creek, far right, was the last vessel to enter the locks before they were closed to inbound traffic. (CP Wirephoto.)

40,000 Cheer Trudeau

MONTREAL (UPI)—Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau was accorded one of the most tumultuous welcomes of the June 25 election campaign today when he arrived at the concourse of Montreal's Place Ville Marie office and shopping plaza complex.

The mini-skirted secretaries rubbed shoulders with workmen and businessmen in the throng of about 40,000 that streamed into the concourse to cheer and applaud the tanned 48-year-old bachelor.

Hundreds more watched the crowd from the windows of buildings that lined the huge square.

1,400 Police Await Monday

MONTREAL (CP)—Separatist leader Pierre Bourgault has accused Prime Minister Trudeau of being a "traitor" who has "sold out" the French-Canadian "nation".

The head of the Rassemblement pour l'indepenance nationale called upon his supporters to demonstrate against the Liberal leader when Mr. Trudeau reviews the St. Jean Baptiste Day parade here Monday night on the eve of the federal election.

About 1,000 persons packed an east-end arena Thursday night and responded with wild cheering as Mr. Bourgault in a bitter personal attack claimed that Mr. Trudeau is fighting the election campaign by knocking down separatism.

"If an English-speaking prime minister came here and told us what he is telling us, we would kill him," Mr. Bourgault said.

About 1,400 police will patrol Montreal streets Monday to attempt to keep order.

Mr. Trudeau has been invited by the Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies to be guest of honor on the reviewing stand.

Mr. Bourgault said he personally plans to watch the parade, high point of week-long festivities in honor of Quebec's patron saint, from a position in front of the reviewing stand in the city's east end.

URGES BIG TURNOUT

He also asked his followers to turn out en masse to demonstrate against Mr. Trudeau's policies at tonight's La Grande Fete —an evening of entertainment by popular French-Canadian stars in suburban Anjou.

The prime minister was to make a brief appearance at the show but Liberal party officials announced Thursday that he would not be able to appear tonight because of his tight schedule.

The prime minister is to attend an 8 p.m. rally in the Montreal riding of Hochelaga and then proceed by helicopter to another rally at 10 p.m. in Joliette, about 40 miles north of here.

"If he doesn't appear at the show, then it is a victory for us," Mr. Bourgault told his audience.

The separatist leader said he feels Mr. Trudeau has no right to attend the Monday parade "because it is a national holiday and he does not recognize the existence of the Quebec nation."

Aside from the RIN, several other Quebec nationalist groups have announced they intend to demonstrate against Mr. Trudeau's presence at the St. Jean Baptiste Day festivities.

They are the Committee for Socialist Independence, the Chevaliers de l'independance, the Jeunesses rinistes, the Popular Liberation Front, and the June 24 Patriotic Committee.

Meanwhile, Maurice St.

RUSH

Stock Fraud Suspect Held In London

LONDON (CP) — Meyer Rush, wanted on a huge stock fraud case in Toronto, was caught by police while asleep in a London luxury hotel today and steps were immediately taken to extradite him to Canada.

A Scotland Yard officer said Rush, who registered at the hotel under the name of Michael Brian Rush, will appear at Bow Street magistrate's court Saturday in the first stage of the extradition proceedings.

The 44-year-old Canadian, who jumped $40,000 bail on the fraud conspiracy charges last year, gave a Toronto address when he registered at the Royal Lancaster, a Hyde Park luxury hotel, June 9. He told the hotel he would remain for five weeks.

The Scotland Yard officer said police acted on a tip but declined to disclose further information.

The officer said Rush is being held in custody at the request of the RCMP.

Rush, who arrived in London from Panama June 8, is wanted in court to answer charges of conspiracy to defraud the public of $100,000,000.

TEAR GAS, BILLY CLUBS

Violence Hits Shantytowners

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Police fired tear gas, wielded billy clubs and arrested 77 demonstrators Thursday in the first violence of the Poor People's Campaign begun six weeks ago.

The eruption indicated growing militancy by the demonstrators and by the police, raising concern about what happens after the extended licence for the poverty camp—Resurrection City—expires Sunday.

Campaign leader Rev. Ralph Abernathy, in a midnight plea to the restive residents of the plywood camp, sought to cool emotions.

"I am pleading with you to say violence is not the way," said the heir to the leader of Negro non-violence, the assassinated Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

He spoke to a community almost under siege by helmeted police with tear gas.

"Let us stand firm and let us stand fast," said Abernathy. "Let us remain calm. Let us get a restful night so we can get up tomorrow ready to do business."

Just what that business is to be vitally concerns the government since the leadership has given no hint it means to call off its campaign for more food, more welfare, jobs and housing.

'WANT US OUT'

"This is exactly what they want, they're trying to get us out of here," said Rev. Andrew Young, vice-president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference headed by Abernathy.

"All they need is a little incident like this to get a court order and slap us with a $50,000 or $100,000 fine."

Trouble erupted just a day after 50,000 or more blacks, whites, Spanish-speaking Americans, Indians and other poverty elements had congregated at the foot of the memorial to the assassinated President Abraham Lincoln in a peaceful show marked more by middle-class affluence than want.

Viet Cong Resume Saigon Rocket Attack

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP) — The Viet Cong early today launched their first rocket attack against Saigon in five days, killing six civilians and wounding 23 in a bombardment of the capital's airport and a northern suburb.

Ten rockets flashed into Gia Dinh suburb and the American air base and military command headquarters at Tan Son Nhut, a U.S. spokesman said.

The attack flattened six houses in the suburb and started a fire which burned for an hour before being brought unde control, a govenment spokesman said.

The U.S. spokesman said thee was little damage to the air base and to the headquarters of the American military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton Abrams.

The U.S. said South Vietnamese military casualties "were very light," and there were no U.S. casualties.

HARRIMAN

Envoy Sees Peace Talk Progress

PARIS (AP) — Ambassador W. Averell Harriman took off for Washington today to report to President Johnson that "some progress is being made by bits and straws" in the Paris talks on reducing and eventually ending the war in Vietnam.

He told reporters evidence has developed here that the North Vietnamese are serious in their approach to the talks.

He noted that top members of the U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiating teams have been holding longer informal sessions in the midst of their formal meetings, and found this encouraging.

"I'm not going to predict the future," Harriman said, "but if we could have private talks each side could find ways to make adjustments toward the ultimate objective of peace."

Harriman will be in Washington for 10 days.

DOUGLAS TALKS UNITY IN QUEBEC

By TOM MITCHELL

MONTREAL (CP)—New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas made national unity his pitch Thursday on a brief election campaign visit to Montreal.

Only the NDP can bring "genuine national unity" to Canada, founded on "social justice and economic equality," he said during a party rally in a north-end hockey arena.

Earlier, Mr. Douglas did some mainstreeting in west-end shopping plazas in a drive by the party to make a breakthrough in Quebec, where it has never won a seat in a federal election.

The diminutive NDP leader got a great reception from about 500 persons in the arena. Two hefty workers carried him on their sholders when he arrived, depositing him on the speaking platform as a band blared.

But the crowd seemed to lose

TRUDEAU'S STAND

'It Is Up to Stanfield What to Do About Ad'

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Ottawa Bureau

EDMUNDSTON, N.B.—Prime Minister Trudeau said Thursday he would leave it up to Conservative leader Robert Stanfield to decide what to do about a Conservative advertisement that said a Liberal vote was a vote for socialism and against Christian morality.

The prime minister quoted the advertisement from a local newspaper after making a militant defence of Criminal Code and divorce law amendments before a crowd of slightly over 2,000 at the Edmundston Arena.

WHAT IS PARTY STAND ON UNITY? ASKS PM

SAINT JOHN—Prime Minister Trudeau challenged Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield on Thursday to clarify the stand of his party as well as his "personal stand" on the issue of the two-nations policy and special status for Quebec.

"Mr. Stanfield has clarified his own personal stand," Mr. Trudeau said. "He has not clarified the stand of his party."

"If he does in Quebec," he added, "I can guarantee to you he will obtain the resignations of a great many Conservative candidates who came into the campaign in order to fight the Liberals, who are against two nations and special status."

PLANE ALMOST ENDS IN DITCH

It Turned Out to Be Happy Landing for PCs

Times News Services

HALIFAX — Robert L. Stanfield came home for a day Thursday, risking his neck at one point to get at the Liberal jugular in his native province.

The risk was repaid in a large and enthusiastic crowd at Port Hawkesbury, N.S., where his light plane landed on a slope of the Trans-Canada Highway in wind and rain after a turbulent flight from Halifax.

Port Hawkesbury is in the centre of Health Minister Allan MacEachen's riding, which now comprises most of the two Nova Scotia ridings that went Liberal in the 1965 election.

More than 2,000 persons were crammed into the Port Hawkesbury high school auditorium, others stood at the doors in the rain, and three classrooms were filled with people who had waited up to two hours for Mr. Stanfield's arrival.

His pilot was unable to find RCMP patrol cars marking off the "temporary landing strip" on the highway at the hilly Strait of Canso separating Cape Breton from mainland Nova Scotia and in desperation chose a slope two miles away.

"You've landed in the wrong place," a grinning Mountie said as the pilot and five passengers climbed out of the plane, which nearly slewed into a deep ditch as it rolled down the asphalt to a stop.

At Dartmouth later, an estimated 5,000 people milled outdoors at a shopping centre plaza and police said autos were backed up for miles as Mr. Stanfield spoke.

"MacEachen is on the run," he told the cheering crowd, which chanted "sock it to 'em, Bob." Someone threw a banana at the stand and Mr. Stanfield ducked, laughing.

SAME THEME

Mr. Stanfield visited Yarmouth on his first stop of the day. A crowd of about 1,000 went to a theatre to hear the former premier hit at the Liberals for using "phoney issues," a theme he repeated through the day.

Liberals had used full-page ads in Alberta and New Brunswick to say Mr. Stanfield stood for "two countries."

"Last night, a week late and not very graciously, Mr. Trudeau apologized."

"With their "phoney issue"

I'll Shoot Stanfield, Caller Tells Daughter

HALIFAX—A telephone threat on his life was brushed off today by Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield as "just another crank call".

RCMP, however, took it seriously and had a large corps of plainclothes men spotted at strategic points throughout the large throng at the Tory rally Thursday night.

The telephoned assassination threat was received by 17-year-old Judy Stanfield at the Stanfield home in Halifax last Saturday.

Her mother and father were away touring western Canada in the election campaign.

A gruff voice told the frightened Judy "Stanfield is going to get his at the K-Mart. I'm going to shoot him in the neck." Then the caller hung up.

. . . SEPARATISTS

Pierre, assistant director of Montreal police, said the 1,400 specially-assigned policemen will patrol city streets Monday and Tuesday in anticipation of demonstrations and election day trouble.

Most of the extra manpower would be concentrated along the route of the St. Jean Baptiste Day parade because police had received information to the effect that "a certain group of individuals" are planning to disrupt the event.

The separatist attack upon Prime Minister Trudeau was followed Thursday night by threats to use violence if the provincial government makes any effort to block what the RIN interprets as a referendum for French-only unilingual schools in the Montreal suburb of St. Leonard.

Mr. Bourgault told the rally: "We solemnly warn Mr. (Premier Daniel) Johnson that there will be no English schools at the first grade level in September in St. Leonard. . . . We will use ever means necessary to reach every means necessary to reach this aim."

A municipal referendum and elections for two vacancies on the five-man St. Leonard Catholic school commission were held June 10. Elected to the board were two candidates who said they support a proposal to gradually eliminate "bilingual" classes from the school system.

If the proposal is adopted, Grade I classes starting in September will be in French osly. After seven years all classes will be in French, ending a system of bilingualism where up to 70 per cent of lessons were taught in English for children of parents so desiring.

Referendum results showed a majority favoring a school system in which French would be the first language and English the second. However, about 30 per cent of those voting in the referendum wanted a French-only school system.

DEMAND RIGHTS

About 45 per cent of the municipality's 35,000 population are of non-French origin, many of them Italian immigrants who have formed a group to demand strict observance of the rights of parents to decide in what language — English or French — their children will be taught.

Premier Johnson stepped into the fray last week by stating that the government would maintain the right of parents to decide the language of education.

At the separatist rally Thursday, Mr. Bourgault said: "If you think this is a call to violence — well, it is."

special Ontario Supreme Court hearing for Monday in which he will ask that Rush's $40,000 bail be forfeited.

In Panama City, Lt.-Col. A. Hector Valdes, director-general of the national department of investigation, said today he is studying the possibility of requesting the deportation of Robert Colucci of Toronto, also wanted in connection with the fraud case.

Valdes said Colucci, who has been here since May, 1967, has not yet obtained legal residence papers in Panama. He added Colucci's deportation could be ordered on the grounds that he is an undesirable alien.

Colucci's lawyer, Jose Manuel Faundez, recalled that an attempt to extradite Colucci last year was unsuccessful because the charge of conspiracy was not extraditable and also because no evidence was furnished that Colucci actually was involved in the alleged conspiracy.

Campbell Going To Confer With Inmates

Twelve young residents of provincial training schools for children will spend three days in a retreat conference with Welfare Minister Dan Campbell and top department officials next week.

An experiment in group dynamics, it will be an effort to evaluate the problems of the 14 to 16-year-old youths, six boys and six girls from Brannen Lake School and Willingdon School for Girls.

"They may understand more about themselves than we give them credit for," said Mr. Campbell, who will wind up the conference by spending some time alone with the youths to see what they got out of it.

A similar approach has been used to get at the problems of foster children in the province.

Esquimalt Ships Back from Trip To California

Two destroyer-escorts from Esquimalt returned to base today following a cruise to San Francisco and exercises off the California coast.

MacKenzie and Columbia had been engaged in training naval officer cadets from universities across the country.

Summer sea traingin provides the cadets practical experience in communications, seamanship and navigation.

The warships left Esquimalt June 4 and represented Canada at the Portland Rose Festival before sailing south along the American coastline.

Medicare Plan Urged By 'Reform' Doctors

By VICTOR COHN
The Washington Post

SAN FRANCISCO — Two insurgent—though still conservative—doctors upset old guard incumbents Thursday to win places on the American Medical Association board of trustees.

Both say they believe organized medicine must "move faster" to solve American medical care problems—and to come up with alternatives to government care plans.

The victors were Dr. Raymond T. Holden, 64, a Washington, D.C., obstetrician and clinical professor at Georgetown University, who defeated Dr. Lester Bibler, 66, Indianapolis; and Dr. John Chenault, 54, a Decatur, Ala., general practitioner who defeated Dr. Joseph Copeland, 64, Austin, Tex.

A third doctor of like mind, Dr. John Kernodle, 53, of Burlington, N.C., defeated two opponents—Drs. Joseph Donnelly, Jersey City, N.J., and Donald Hayes, Springfield, Mass.—to fill a vacant seat.

Only one of four "new guard" candidates—new guard the AMA term—was defeated. Dr. J. Minott Stickney, 60, of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., lost by four votes to Dr. L. Otis Simenstad, 67, Osceloa, Wis.

Total votes were not disclosed. But it was one of the hardest-fought contests and one of the few extensive contests in recent AMA history. AMA trustees are usually elected without opposition after selection by a leadership nominating committee.

"I believe the board had to be more responsive to the needs of the public," Holden said in an interview. "I think the AMA has to reduce its lag time responding to public needs and even keep ahead a little bit.

"I'd like to see a broad program of medical care in this country, but I'd like to see it in the hands of the medical profession and the public, rather than given to the govenment by default."

Chenault, too, said he believed the AMA should be "a little more aggressive" and "respond more quickly" to new demands. He said he is for expanded medical education, a "dialogue with government at all levels" and—in an organization where only conservative opinion has usually been heard—for "free and open discussion on all issues."

interest when Mr. Douglas made his brief speech, entirely in English with the exception of a couple of introductory sentences in French.

The groundswell of chatter made it difficult for Mr. Douglas to be heard over the loudspeaker system.

GETS BIGGER HAND

Robert Cliche, the party's Quebec leader, got a much better reception when he addressed the crowd in French. He also got a bigger burst of applause than Mr. Douglas when he rose to speak.

Mr. Douglas said Prime Minister Trudeau is "dividing this country as it has not been divided for a long time" with his position on Quebec.

There had been a special status for Quebec ever since Confederation and New Democrats would recognize this if they formed the government after the June 25 election day.

The present Canadian constitution was "worked out in the horse and buggy days" while today's problems required jet-age solutions.

"We believe that the federal government, in co-operation with the provinces, must assume the leadership in marshalling Canada's financial and human resources to develop an expanding economy."

STRESSES PLANNING

This is why the NDP had been stressing the need for a planned economy, Mr. Douglas said. "This will make posible full employment and a higher standard of living for all of our people—no matter where they live and no matter what their mother tongue."

In his speech, Mr. Cliche, running in Duvernay riding, said Mr. Trudeau keeps saying that everything is fine in Canada and that the economy is healthy.

But people were realizing they had been taxed too severely and that, instead of living in the just society which Mr. Trudeau was promising, "we live in an unjust society."

The Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties, financed by the large corporations of the country, would never bring about reforms in the tax system.

It was time to kick out "the millionaires of the two old parties," Mr. Cliche said to loud applause.

Mr. Douglas, who arrived in Montreal from Winnipeg, leaves today for Toronto en route to British Columbia. He will remain close to his home riding of Burnaby-Seymour until voting day.

"A thousand tongues"

The Liberals have "a thousand tongues to allure the voter."
Douglas Fisher & Harry Crowe, Toronto Telegram, Monday June 17, 1968

Mr. Trudeau claims that the Liberal Party speaks with one voice for national unity and against special status. Here are the facts. You be the judge.

"It goes without saying that Quebec is not a province like the others and it has to be dealt with in this light."
Paul Hellyer, La Presse, March 26, 1968

"It is a nation in the sociological sense of the term. This society is centred in Quebec and it is Quebec which gives it its strength and its hope for survival."
Mitchell Sharpe, Le Devoir, March 26, 1968

"What would have to be worked out at such a conference (on the constitution) is recognition of provincial power to make international agreements within their own jurisdiction, but only under the umbrella of broad agreements signed by the Federal Government."
Eric Kierans, Globe & Mail, March 27, 1968

"I cannot express it more concisely than F. A. Angers: 'In general, the Canadian state is not the central government but the central and provincial governments taken together . . . in matters of education, the Canadian state is the provincial state and none other'."
Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Federalism and the French Canadians

FOR FRANCE

'Red Peril' Vote Issue

PARIS (AP)—Campaigning for the first round of France's National Assembly election went into its final hours today after three weeks of lacklustre electioneering in which all parties preached reform and the forces of President de Gaulle tried to whip up a Red scare.

Campaigning officially ends tonight for the voting Sunday for a new 487-member National Assembly. A second round of voting follows June 30 in districts where no candidate gets a first-round majority.

The election, called in late May by de Gaulle after rioting students and striking workers brought the Fifth Republic to a standstill, has aroused little excitement.

The Gaullists, centrists, non-Communist leftists and Communists have all urged reforms. But there have been no proposals that have captured the public's imagination and answered the problems posed by the May crisis.

NO CHANGE LIKELY

There probably will be no sweeping change in the composition of the next assembly. The Gaullists probably will have a majority, and the Communists should add a few seats at the expense of the non-Communist left.

In the last general election in March, 1967, the Gaullists and their supporters won a one-seat majority of 244. They had 242 at dissolution. The Communists gained 73 seats.

The interior ministry said 2,267 candidates were contesting the assembly seats in metropolitan and overseas France in the first round of voting. The ministry said there are 28,300,986 registered voters.

Two newspaper opinion polls published this week showed voter intentions much the same as they were before the last general election.

De Gaulle's campaign has been based largely on one theme—the Red peril. The president, Premier Georges Pompidou and their supporters claimed at every opportunity that only the Gaullists could prevent "totalitarian communism" taking over.

But communism no longer is the bogey it once was.

De Gaulle's current anti-Communist crusade sounds hollow alongside his recent wooing of Communist governments in Eastern Europe and his friendliness in recent years to Moscow and Peking.

RIFLE PURCHASES BY MAIL DEBATED

WASHINGTON (AP) — An effort to put more muscle in a bill banning mail-order sales of rifles and shotguns is under way in the Senate while the same measure is headed for a possible vote in the House of Representatives by the middle of next week.

"Anything short of registration and licensing will not be effective," said Senator Joseph D. Tydings (Dem.—Md.), after the Senate judiciary committee Thursday put off action on President Johnson's new bill for one week.

"Not a strong gun control measure," was the way Tydings described the bill which at the same time was being approved in the House judiciary committee.

Joining Tydings in the move for stricter action was Senator Roman L. Hruska (Rep.—Neb.), long-time opponent of sterner weapons control. Both serve on the Senate judiciary committee.

"A tremendous gap" in the bill, said Hruska, is its failure to restrict mail order sales within a state and not just across its borders.

CONSIDERS CHANGES

He told a reporter he is consulting with Senator Thomas J. Dodd (Dem.—Conn.), chief Senate sponsor of the bill, about inserting an amendment to require buyers to file affidavits of eligibility.

Under this procedure, dealers would have to hold up delivery for seven days to give police an opportunity to check on the affidavits.

Hruska said he also may offer an amendment to double the maximum penalties provided in the bill to 10 years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

The House judiciary committee approved the administration bill 29 to 6 after the adoption of relatively minor amendments. Southern Democrats cast all the opposing votes.

Crime control legislation signed by Johnson Wednesday night bans the mail-order sales of handguns.

Candidates Campaign Rotarians

Liberal candidate David Groos told a Rotars Club all-candidates meeting Thursday the nation's problems — "that can hardly be denied" — can be resolved through reason and tolerance.

"We have had them before and resolved thtm by tolerance and reason as we will do again."

Conservative Eric Charman said it was "hogwash" to talk about such issues as divided country and the constitution.

Everybody wants a unified country and the constitutional crisis could only be solved later at a meeting of all parties and all provinces, he said.

New Democratic candidate Dr. Harvey Richardson said Canada is lagging in technological research and needs a liaison in the Commons between science and government to accelerate study.

Red Ensign candidate George Burnham accused Mr. Groos of being an accessory of the Liberal government in the theft and mutilation of Peru's national flag.

Fined $150

A 20-year-old youth was fined $150 Thursday for driving while under suspension.

Stanley Lee, 1542 Verling, was unable to produce a driver's licence when checked by police on the Pat Bay Highway May 7.

Court was told he later came to the police station and admitted his licence had been suspended previous to the incident. He was also fined $15 for being a minor with no insurance.

Repudiate Hate Talk, Tories Urged

HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotian Liberals are demanding that Conservative Leader Stanfield repudiate so-called hate literature they claim has been blared from the podium at a party rally, openly dispensed by one PC riding headquartres and tucked into the folds of a weekly newspaper.

So far, there has been no comment from Mr. Stanfield, who was campaigning in Toronto today following a flying trip to his native Nova Scotia Thursday that took him to Yarmouth, Port Hawkesbury and neighboring Dartmouth.

The Liberals say pamphlets, making disparaging charges against Prime Minister Trudeau, have been distributed in widely-scattered parts of the province.

Jack Cruickshank, Nova Scotia Liberal campaign chairman, said Thursday Mr. Stanfield should publicly state that local PC offices will not use or have available any hate literature for use in the June 25 election campaign.

SENT TELEGRAM

Earlier Thursday, John F. Hart, president of the Inverness County Liberal Association, charged in a telegram to the Opposition leader that excerpts from hate publications were read from the platform at a Conservative meeting in Cape Breton's Cheticamp Tuesday night.

"Conservative candidates sat by in silent concurrence," the telegram read. Cheticamp is in the riding of Cape Breton Highlands-Canso, where Health Minister Allan MacEachen is seeking re-election against PC Hugh Gillis and NDP candidate Ieva Jessens.

PREMIER Tran Van Huong has agreed to stay on at the head of the newly-appointed South Vietnamese government after getting pledge of full support from President Thieu. Huong earlier this week had threatened to resign.

CAR ACCIDENT PROBE SOUGHT

MONTREAL (CP) — Campaign workers for Hubert Falardeau, independent candidate in Montreal Laurier, have asked police to investigate an auto accident Thursday which resulted in injuries to Mr. Falardeau.

Police had said after the accident that there was no suspicion of foul play.

Sensible Way to Relieve Diarrhea

Many people hope a sudden attack of Diarrhea will quickly subside. So they do nothing. Others prefer to take a fast-acting, dependable remedy right at the start, like Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It relieves nausea, cramps and diarrhea—gently restores intestinal balance. Family-proven for over 115 years.

For those sudden attacks that can strike at home, on trips or vacation, keep Dr. FOWLER'S Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. 65-10

A Nation's Choice

AS ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING and exciting election campaigns in our history enters its closing hours it becomes evident that Canadians will make their choice of a government less on the logic of issues and party planks than on the over-all philosophy of a way of life. The alternatives presented by Mr. Stanfield and Mr. Trudeau cannot be summed up as right versus left, or even conservative versus liberal, but more accurately as old versus new. And even under these labels, the accent is not so much on content as on method—not so much involved with purpose as with approach.

What is really at stake is the nature of our nationhood, the tone of our national psyche. For there can be little doubt that with next Tuesday's vote the people of Canada will cross a watershed—or temporarily turn back.

This is an age of turbulence and change, and there is no end of it in sight. The world, our country, each community—all are caught up in a process of rapid development. Individual and group viewpoints are changing as our environment changes, and this causes a sociological chain reaction which further speeds the revolution. At no time in world history have there been so many simultaneous alterations in progress; for science, the increasing population, and the great demand of humanity for more freedom in every respect, have put on a day-to-day basis the global evolution that used to be measured in decades or centuries.

Clearly, in the face of such changes, the political methods of this country must adapt—the problems that must be met by parliaments and their leaders are frequently unprecedented, demanding solutions never before envisioned. Into this swirling environment Mr. Stanfield has brought the political tactics and the political message of yesterday. He has listed current problems and sketched — or appeared to sketch—current answers to them. Under normal circumstances—a phrase which hardly has meaning in this age—Mr. Stanfield would make an acceptable prime minister, for he has honesty, ability and a very evident love for his country. But the problems for which he has solutions, and the methods which he would apply, are not likely to be the problems and methods which will be pertinent to the world which we must face.

In contrast to him, Mr. Trudeau offers a new type of leadership, a pragmatic approach to problems which seems much more likely to succeed in an unpredictable environment than that of Mr. Stanfield. He offers not so much a set of policies as a method of formulating them—a system of thought rather than an answer to questions. Ostensibly, this, in a Canadian leader, must be much more of a gamble than is Mr. Stanfield's orthodox offering, and Mr. Trudeau would be the first to admit it. But all things considered, there is a great deal of logic in this new concept, and much less radicalism than one might suspect.

Mr. Trudeau's writings and speeches reveal more sobriety and restraint than is indicated by many of his campaign appearances. It is his approach that is new, his acceptance of the inevitability of change and his readiness to adapt to it; his recognition that under modern conditions a political platform may become obsolete before it can be properly implemented. With this attitude Mr. Trudeau brings a frankness and honesty that are refreshing in Canadian election politics and which have had an instant response from the people. He has told Canadians the hard truth of the relationship between services and taxes, high wages and unemployment, spending and inflation. The information may have hurt or offended at times, but truth eventually wins respect.

Against the engrossing background of these two leaders, Mr. Douglas has waged an old-fashioned campaign of promises. But his opponents have stolen the spotlight from him, and prosperity has stolen all relevance from his party. Socialism does not present an effective answer for Canada today, nor a plausible course for tomorrow.

All things considered, Mr. Trudeau's philosophy of government best answers the needs of Canada today and tomorrow; his remedy for the over-riding problem of national unity is the most straightforward and practicable; his flexible approach to inevitably changing situations promises the best chance of success. Mr. Trudeau's vision of our potential as a nation represents the most realistic concept that has been offered the people. He is clearly a man for all Canada, and he should lead Canada's next government.

The Law and the Heart

THE UNITED STATES Supreme Court has drawn the attention of Americans to the fact that an 1866 law "bars all racial discrimination, private as well as public, in the sale or rental of property"—the words used by Mr. Justice Potter Stewart to explain the recent majority court ruling. This, no doubt, was news to most people, in the United States and outside it, who have interested themselves in the question of Negro rights to live in particular localities. While the fight against the restricted area has been going on in recent years, the effective ruling was passed a century ago.

The announcement from the court does more than publicize a law that was intended to be operative. It underscores the fact that discrimination in its many guises cannot be eliminated by law alone. It was not removed by the early post-Civil War legislation which sought to banish the "relics of slavery," and it will not be entirely removed by more recent court decisions—important as they are in the effort to assist the Negro.

Whatever the law, emotionalism remains one of the persistent elements of discrimination. Often the emotion is deep-seated in tradition. In other instances it has causes of more questionable origin. But in the end, the real cure must be not only through the court, but through the practice of humanity.

Bye-Bye, Lawnmower

MILLIONS OF NON-GOLFERS in the western world should read with interest a report on the nylon "grass" which is standing the wear, tear and abuse of spiked shoes, woods and irons on an experimental course or two in the United States.

On the greens, says one report, balls putt slower but truer because of the standardized grain of the grass. Ball bounce and "bite" from approach shots are virtually the same as on grass. Ball marks are non-existent.

Who cares? But listen: the synthetic grass requires no watering, no mowing and no patching. How much, we wonder, for an ordinary-sized suburban lawn?

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

Mr. Stanfield at the Auction Block

MR. Stanfield, apparently with considerable reluctance, has committed his party to a new scheme for lightening the impact of the high mortgage rates now plaguing the housing industry. In effect, it is a disappearing subsidy carrying a price tag of $25 millions. He adds rather apologetically that it is not a "big deal." It is at least to the credit of the Conservative leader that he has linked his promise with a cost estimate. What is needed, however, is a more complete balance sheet because it is Mr. Stanfield's view that "Canadian taxes have reached their limit."

Western

If they are not to be increased, he must plainly find means of a accommodating the various other promises he has made in the campaign (including the establishment of a land assembly bank) and, additionally, the loss to the treasury through removal of the 11 per cent tax on building materials.

As a voter enticement, the scheme undoubtedly has merit. Citizens would be permitted income tax deductions equivalent to 90 per cent of mortgage interest over the level of 7 per cent. Mr. Stanfield contends that this is simple justice since the government is partially responsible for high interest rates.

Obvious difficulties

There are, however, certain obvious difficulties with the scheme. Much of the Conservative program has emerged in the course of the campaign in the form of policy papers said to have been developed over time at study sessions involving not only members of Parliament but also experts in a variety of fields. But plainly this proposal is not one of them because Mr. Stanfield failed to mention it on June 9 when he was guaranteed the largest television audience even known in Canada for the national political debate.

What then has inspired it? The most obvious answer is the situation confronting Conservative candidates in the urban area with polling only a week away. Mr. Stanfield made his promise at a political meeting in Toronto. In 1965 the Conservatives found themselves barred from the Toronto metropolitan area and they fared badly in most other urban constituencies across the nation. There were high hopes that the doors which slammed on Mr. Diefenbaker would open for Mr. Stanfield. It appears from all surface indications that this is not the case and that Conservative candidates have exerted pressure on their leader for a pledge that might, even in the last week, pay off with a flood of urban votes.

Open-ended

A second objection is that the promise is open-handed. It is bound to be because Mr. Stanfield has no way of knowing how long the period of high interest rates will last. Even the leader of the opposition can fix only partial responsibility for the rates on the present government. The reason is plain and Mr. Stanfield almost certainly grasps it if Mr. Douglas does not. We import a great deal of inflation from the United States and not solely in the form of high commodity prices. As the governor of the Bank of Canada noted in his last annual report, the behaviour of interest rates in this country has been generally simliar to that in the United States. But our rates must be higher to accommodate the capital inflows we require to cover our current account deficit and for development.

The trouble with Mr. Stanfield's disappearing subsidy is that no one, lacking a crystal ball attuned to American trends, can foresee the point of disappearance. Vietnam is only one of the uncertainties. Another, noted by Mr. John Meyer in a very perceptive recent column, is the state of race relations in the United States. The argument is that a national U.S. unemployment rate of 5 per cent may mean 12 per cent for non-whites. In other words the American government may be under great pressure to tolerate an otherwise unacceptable degree of inflation for the sake of social peace. This plainly is not a matter that any Canadian government can influence although the effects would certainly be felt in our economy.

A third objection is that Mr. Stanfield has not related his proposal to social need. It would apply to NHA mortgages and second mortgages. Without doubt it would be helpful to many who have entered or may enter into contracts at rates excessive in terms of their incomes. But there has also been a good deal of expensive construction in the past year and there is no obvious reason why the ordinary taxpayer should subsidize the man in a $100,000 home.

From the timing of the announcement, in the closing days of the election campaign, it is reasonable to infer that Mr. Stanfield has little personal enthusiasm for this particular pledge. His reluctance is understandable for, in effect, he is proposing political interest rates. If it is open to one party to propose deductions above 7 per cent, it is open to another to over-bid with rebates above 6 per cent. This is the pension story over again. It is a reversion to auction block politics, from which it once appeared we might escape with Mr. Stanfield's emergence as leader of the Conservative opposition.

Letters to the Editor

Irresponsible

The NDP leader's promise at a Moose Jaw, Sask., meeting that if elected to power he would increase old age pensions for everyone, 65 and up, to $125 per month is surely one of the most irresponsible statements made by this gentleman during this current campaign.

The 1966 census indicates that most of 1,539,548 affected Canadians might well qualify for the proposed increase. A conservative estimate of the cost to the taxpayer could well be from $600 million to $900 million a year. He also proposed an increase in income tax exemptions to both single and married people which would reduce federal revenue.

I feel the country is fortunate that the NDP has no chance whatever to form a government, despite Mr. Douglas' boast that he is hopeful of electing 132 members.—H. Marshall, 2051 Brighton.

National Unity

On the question of national unity I question whether Mr. Trudeau has the best solution to the problem. I firmly believe that a growing tide of Quebecers will be driven to separatism as the only way of obtaining some particular rights in Canada's constitution if Trudeau stands pat. Separatists themselves understand the frustration of Quebecers and the possible consequences. A confrontation between Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Johnson would gain nothing.

A very small and legitimate right which Quebec would like to enjoy is representation in conferences dealing with French culture and education. This policy was begun in 1960 by the provincial Liberal party and has merely been continued by the Union Nationale. Up until now the policy has provided no bitterness but at present national unity is turning into a somewhat racist issue which can only endanger national unity.

Personally, I would much rather see the problem taken to more constitutional conferences and ironed out through negotiation and conciliation but not confrontation. — Doug Stewart, New Westminister.

Local Handicrafts

In your edition dated June 7, 1968, you published an article written by Mr. Deryk Thompson, concerning the opening of a new tourist shop. As the two student proprietors of this venture we would like to thank you for your interest and excellent coverage. Public response to our request for local handicrafts was much greater than we had expected; in fact, we still have people coming to us, offering their work. Thank you again.—Anne Milner and Frances Morgan, The University Gift Shop.

Looking Back

From the Times, June 21, 1908.

Ladysmith— There was little of importance transacted at the meeting of city council today. But a curious infraction of a bylaw came before the notice of the council. It seems that a lady has been canvassing the town soliciting for some special kind of corset. She has done this without a permit.

When she appeared before council today, concillors turned a deaf ear to her pleas. She was told by the mayor she must pay $50 for a license or ship her corsets back to the factory.

Cohn-Bendit In Britain

By TIM TRAYNOR
from London

IMPACT Day One, as reported by the hyperprobe team of The Times, reached its climax at the London School of Economics, where Daniel Cohn-Bendit gave substance to rumors he would seek political asylum in Britain and called for the organization of Free French forces to liberate his countrymen. (A continuous discussion followed in an attempt to determine who his countrymen actually were).

Traynor

It was the culmination of the great happening, in which the black-haired Daniel the Red emerged triumphant from three hours of disputation with airport immigration officials, made contact with fellow-revolutionaries from around the world, and marshalled their support for a protest demonstration against the repressive British power structure, as symbolized by the sinister BBC.

Amid the fury of photographers' flash bulbs, the revolutionaries lifted their voices in the Internationale and announced they would participate in the BBC program for which they had been flown to London only if Daniel was allowed to stay longer than the 24 hours he had been given at the airport. Within hours the concession was wrung from the home secretary; Daniel could stay for two weeks. Triumphantly he proceeded to the suburban tomb of Karl Marx for another round of the Internationale.

Impact Day Two broke with a counterattack by the forces of repression. Fearsome black headlines rolled out of Fleet Street; from the Daily Express came an electrifying "Preposterous." Mrs. Mary Whitehouse, head of the National Viewers' and Listeners' Association, condemned the "foreign anarchists" and demanded they not be given a platform.

Callaghan treatment

Tory MPs took up the cry in Parliament, and tense debate followed. James Callaghan, the home secretary, had this to say: "I thought it would be useful for him (Daniel) to do some of the things he wanted to do. I have even offered to teach him the words of the Internationale, which he does not seem too sure of. And when he expressed a desire to see Buckingham Palace I could think of nothing better than that for his education."

Backbenchers' comments were subdued. The member for Hampstead said: "The Tories are making themselves complete clowns, saying that Great Britain is going to be threatened by this young man."

The member for Ilkeston added: "When I was the same age as this young man, I held precisely the same views. I had rather less success in precisely the same form of activities. I began to simmer down and grow up. Further contact with the democratic labor movement such as we have in Britain will have the same effect on Mr. Cohn-Bendit as it had on me."

Back at the LSE, Mr. Cohn Bendit sipped coke and laid down the law. American reporters were barred from the daily press conference on the grounds that they were capitalist stooges. He sharply reprimanded a reporter who referred to him as Danny, saying it was not the Beatles they were dealing with now. Strategy talks were shrouded in secrecy, but it was believed the revolutionaries had gone immediately to the heart of matters. It was clear that the darkest meanings could be read into terse remarks such as: "We have been discussing the import of arms from Nigeria and the burning down of the Daily Express."

Impact Day Three was one of revolutionary consolidation. The old theatre at the LSE burgeoned with symposia, at which the firebrands renewed their ardor through contact with the fervent student masses.

Tariq Ali play

Tariq Ali, Pakistani veteran of many an assault on London's U.S. embassy, wound up the inaugural session with a cool threat to raid British courts extraditing American draft-dodgers opposed to the Vietnam war. There were instant professions of solidarity. Students at a meeting called to form the Revolutionary Socialist Student Federation proclaimed: "The students are fed up with the press foisting leaders like Ali, Cohn-Bendit and others on us."

It was further pointed out that Mr. Ali, one-time president of the Oxford Union, was no longer a student. "Tariq Ali only represents himself . . ."

The meeting was electrified when a printing trade unionist appeared and issued a fiery call to arms. After donating $150 to the cause, he urged the students not to be vicious, violent or pull up paving stones. If the newspapers misrepresented the students, he would do his best to bring newspaper distribution workers out on strike.

There was also a fond welcome for Black Power. An emissary said the students must be prepared to use guns, and asked how many people knew how to make a petrol bomb. "How many want to?" came the jeering reply.

There was by this time turmoil up and down the country. Spokesmen for the right wing of the Tory party were swallowed up in the revolutionary holocaust.

By the end of the day, capitalism was everywhere in retreat and the public stood in awe of the monumental power of Mr. Cohn-Bendit. Accordingly, he picked up his return plane ticket from the BBC and took himself quietly back to Frankfurt.

Fascists On Rise In India

By RAM SUNDAR

BOMBAY — The rapid rise of a militant political party with Fascist overtones is causing much worry to the Indian government.

With its headquarters in Bombay, a city of nearly 5,000,000 people, the Shiv Sena—Army of God Shiva—has set up more than 100 branches in Maharashtra state.

The party last March captured 40 seats in the 140-member Municipal Corporation (city government) of Greater Bombay. Newspapers described the performance as "stunning" and "remarkable."

Yet the Shiv Sena was born barely 18 months ago.

What has shocked responsible Indians is that a party preaching linguistic and class hatred should have so easily won the loyalty of an estimated 800,000 citizens in Bombay, Maharashtra's capital.

The Shiv Sena is seen by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and other government leaders as a threat to Indian national unity.

●

Federal Home Minister Yeshwantrao Chavan, himself a native of Bombay, has described the party as "an out-and-out Fascist organization bent on destroying not only the cosmopolitan, secular character of Bombay but the very oneness of our nation."

Shiv Sena boss Bal Thackeray, a 41-year-old cartoonist, has clearly spelt out the aims and objectives of his party on more than one occasion.

Among other things, he wants 80 per cent of government and private jobs in the state of Mahrashtra reserved for those whose mother tongue is Marathi, the local language.

Amother demand is that "outsiders" in Bombay should be "gradually pushed out under a phased plan."

Only 35 per cent of the population of Bombay is Marathi-speaking. The city has always attracted Indians from other provinces because of its high concentration of private and government industries.

"Maharashtra and Bombay for the Marathi-speaking people" is Bal Thackeray's slogan.

●

For the present Shiv Sena leaders say that they only want to curb the influx of people from India's southern provinces.

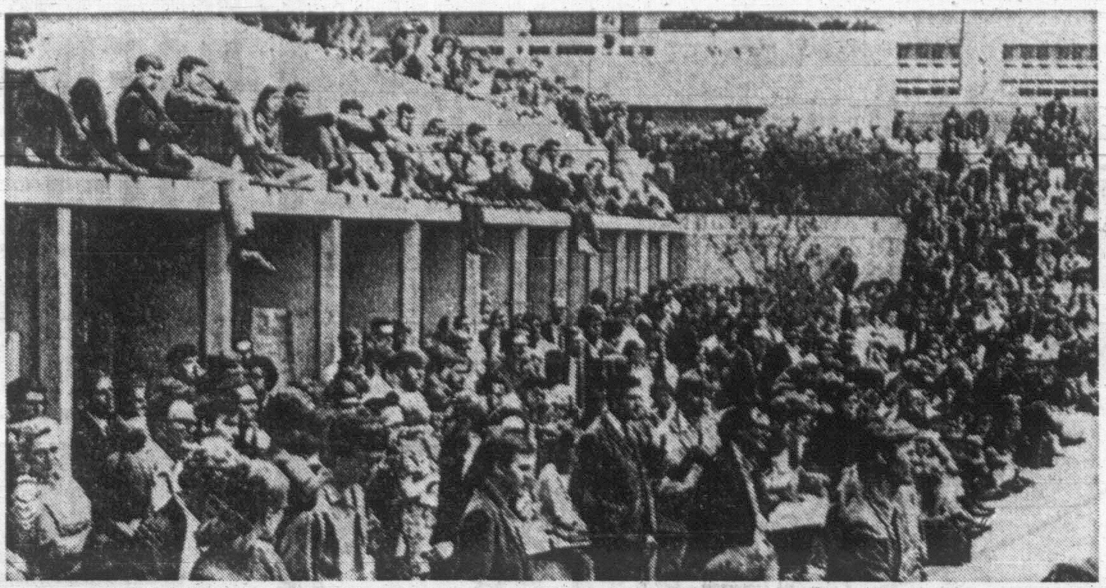
There are some 500,000 southerners in the city. They mainly hold low-paid jobs in business houses and factories.

Thackeray argues that it is the South Indians who have, been mainly responsible for the "misery" of the Marathis.

"If we kick the South Indians out of Bombay, most of our problems will be solved," he told a 50,000-strong Shiv Sena rally.

To show it means business, the Shiv Sena has organized attacks on the homes of South Indians and broken up their business establishments. One slum of 400 houses was set on fire by party volunteers.

The Times of India, leading Bombay daily, called the Shiv Sena's success in the municipal elections as a "warning" to those who believe in democratic values.



Demands for sweeping changes in the governing structure of universities are being heard from students in Canada as well as in other countries—above, a meeting recently at Simon Fraser University. There are many roots to the unrest on the campuses, but an important one, according to the article below, is the changed condition of youth in relation to institutions of higher learning.

A New Way Must Be Found To Govern the University

By NICHOLAS VON HOFFMAN

(A senior writer for The Washington Post, Mr. Von Hoffman has investigated and written about university campus unrest from Berkely to Columbia. Some of his conclusions about the roots—and the seriousness—of the problem are given here in the aftermath of the violence which has nearly wrecked one of the world's most prestigious universities.)

NEW YORK — Four years separate Berkeley from Columbia. During that time the number and seriousness of the outbreaks on American university campuses have grown.

From the Berkeley sit-ins the violence has progressed to the point of arson and the importation of guns onto campuses. At this rate, it is only a matter of time before people start getting killed and a portion of a major university is blown up unless a different way of governing these places is discovered.

Blame is as easy to assign as guilt is difficult to prove. You can point at the notion of civil disobedience which carries with it the idea that every man can choose what laws he will obey or how he will disobey them; you can as easily point at obdurate and inept administrators who are infallibly gifted with the ability to pick the worst and most dangerous course of action.

★ ★ ★

You can also point at faculties who prate about the academic community but run their own careers as irresponsible individualists, dedicated to their own professional and financial advancement. (At Columbia for instance, before the crisis and during it, not more than a third of the teaching staff could be said to have spared the time to do the committee work that makes the word community something more than a rhetorical banality.)

Yet there is something else; something more profound that has to be understood.

The condition of youth has changed in important ways. College is no longer a voluntary business. You go to college or you go to war; you get your degree or you resign yourself to a life of low paying jobs.

The modern university is a semi-compulsary institution most of whose members are disenfranchised politically, both in the greater society outside and at school.

Nor are the students the rollicking adolescents of the old rah-rah collegiate culture. At the best universities today, they enter freshman year with academic training superior to that people left with a generation and a half ago. They may not be mature but they are serious people who take questions of war and peace, wealth and poverty, racism and emancipation, personally and passionately.

★ ★ ★

They do not agree with the way their universities deal with these questions, as a practical matter they cannot leave the universities, so they are fighting for a part in the decision making process. Unless some concessions are made to them, there will be, in Tom Hayden's phrase, "Two, three, many Columbias."

But that is a terrible future. Columbia, as Proctor David Truman says, is deeply wounded. Men who worked together for years are now enemies, not speaking to each other. The feuds and bitterness will take a long time to abate.

The cost to the school in money will probably run into the millions. The university's long range status as a school of the first rank is in serious doubt.

There are probably less than 50 schools in America that are universities in more than name; in all the world there may be only 300. The people on this planet cannot afford to lose one.

Berlin Affair Raises East Germans' Spirits

By DAN MORGAN

EAST BERLIN — The Communist East German government, which has never won a popularity contest among its citizens, appears nonetheless to have a sprinkling of support for its controversial new controls on travel to and from West Berlin.

Along the humid streets of Unter den Linden, people expressed bewilderment that the new measures could have stirred talk in the outside world of a new Berlin crisis.

Among the two dozen persons questioned in a random sampling, a number of persons admitted that the steps were unpleasant, but expressed the conviction that they would help the lot of East German citizens in the long run.

A young television performer, in the tow of a tall blonde actress with pencilled eyebrows, put it this way:

Take Notice

"I'm glad it happened. We had to do something to heat up the situation, just to get West Germany to take notice of us. They pay no attention to us at all. Things couldn't go on like this. We need recognition because when we get it, then we will be able to travel again. The borders can be opened up."

The theory that recognition of East Germany by the Bonn government would be a step toward reconciliation of the two Germanies is espoused by only a minority of West German politicians.

The actress disagreed with her friend, pointing out that the East German government was demanding increased prices for visas — a move she felt would work a hardship on ordinary people. But she admitted she had difficulty getting worked up over the problem, since "it is the West Germans who are affected."

An elderly woman carrying a bag of groceries approved of the new visa requirements for West Germans using the Berlin autobahns because, "we have to protect ourselves against certain elements."

Unpleasant

She conceded that the visa controls on fellow Germans was unpleasant. The chief reason given for the new controls was the need for protection after the passage of the West German emergency laws.

The Communist regime contends that the laws will pave the way for a neo-Fascist dictatorship. In the meantime the East Berlin regime has been going to great lengths recently to prove its popularity, with the recent overwhelming vote on a new constitution its greatest effort.

Predictably, the most enthusiastic supporter of the new travel controls was a member of the Social Unity (Communist) party, standing outside the openly propagandistic Museum of History.

He said Monday's demonstration by some 50 right wing students against the Soviet War Memorial in West Berlin proved the danger of neo-Fascism in the West, a mere 150 yards from East German soil.

One technical worker in his 30s, gave only slightly more qualified support, saying that "Kiesinger (Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger of West Germany) treats our country as an island. With the new emergency laws, he could claim there was an emergency situation in East Germany and send troops in to suppress it."

Even some West German officials have conceded in the last two weeks that the passage of the emergency laws — and the simultaneous lifting of allied controls over the Bonn government — might cause some legitimate uneasiness among the East German government and people.

"Imagine," said one Bonn official last week, "if the Soviet Union suddenly and convincingly lifted its controls over the East Germans. Wouldn't we be uneasy?"

Freedom

Despite the views expressed on the visa controls, longing for more freedom to travel, and for liberalization, was also evident.

"Ninety per cent of the population approved of what is happening in Czechoslovakia," said a young man. "So far that has been our only corridor of travel, and we are afraid this may be closed soon. I plan to go to Prague this summer. Every night I watch television and watch to see if I will be able to go."

JAPAN-U.S. RELATIONS SHOW SIGNS OF STRAIN

By RICHARD HALLORAN
The Washington Post

TOKYO — Japanese and Americans here who believe that the U.S.-Japan alliance is essential to the security of both nations are deeply concerned with the rapid deterioration of relations between the two countries.

The breakdown, in both political and economic relations, is leading not so much to a collision as to a separation. These cool-headed observers fear the two nations are on divergent tracks that will lead to a real split around June, 1970.

More than half of the problem, they say, is here in Japan. Japanese who value their ties with America point to two contradictory concepts of the alliance among their compatriots.

One is to take the alliance with America for granted. Japanese observers point out that the Japanese feel no sense of the tension in the world today, no sense of threat to Japan, and no sense of the growing cry in America to withdraw or at least reduce U.S. involvements in Asia.

They contend that Japanese political leaders are complacent about the relationship with America and are willing to go along with public and press emotion because they think it more politically safe.

The second, and opposite, concept is based in the surging current of Japanese nationalism. The U.S. is the easiest and most convenient target for nationalistic expression, which takes much the same form whether from the conservatives or leftists.

Both Japanese and Americans contend that opponents of Premier Eisaku Sato's government, whether inside his Liberal Democratic Party or outside in opposition parties, are using anti-Americanism to undermine and topple Sato's administration.

The alliance with the U.S. is a major issue in the election campaign for the upper house of the Diet (parliament), which got underway last week. The election itself is not so important, as the upper house has little power here, but the campaign and the outcome will have marked influence on the future course.

Another election later this year for the presidency of the LDP will be another time of testing the alliance. Sato is expected to run again, and thus be renamed premier, but his opponents within the party will undoubtedly use the alliance issue against him.

In late 1969, the fight will most likely explode. General elections are expected then, the main issue being the U.S.-Japan mutual security treaty that becomes open for abrogation or revision in June, 1970. If things keep going the way they have started, American and Japanese observers here say, mid-1970 will be very rough at the least and may see an open break.

Won't Re-open

Sato and his closest advisers have indicated that they do not intend to reopen the treaty question in 1970. But they have also shown no resistance to the demands that the U.S. withdraw its bases from Japan. Public and press pressure on this point is expected to increase steadily during the next two years.

Confronted with this, more American voices here are being raised to question the value of the treaty to the U.S. and to ask why the U.S. should not take the initiative to abrogate or revise the treaty. They are beginning to contend that, regardless of what is on paper, the treaty will be impossible to implement unless the Japanese have a genuine desire to continue it and the bases here.

Both Japanese and American observers say that it is impossible to foretell the impact of such a move. They maintain that the contradictory concepts of the alliance are equally strong now and are likely to remain the same for some time.

Tory-UN Combination Vital Factor in Quebec

By GERALD WARING

WITH TRUDEAU IN QUEBEC — Seventy-four parliamentary seats are at stake in Quebec, more than in any province except Ontario. And the Liberals will do well if they only hold their own, despite the fact that the prime minister himself is a French-Canadian from Quebec.

Waring

This is home for Pierre Trudeau. These are his people. He speaks with extra ease and special warmth. He gets carried away. Speeches scheduled for five minutes stretch to 20. He preaches the same message here that he presents to English Canada, but somehow in French and in the homey atmosphere of the hotel de ville steps at Chicoutimi or the college campus at Roberval it comes out with smoother edges.

Canada's greatest needs are ethnic togetherness and measures to equalize economic opportunity for all Canadians, he tells his people. The greatest menace is the bomb, not Communism or Fascism, with famine conditions in foreign lands the second menace.

The crowds are sizeable, closely attentive, and applaud often. A few separatistes carry placards like "Trudeau sophiste et reactionnaire," but even some of these warm to him and lower their signs—although they boo his statement that equality in a united Canada would also mean that English-Canadians in Quebec would be guaranteed equal rights.

★ ★ ★

Montreal appears solidly Liberal; the fight is in Quebec City and in rural Quebec. It is against the Conservatives, for which read Union Nationale, and against the Creditistes. With great good luck les Rouges could do as well as the 56 seats they took in 1965, when John Diefenbaker was anathema in Quebec and the UN abstained from the fray.

But with Premier Johnson's Union Nationale working all out for Tory candidates in a number of ridings, the Conservatives could double or triple their eight seats of 1965. The creditistes have lost support in the cities, but are still potent in the country.

It is a campaign that sees the prime minister of Canada defending himself against word-of-mouth smears that he is a Communist and a homosexual. "I like girls as much as any married man," the bachelor PM told one crowd in what may have been a subtle shaft at married men generally, including his calumnists, who have a propensity to jump moral fences into greener pastures.

★ ★ ★

But Quebec politics have always been amoral. And in other ways too electioneering in this province is like it has always been. There is little of the Trudeaumania that fires English-Canada. The crowds are not hysterical, and police protection is so unobtrusive as to see no more than a traffic escort for the PM's motorcade.

Yet two plainclothes Mounties stand guard all night in the hotel corridor outside Trudeau's suite.

Withal, one gets the impression that Pierre Trudeau is not as big a man to his own people as he is in English-Canada. In part this reflects Quebec's primary political interest in its government at Quebec City. But it also reflects the fact that in Quebec Mr. Trudeau has a rival Liberal luminary in his friend, Manpower Minister Jean Marchand, who stepped aside so Trudeau could run for the party leadership.

Some people here suggest the decision was made as informally as by the flip of a coin — and that the country lost the flip. I don't think it did.

Anti-Pollution Funds Available

Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate David Anderson Thursday rapped both the British Columbia government and Conservative incumbent George Chatterton for failing to exploit federal pollution control programs.

Mr. Anderson told 120-130 people at All Christ Church, View Royal, that millions of dollars of pollution Control funds are not being applieed for by the provincial governments.

"The federal government is not hiding behind the constitutional problem of jurisdiction," Mr. Anderson said, "but, in the last few years Ontario has received the bulk of $200 million spent by the federal government on pollution control.

"The other provinces, especially B.C., simply haven't taken advantage of the assistance offered. This means people in the rest of Canada pay taxes to build sewage disposal systems in Ontario.

"The federal government has experts available for research assistance and is willing to assist provinces which apply for grants and cost-sharing programs."

He told the meeting that the federal government will lend two-thirds of funds necessary for sewage disposal plants, at 5½ per cent interest over 50 years, and then write off 25 per cent of the loan as a straight grant when the program is completed.

Fifty per cent of industry's costs on pollution control may be written off for tax purposes he added.

Voters must repudiate members of parliament who, simply because they sit in opposition in parliament, react negatively to programs offered by the government, he said.

"One need only look at the filth in Esquimalt harbor to realize the seriousness of pollution," Mr. Anderson said, "but, your Conservative MP in the last house took no steps to take advantage of federal government programs on pollution control."

If elected, Mr. Anderson said he'd make it his business to try to bring the provincial and federal governments together on joint pollution control programs for the whole Victoria area.

Fielding questions from the floor, Mr. Anderson addressed the problem of American ownership of the Canadain economy.

"First, Canadians themselves must rally behind Canadian businesses and invest at home. We invest far too much money in the U.S. because we're afraid of the risk of investing in Canada."

He said a tax reform draft bill will likely be introduced to parliament within a year and result in redistribution of Canadian wealth. This would provide more incentive for Canadians to invest at home and to businesses going after the small investor.

Further, he said, a Canadian Development, Corporation which will back Canadian businesses will lessen investment risk and bring a lot of Canadian money back home.

We must make sure foreign companies in Canada are acting as good corporate citizens, he said, step up higher education and retraining programs to provide the skilled workers Canada needs.

Heckler Gets Quick Quip To Question

Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate David Anderson told hecklers at a noon meeting in Yarrows Ltd. cafeteria Thursday that he was campaigning to become a Member of Parliament, not a shipwright.

A heckler, one of about five in a group of 150 men, had shouted at Mr. Anderson: "What do you know about shipyards?"

Hecklers' comments mainly concerned the government's timing in announcing a $6,000,000 replacement for the Estevan, a supply and buoy vessel. The Wednesday announcement came less than two days after Prime Minister Trudeau's visit and a week before the election.

Mr. Anderson replied that pickets at the Trudeau rally in Beacon Hill Park carried signs demanding work for B.C. shipyards. "You get it 40 hours later and you complain about that."

The prime minister made it clear, he said, there would be no special concessions for West Coast shipyards after 1970 because of high labor costs.

Mr. Anderson said the fact that he was a Liberal candidate made it possible for him to tell Mr. Trudeau that labor alone was not responsible for the high costs.

Mr. Trudeau is going to be forming the government, he said, and the most effective voice in Ottawa from this riding "naturally has to be a Liberal voice."

Free Loans Advocated By Socred

A Social Credit-Creditiste government would provide interest-free loans to provinces and municipalities, candidate Roy Overton said Thursday night.

The loans would be for capital construction projects such as schools, seaports, hospitals, roads, pollution control and sewage systems, said the Social Credit standard bearer in Esquimalt-Saanich.

He spoke at a coffee party at the West Bay Terrace home of Herbert Bruch, national president of the Social Credit League.

A minority government in Ottawa would be a good thing, he suggested.

It would have to enact good legislation if it was to win the support of other parties.

The 29-year-old carpenter, in his first attempt at public office, said the country's financial difficulties could be met by declaring a state of emergency under the Defence of the Realm Act.

"Why should we wait for a war to make use of these facilities? When the Second World War broke out Canada was still flat on her back from the depression. Yet almost overnight shipyards and factories began production at an unparallelled rate."

Traffic Counts Bring Motorist Two Jail Terms

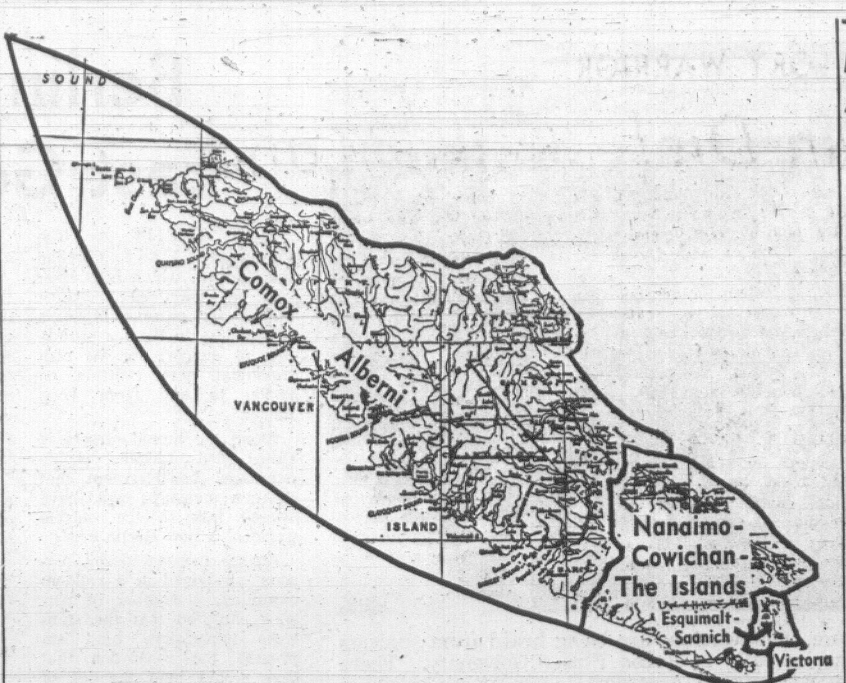
A man was sentenced Tuesday to two one-month jail terms when he pleaded guilty to two counts of driving while his right to obtain a licence was suspended.

Police said Richard Heimbecker, 729 Latoria, was observed driving on Jacklin Road April 15 and on Sooke Road April 22.

He was convicted of driving while his licence was suspended in April of 1966.

Harry Kelly, 3179 Alder, was fined $350 and his licence suspended after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Police said he was the driver of a car which struck a parked vehicle on Rutland Friday.



ISLAND VOTES will be cast in four ridings in Tuesday's federal election as shown on this map. Size of the ridings have been altered through redistribution, and Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands now includes Metchosin and Sooke. Incumbents—one Liberal, one Conservative and two New Democrats—are seeking re-election in all ridings. Close contests are expected in Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich.

Riding Switch Puzzling

The switch to Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands riding has puzzled voters in Metchosin, Sooke, Cobble Hill, Jordan River and Port Renfrew.

Many thought they were still in Esquimalt-Saanich, but redistribution enlarged the Nanaimo riding to include a section of Metchosin and other areas.

Polling stations will be held at St. Mary's Parish Hall, Metchosin Road, S. Whitewell residence, East Sooke Road; St. Rose of Lima Church Hall, Saseenos, Sooke Community Hall; McDonald's Resort, Otter Point and community halls in Shirley, Jordan River and Port Renfrew.

Program Cancelled

The Sidney Silver Threads will not hold a program Tuesday due to the federal election.

Other programs will take place as usual at 2 p.m. in the Knights of Pythias Hall.

Monday will be a social afternoon, Wednesday will feature Jacko, Thursday will be games and music and there will be a special party Friday.

LEGAL ACTION ADVOCATED

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau should take legal action against the persons responsible for distributing literature that casts aspersions on his past, John Diefenbaker, former Conservative leader, said Wednesday.

He told a news conference that, in view of the seriousness of the accusations, he cannot understand why Mr. Trudeau has not taken criminal libel action against the authors.

"I would have taken such action without delay."

Employers

1) These contribution rates are effective June 30th 1968. If your pay periods do not coincide with that day, and if you wish to avoid using both the old and new rates in the same pay period, you may use:
(a) OLD RATES for any pay periods ending on or before July 6th 1968, or
(b) NEW RATES for any pay periods starting on or after June 23rd 1968.

2) Stamps that will become obsolete after June 30th may be exchanged at your post office for stamps of the new denominations.

3) If you are registered as an employer with the Unemployment Insurance Commission, a bulletin with detailed information about exchanging stamps has been mailed to you.

4) The wage ceiling is raised from $5,460 to $7,800. All salaried employees earning up to and including $7,800 a year are insurable from June 30th onward.

5) Employees paid by the hour, day, piece or mile will remain insurable regardless of the amount of their earnings.

Employees

1) Although the new contribution rates become effective June 30th 1968, the new benefit rates as shown in the table above will not automatically become effective at the same time.
2) The benefit rate is calculated on the basis of your most recent 30 contribution weeks. Therefore, some time will go by after July 1st before your contributions at the new rate will have the maximum effect on your rate of benefit.
3) For claims established before July 1st, the benefit rate established when the claim was made will continue to apply until the claim is ended.
4) As an employee, you will contribute at the new rate starting June 30th 1968, and your new contribution rate is shown in the contribution table above.
5) For earnings of less than $20.00 a week, most employees are credited with a contribution for half a week. However, farm employees and fishermen do not pay any contributions for earnings of less than $9.00 a week. But if they have earnings from $9.00 to $19.99, they pay 10¢ and are credited with a contribution for half a week.
6) If you work in lumbering and logging, and if your contribution weeks are determined by applying divisors to the number of cords or board feet produced, your contributions will be at the rate for earnings of $100 a week. This was formerly $69.

Revised copies of the Employer's Handbook and Table of Deductions will be mailed before June 30th 1968 to all employers registered with the Unemployment Insurance Commission.
In addition, booklets and tables for employers in logging and fishing will also be distributed at a later date.

These booklets and tables will contain detailed information on the amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act passed by Parliament in March of this year. If you have further questions or wish more information, the nearest office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission will be glad to help you.

We suggest that you keep this notice handy for future reference.

FILLS VOID LEFT BY TORY WARRIOR

Now It's 'Follow Pierre' in Diefenbaker Land

(Special to The Times)

WINNIPEG — The end of a political era that saw Diefenbaker Conservatives dominate Manitoba's rural areas could come with dramatic suddenness here Tuesday night.

When the 1968 election campaign began in April it was taken for granted that the Liberals might pick up at least one of the province's five urban ridings but that the farm vote would remain faithful to the Tories swept in on Mr. Diefenbaker's coattails in 1957 and 1958.

But that was two months ago, before Manitoba farmers—accustomed to following John began to follow Pierre—possibly to fill the void left when the chief refused to budge from his Saskatchewan constituency.

DESPERATE TORIES

It wasn't until the past week that desperate Tories managed to coax the old warrior out of his Prince Albert retreat.

Mr. Diefenbaker came to Manitoba to bolster besieged Conservative candidates in the farm constituency of Marquette and the mixed urban-rural riding of Selkirk. The crowds of 1958 turned out again but there was a suspicion they were there mainly to join in a last hurrah for the man who had given the western farmer a feeling of belonging for 10 years.

The same night, June 19, when Mr. Diefenbaker was addressing a rally of 1,800 in a suburban Winnipeg country club, T. C. (Tommy) Douglas was making his last pitch for Manitoba's NDP candidates in Winnipeg's civic auditorium. He drew 3,800 of the faithful and observers agreed it was a good rally even if it didn't match the socialist's better meetings of the past.

Mr. Stanfield has made his last appearance here and Prime Minister Trudeau will make a non-political visit to Winnipeg Sunday to lead the Red River Exhibition parade through downtown streets.

Now that the major rallies are all over, observers here are sitting back trying to figure out just what happened during the past two months.

Most of them agree they have underestimated the appeal of Mr. Trudeau to the voter who has grown very weary of the old-style politician.

Most of them also agree that Trudeau spells votes for the Liberals.

The only question they have left to solve is: how many?

If Trudeaumania is as potent as it seems—and if it can be translated into votes—it almost seems safe to say that there isn't a "safe" Tory seat left in Manitoba.

Manitoba lost one of its 14 seats in the recent redistribution. At dissolution, Conservatives held 10 of the 14, the NDP three and the Liberals one.

The safest ridings in Manitoba on the eve of the election appear to be two Winnipeg seats, North and North Centre, held by NDP veterans Stanley Knowles and David Orlikow.

Next to them come two former Conservative seats, Brandon and Lisgar, held in the last parliament by former northern affairs minister Walter Dinsdale and George Muir respectively.

COULD CUT LEAD

Although Brandon is expected to remain in the Tory column, even Conservatives agree that Mr. Dinsdale is in trouble and that Liberal James Bates could cut into his majority. But the veteran Conservative will have to be in very deep trouble to see his 1965 majority of 8,089 disappear entirely. The situation in Lisgar is somewhat similar with Liberal Don Livingstone giving Mr. Muir an unexpectedly strong battle.

Manitoba's other nine ridings offer tussles with varying degrees of intensity.

In the former Conservative strongholds of Winnipeg South and South Centre, the Tories are fighting for their political lives. Businessman James R. Richardson is slightly favored to add South to the Liberal camp. But his opponent, L. R. (Bud) Sherman, a member of the last House, has by no means given up.

Biggest upset of all could take place in South Centre which was regarded as a sure thing for the Conservatives when former Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin announced he would contest the riding.

Now, however, he is given a no better than 50-50 chance of holding on against Liberal E. B. Osler.

TWO DOG-FIGHTS

Both Churchill and Selkirk constituencies are considered dog-fights with the NDP, Conservative and Liberal candidates claiming victory.

Dauphin may be the third safest Tory seat but victory there, although likely, certainly isn't conceded by the Liberals.

Former Manitoba Liberal MLA Rod Clement is given the slightest of edges in the farm riding of Marquette, while Provencher and Portage could go to the candidates of either major party.

That leaves St. Boniface—the lone Liberal seat on the Prairies after the 1965 vote. The riding is still there but the former MP isn't. Veterans Affairs Minister Roger Teillet lost his bid for re-nomination to St. Boniface Mayor Joseph Guay.

It could be that by switching candidates the Liberals also managed to switch the seat to the NDP columns. There is a large socialist bloc of votes in the riding and, although Mr. Guay is thought to have a slim edge, his defeat is a possibility.

Or, as one Liberal put it: "The only doubtful Liberal seat in Manitoba is St. Boniface."

CLOSE RACE IN 24 RIDINGS

Trudeaumania May Add Five More Ontario Seats

Special to The Times

TORONTO — Barring feverish Trudeaumania, the Progressive Conservatives can count on 21 seats in Ontario and the New Democratic Party on nine. The Liberals have a base of 23.

There are close races in 24 other constituencies, and in 23 of these the Liberal candidates could win, in some cases handily, if the public interest in Prime Minister Trudeau translates into support at the ballot box.

The one close-race riding in which Mr. Trudeau's drawing power will likely not effect the outcome is Oshawa-Whitby, where the fight is between the PC candidate and the New Democrat.

Of the other 23, in eight seats the battle is between a Liberal and Conservative, in 11 between a Liberal and New Democrat, in three there is a three-way fight, and in one, High Park, there is a four-way fight.

If Mr. Trudeau's charm can tip the delicately balanced scales in all 23 of these ridings, the Liberals could come out of Ontario with 56 of the 88 seats, which would be five more than they held in the last Parliament when there were 85 Ontario seats. This would give the PCs 21 and the New Democrats nine, not counting Oshawa-Whitby.

These figures also exclude the riding of Stormont-Dundas, where Speaker Lucien Lamoureux is sure to be elected as an independent.

If there is a real swell of Trudeaumania, it may push another three of the 21 seats in which the Conservatives are strong — Grenville-Carleton, Ottawa West, and Leeds — into the Liberal fold, which would give them a landslide 59 seats.

Roughly, both geographically and on a basis of spheres of party influence, the province can be divided in seven broad areas — Toronto and district (25 seats), Niagara Peninsula including Hamilton (10), southwest (21), Windsor area (three), southeast (eight), Ottawa Valley (nine), and the north (12).

In Toronto and district, bounded by and including Oshawa-Whitby, Ontario, York-Simcoe, and Peel South, the Liberals are out front in nine seats (Davenport, Eglinton, Etobicoke, Parkdale, Rosedale, Spadina, Trinity, York East, and York-Scarboro) and the New Democrats in four (Broadview, Greenwood, Scarboro West, and York South).

There is a Liberal-PC race in six of them (Don Valley, Ontario, Peel South, St. Paul's, York North, and York Simcoe), a Liberal-NDP race in three (Lakeshore, York Centre, and York West), and a three-way race in Scarboro East.

In the Niagara Peninsula, including Hamilton, the Liberals are ahead in seven of the 10 seats (Brant, Halton-Wentowrth, Hamilton East, Lincoln, Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, and Welland), the NDP in two (Hamilton Mountain and Hamilton-Wentworth), and the Tories in Hamilton West.

In the southwest, the rural area in which the Tories hold sway, there are 21 seats and the Conservatives can almost certainly count on 12 of them (Grey-Simcoe, Huron, Kent-Essex, Lambton Kent, London West, Middlesex, Oxford, Parry Sound-Muskoka, Perth, Simcoe North, Wellington, and Wellington Grey).

The Liberals lead in three (Bruce, Kitchener and Peel-Dufferin-Simcoe), and the New Democrats will likely hold Waterloo.

In Windsor, fortress of Senator Paul Martin, the Liberals are way out front in Windsor West and Essex, but face a fight with the New Democrats in Windsor-Walkerville.

In an area which could be broadly described as the southeast, the Conservatives again are most influential, and should have no problems holding Lennox-Addington, Hastings, Prince-Edward-Hastings, and Victoria Haliburton.

The Tories lead in Leeds but Trudeaumania might upset them. The Liberals can count on Kingston and the Islands, Peterboro, and Northumberland Durham.

In the Ottawa Valley, the Liberals should hold five seats (Glengarry-Prescott, Ottawa-Carleton, Ottawa Centre, Ottawa East, and Renfrew North), and might pick up Grenville-Carleton and Ottawa West, although in both the Conservatives have the edge.

The riding of Lanark and Renfrew appears bound for the PC fold.

There are close battles being waged in half of the 12 seats in the north. The Liberals and PCs are tussling for Sault Ste. Marie, all three parties for the new riding of Thunder Bay, and the Liberals and New Democrats are fighting down to the wire in Fort William, Sudbury, Cochrane and Timmins.

The Liberals should have no trouble holding Kenora-Rainy River, Port Arhtur, Nipissing, and Algoma, and the New Democrats lead in Timiskaming and Nickel Belt.

FORECAST: 60 SEATS FOR GRITS

Attendance at Rallies Not the Best Indicator

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Ottawa Bureau

MONTREAL — Prime Minister Trudeau came out on top both in head counts and in debating points on the two-nations, special-status issue in the past seven days campaigning, the final full week of the campaign.

Last Saturday in Quebec City he packed in five times as many people as Robret Stanfield was to draw on Wednesday at his main rally in Quebec City.

And the wide news coverage given Mr. Stanfiled's demand that the prime minister repudiate Liberal advertisements charging him with supporting a two-nations, special-status policy, posed a major threat to the credibility of those Quebec Conservative candidates who have been campaigning on these twin themes.

But there may be a little less than meets the eye to these two Liberal advantages.

Attendance at campaign rallies has in the past been a conspicuously bad indicator of the coming vote.

In 1965, when he failed miserably at the polls in Quebec, John Diefenbaker outdrew Lester Pearson at meetings in both Quebec City and Montreal.

The weakening of what had been the Conservatives apparently friendly posture toward two nations and special status could have negligible effects at the polls.

A minority is intensely interested in the constitution. But the man in the street, and especially the man on the back country road, appears totally unconcerned with it.

The issue of Criminal Code amendments on homosexuality and abortion and of divorce law reform has been of much more apparent help to the Conservatives than the constitutional question has.

The most celebrated boast of the campaign was made by an old Union Nationale man in Matane: We beat Lesage with the autobus; we'll beat Trudeau with the omnibus."

(The long bus rides imposed on children by the establishment or regional schools was one of the most severe complaints against the former Lesage government in rural areas of Quebec.)

The impact of this issue is expected to be felt mainly in the rural areas. But it may be of greater help to the Ralliement des Creditistes than to the Conservatives.

At least two minsiters, Jean Marchand in Langelier and Jean-Luc Pepin have hard fights on their hands. Mr. Marchand particularly is hurt by unemployment in the Quebec City area especially as a result of the close of the George T. Davie shipyards in Lauzon.

But the odds, though narrow, favor the re-election of both ministers. Mr. Marchand's hard fight in 1965 was against the Creditistes, not the Conservatives, and there may be enough die-hard Creditiste supporters left to hold the Conservative vote down.

On paper the odds also favor Eric Kierans who is running against Quebec NDP leader Robert Cliche in Duvernay. But Mr. Cliche has great popularity and French mother tongue going for him and in this case the statistical odds could be overruled.

Duvernay remains the NDP's best hope to win their first Quebec seat. Their gain between 1963 and 1965 was biggest in Montreal Notre Dame de Grace but Prime Minister Trudeau's popularity is insurance for Liberal Warren Allmand in this largely English-speaking constituency.

At least 55 seats look safe for the Liberals with a strong possibility of reachng 60.

Conservatives can expect small gains but as the campaign neared its end their original target of 20 looked over-optimistic.

ALBERTA

Grit Candidate Also Repudiates Anti-Tory Ad

Special to The Times

CALGARY — A few hours after Prime Minister Trudeau repudiated an anti-Tory ad in Calgary newspapers, Calgary South Liberal candidate joined the repudiation.

Liberal Pat Mahoney had placed the ads in last Saturday's papers and since then the ads have become a national issue.

During an Alberta swing, Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield charged the Liberals with being "deliberately misleading . . . telling lies."

The prime minister, during his Calgary stopover Tuesday, said there was nothing to repudiate. Mr. Mahoney echoed the remark.

FOLLOWED LEADER

But at a political forum Thursday Mr. Mahoney followed the prime minister's lead in repudiating the remarks. He said he was satisfied the advertising campaign had "smoked the Conservatives out."

"When Mr. Stanfield says he believes in one nation, I believe him . . . but I don't know what is going on in Quebec," he said.

The ads included a dialogue by Mahoney, the 39-year-old president of the Calgary Stampeders Football Club, which said in part:

"The Hon. Robert Stanfield says two nations . . . special status. So does Monsieur Faribault of the Conservative Party. So does the Union Nationale Party of Quebec. Special status . . . two nations."

Advertising on a similar theme had also been done by Nick Taylor, 40, fighting veteran Conservative Douglas Harkness in Calgary Centre.

The upshot of the whole episode is that voters on both sides of the fence are still confused about who stands for what on national unity, and when it comes to voting Tuesday the controversy will likely have little effect.

SOUND SYSTEM SILENT

Southern Alberta got its four-hour jab of Trudeaumania Monday night and Tuesday. The prime minister greeted at Calgary International Airport 11:15 p.m. Monday by upwards of 2,500 persons.

But when he came to speak to the crowd embarrassed officials found the sound system had broken down. Some Liberals whispered sabotage, but it was generally agreed that no one had bothered to check the system in the excitement of the event.

Unfortunately for the organizers, the coffee party rally next morning was at a time when most people were working and only 3,000 turned out. It was lunchtime when the party reached Medicine Hat for a park picnic and 7,500 "Hatters" took in the event.

CAMPAIGN BOOST

The Trudeau visit gave southern Alberta Liberals a late-campaign boost, noticeable next day when dozens of new volunteers approached riding headquarters.

As the campaign draws to a close, Liberals are being given a chance of winning a fifth seat in Alberta. Nick Taylor, an independent oil executive, could narrowly beat Doug Harkness creating one of the biggest upsets in the election.

Mr. Harkness has been in the House since 1945 and has been regarded by Tories and Liberals as being virtually unbeatable — especially by someone unknown to the public.

The two are fighting in a riding created in the last redistribution. Mr. Harkness previously held the Calgary North seat which is now being fought for by Eldon Woolliams whose Bow River riding disappeared in the shuffle.

Other likely Liberal victors are Medicine Hat (H. A. Olson), Calgary South (Pat Mahoney), Athabasca (Mike Maccagno) and Edmonton-Strathcona (Dr. Hu Harries).

STREET PLAN ONE-WAY

Victoria's first paired one-way streets will come into being Sept. 19.

Yates and Fort have been selected by the Victoria city traffic committee to funnel traffic one-way west on Yates and one-way east on Fort in an attempt to ease downtown traffic congestion.

On June 25 city officials will unveil the new plan for businessmen and other interested parties. City traffic engineer Dave Campbell will be presented with maps and diagrams to explain the reasons for the one-way streets and answer any questions.

The meeting is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. at the Dominion Hotel.

ELECTION ROUNDUP

Bar-Closing Law May Be Tested

Times News Services

OTTAWA — New Brunswick bar and tavern owners face possible federal prosecution if they open after polls close on election day, next Tuesday.

Bernard A. Jean, New Brunswick justice minister, said Wednesday the provincial government is considering allowing the bars and taverns there to open when the polls close at 8 p.m. ADT.

But a federal justice department official said today if authorities in his department decide this is a violation of the Canada Elections Act, they would take action against any owner who opens Tuesday.

Such an action, he said, would be based on the province's lack of authority to override a federal statute.

Jean-Marc Hamel, chief electoral officer, said today a section of the act has been assumed to mean that taverns and bars must remain closed throughout a federal election day.

The act says they have to close during "the polling day." However, there is no legal interpretation of what constitutes a polling day.

The justice department official said the federal act would supersede any provincial statute on the same subject.

AYLMER, Que.—Creditiste Leader Real Caouette predicted Thursday night that his party would win 34 seats in Quebec and one in New Brunswick in the June 25 federal election.

Mr. Caouette told about 300 persons at a rally in this town about eight miles west of Ottawa that political pundits in 1962 predicted Creditistes would get no seats. They got 26.

"This time, after touring Quebec, I can tell you it will be even better than in 1962," he said.

★ ★ ★

The former Liberal finance minister also said the Stanfield plan would not help apartment dwellers, who would need to pick up in general taxes the income tax relief that homeowners received.

Mr. Stanfield promised earlier this week that a Conservative government would make the bulk of interest payments on home mortgages exceeding seven per cent deductible for income tax purposes and estimated the initial annual cost to Ottawa at $25,000,000.

Mr. Sharp said it was the wrong way to attack Canada's housing problem, which he claimed must be met by tackling the high costs and prices of inflation.

★ ★ ★

OTTAWA—The destruction of election posters in six Ottawa and Hull, Que., federal ridings has cost candidates for the June 25 general election an estimated $6,000.

A spokesman said Consumer Affairs Minister John Turner has lost about $1,200 in destroyed campaign posters in the new Ottawa-Carleton riding.

His Conservative opponent, Ken Binks, estimates his loss at $400.

★ ★ ★

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Trudeau said in the final CBC-TV free-time political broadcast Thursday night that separatists are not alone in Quebec in working against national unity.

He said that other parties—and he named the Conservatives and the NDP—are talking about special status for Quebec and the two-nations theory, "and that's against unity."

★ ★ ★

WOODSTOCK, Ont.—External Affairs Minister Sharp claimed Thursday that Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield damaged his credibility in the business community with his last-minute campaign promise to attack high interest home mortgages with tax allowances.

Mr. Sharp told a press conference that businessmen quickly recognized that the Stanfield plan would be open to abuse and that it was not practical answer to Canada's housing problem.

"Nothing caused a greater loss of confidence in Mr Stanfield in the business community," said Mr. Sharp of the Conservative leader's proposal.

VIET GAS TESTED IN CANADA

LONDON (CP) — A London university lecturer claims that the United States is using a lethal gas in South Vietnam that was first developed in Britain and tested in Canada. Dr. Steven Rose, Imperial College biochemist, maintained in an interview today the riot control gas known as CS was tested at the Suffield defence research experimental station 30 miles north of Medicine Hat.

A spokesman for the Defence Research Board in Ottawa confirmed that the gas was tested a few months ago at the Suffield defence research establishment.

$5,500 Raised By Walkathon At L. Cowichan

LAKE COWICHAN — Proceeds from the recent 10-mile walkathon staged by Lake Cowichan Guide Association have topped $5,500 and are still rising.

Acting secretary Mrs. Mel Miller said today: "The response has been overwhelming. "There are still some pledges outstanding and I think they will come in."

The walk was sponsored by the Guides in aid of the Kiwanis camp for handicapped children on Lake Cowichan and is expected to open shortly.

Two Youths Given Year in Drug Case

Two 20-year-old youths were sentenced Wednesday to one year each in the Young Offenders, Unit at Haney for traffing in marijuana on Victoria streets.

Rolland H. Lock and Daniel V. Headdy pleaded guilty to being in possession of marijuana on May 14 last. They said they had been to Seattle and purchased a kilo of the drug.

When arrested by Saanich police, near the White Spot cafe, they had about three ounces of the drug left and cash amounting to $388.

Lock told police they would share the proceeds of the sales.

"They are not serious professional traffickers who make a living out of selling marijuana," said Judge Montague Drake. "Nevertheless this is a very serious offence.

"I believe that proper training and re-orientation would be appropriate for both of them, and I trust they will get this at the Young Offenders Unit."

Victoria lawyer David Skillings, appearing for the defence, said Rolland had considerable ability as a modeller in clay and would benefit from training in the art.

Mr. Skillings said suspended sentences have been given in Vancouver recently for drug offences.

Murray Holmes, for the Crown, said suspended sentences were given for possession of drugs, not for trafficking in them.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Shorter Sessions Forecast by Laing

PARKSVILLE — Indian Affairs and Northern Development Minister Arthur Laing predicted Thursday a swing toward the British system of shorter parliamentary sessions for Canada.

Mr. Laing, seeking re-election in Vancouver South, told a meeting here he agrees with Prime Minister Trudeau there must be more involvement by the public in politics. But this would require a change in the way parliamentary sessions are conducted.

The minister suggested that each session should last only two or three months with longer recesses in between, as is the case in Britain, in order to allow the members to spend more time in their home ridings.

* * *

This would allow members to remain better informed on the needs of their areas, and the increased personal contact would naturally generate a greater interest by the public.

Mr. Laing said he is confident this will come about soon.

CAMERON HITS DISPARITY

20% of Canadians 'Below Poverty Line'

NANAIMO — Twenty per cent of Canadians live below the poverty line, Colin Cameron, NDP candidate for Nanaimo-Cowichan and the Islands, said here Thursday.

"We should have a more realistic evaluation of our society," Mr. Cameron said.

He spoke of economic disparity as the main obstruction to national unity, and said: "Prime Minister Trudeau has been ill-advised to meet the issue head on with Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson."

Regarding the superannuation fund, Mr. Cameron said the federal government has created "a disgraceful situation by promising the civil service that their pensions would be reviewed.

"But we've never had any reasonable explanation why the government hasn't used the pension fund already there. The civil service has had shabby treatment by the government."

Speaking on Bill C-186, which proposes to separate areas of negotiations for Canadian labor unions, Mr. Cameron said:

"There appears to be a grave misunderstanding about the purposes of this bill. It is a federal measure and only affects labor under federal jurisdiction, such as railway employees.

"The purpose of this bill is to gragment negotiations, so that B.C. workers can bargain in their own areas, not as a whole throughout the country."

DAY SCHOOL PROGRAM

Americans Offer to Aid Berry-Picking Indians

DUNCAN — Two Washington State migratory officials visited Cowichan Indian band officials Thursday to discuss a day school program starting in July for the children of migrating berry-pickers.

About 45 Cowichan Indian families go berry-picking in the United States each summer.

Schoolteacher Richard Gregory said: "The Indians are an important part of our economy as without them we could not lift the fruit crop.

"We want to let them know we want them as well as need them."

Director Jerome Altheide of the Puyallup-Stuck Valley migrant program said similar meetings are being held at Vancouver, Saanich and Powell River.

ADULTS TOO

"We want to tailor the program to the people's needs."

Mr. Gregory said the program is designed to accommodate adults as well as children if necessary.

"The children's program not only releases berry-picking adults from worry about their children but enriches the youngsters' education."

Cowichan community development worker George Manuel welcomed the education program but said he hoped there would also be improvement in health conditions.

He said a visit last year to Washington revealed appalling health conditions for migratory berry-pickers.

Woman Fined $100

A woman was fined $100 Thursday for shoplifting a pair of slippers and a toy car from the Bay Wednesday.

Mary Burton, 3080 Carroll, pleaded guilty to theft under $50.

Police said the value of the goods was $2.95.

Nanaimo to Ask Quick Action On New Schools

NANAIMO — Quick approval will be asked by the school board for two major construction projects in a meeting Monday with education department officials.

Additions to Wellington school and a new Cedar junior secondary school must be given the go-ahead and working drawings made so they can be ready for 1969, local board officials say.

When the buildings are ready they will accommodate a further 600 pupils from the district.

Additions to Fairview, Park Avenue, Seaview and Chase River schools at a cost of $163,000 will be done by Burdett Construction Company of Vancouver.

GOLD RIVER — West Vancouver Island school board officials will meet in Tahsis July 16 to discuss a new school for the area.

District superintendent P. C. Grant said a start must be made to provide necessary information for the department of education. He estimated six months will be needed before plans can be accepted.

The school is for students from Kyuquot, Fair Harbor, Zeballos, Ezperanza, Tahsis and Gold River.

If plans were approved a referendum would be held in Tahsis. A start on construction would have to be made in January to ensure a 1969 opening.

ACTIVE TWO YEARS, MAYOR REPORTS

60 Subdivisions at N. Cowichan

NORTH COWICHAN — A total of 60 new subdivisions have been approved by North Cowichan council in the past two years.

Mayor Donald Morton said Thursday this included one 90-lot project at Somenos.

He indicated council has taken the first step toward establishing a Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation subdivision of 15 acres at North Chemainus.

Mayor Morton said he hopes work will start this summer.

* * *

Council approved plans submitted by Arrow Transfer Ltd. to construct a transport depot on Herd Road between the Trans-Canada Highway and Somenos Road.

Arrow has one of the main contracts for hauling log chips out of the Lake Cowichan district.

The company is operating from temporary quarters at Crofton.

Mayor Morton expressed "surprise and concern" that council received only one bid for supplying two trucks to the public works department.

Tenders were invited from all local companies.

He referred the matter to the public works committee to consider inviting outside tenders, and also the question of a policy of purchasing just one make of truck and employing their own mechanic.

* * *

Municipal assessor Ivan Graham has confirmed as correct assessments made by a former employee.

Mayor Morton said Mr. Graham personally checked the assessment made at the home of Mrs. Shirley Mah, Crofton, after she appeared at the last council meeting alleging inaccurate house measurements.

Mr. Graham also confirmed the assessment made at the Chemainus South home of William Boykowich.

* * *

Chemainus-Crofton Christian Youth Council has been given the "all clear" by North Cowichan council to use municipal roads for a 22-mile "Miles for Millions" walk Sept. 14.

The Saturday march here will be part of a nationwide fund-raising campaign on behalf of Oxfam and the Canadian Cancer Society.

* * *

Farmer Norman Quist will receive a $200 grant from the council to assist him in efforts to clear Bonsall Creek and avoid flooding of his own and adjoining municipal and Indian property.

Mayor Morton said: "It's been a big problem for years and we will try to get Mr. Quist federal aid as well."

* * *

Council will write to the E & N Railroad company asking for brush to be cleared from the tracks at the approaches to the level crossing at Crozier Road, Chemainus.

4 on the floor, 5 in the seats,* 96 under the hood and only $2495 in the showroom.

This low priced Datsun wagon could well turn out to be the perfect family car.

It doesn't look like a box. Or park like a bus.

It can carry a family of five plus the faithful St. Bernard. Or two people and enough champagne and luggage to escape from the kids for a month.

But you don't give up one bit of car comfort. The attractively contoured body gives room inside without bulk outside. The independent front suspension picks its way over bumps like a cat. The luxurious interior remains whisper quiet. The windows-up ventilation system changes the air several times each minute as you drive. The strong heater-defroster quickly makes high noon out of chilly mornings.

There's security too. Smooth, sure disc brakes on the front. Safety glass all round. Three point seat belts. Door locks that can't spring even under extreme pressure. Unlimited visibility with no side-window blind spots.

As for pep. Heartwarming. This is the most powerful wagon in its class. It has 96 HP geared to deliver a top speed of 100 m.p.h. It cruises at freeway speeds with the solid feel of a thoroughbred sports car. And only sips at the gasoline . . . thanks to the advanced design of its overhead camshaft engine.

SPECIAL NOTE: See how the rear door swings up. There's no lip on the vinyl covered deck so that you can slide shopping or heavy packages in at knee height. No awkward lifting. Come to think of it . . . better than a car!

You can buy this smart looking wagon with sporty bucket seats and four on the floor for $2495 (suggested retail P.O.E.). Or the relaxing Borg-Warner Automatic, with bench seats, for about $200 more. Both offer you the big Datsun benefit . . . 100,000 mile reliability.

Check the Datsun wagons out at your nearest dealer. But we warn you. Once you've seen them it's hard not to get carried away.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Some prices rallied on curtailed offers and exporter interest in an otherwise dull trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Export interests were reluctant to make commitments in view of the Seaway workers strike.

Strong Surge In Active Trade

Industrials and oils led a strong surge on the Toronto Stock Market in active trading. Golds slipped.

Brokers said strength was due to Thursday's successful vote on the U.S. tax increase-spending cut bill in the House of Representatives.

On index, industrials gained 1.68 to 164.04, golds fell 1.71 to 211.16, base metals climbed .32 to 102.64 and western oils dipped .29 to 208.97.

Final volume was 3,611,000 shares compared with 3,419,000 Thursday.

In industrials, Imperial Oil jumped 2¼ to 67, Neon Products 2 to 35½, International Utilities 1⅞ to 54⅞, Rothmans 1⅞ to 26 and Imbrex 1⅜ to 13.

Placer Development gained 1½ to 27 and United Keno Hill ⅝ to 11.

Alminex dropped 25 cents to $5.00 and National Pete 20 cents to $3.45. Canadian Superior rose ¾ to 47¾.

AT NEW YORK the market held a gain in active trading, although profit taking trimmed some advances.

Gains outstripped losses by some 200 issues. Averages were well into plus territory.

Passage of the surtax-spending-cut bill was fairly well anticipated, and there was some profit taking on the news. The general trend, however, was higher, and the trend remained the same.

Ashland Oil was up about 4, National General and Hooker Chemical about 2 each.

Among Canadians International Nickel was up ⅝, Distillers Seagrams ¼, Granby Mining ¼ and Massey ⅛. Dome Mines was down 1⅛ and Alcan ⅛.

AT MONTREAL the passage of the U.S. tax bill and signs of progress in Washington-Hanoi peace talks pushed prices up.

Brokers attributed the uptrend to passage today of an income surtax and mandatory cut in federal spending bill by the U.S. Senate and a statement by the country's defence secretary that "there is some movement" in Vietnam peace talks.

Among industrials, Wajax and International Utilities advanced 1½ each to 17 and 54¼ with gains of 1¼ posted by Scott-Lasalle at 28½ and Great Britain-Canada Investment at 14¼.

Southam, McAllister and Molson A added 1 each to 49, 11⅝ and 25 respectively. Argus, which reported a 3.69 per cent increase in half-yearly earnings, went up ½ to 14.

In senior mines and oils, Hudson Bay Mining and Imperial Oil edged up one each to 56 and 65¾; B-A, ⅞ to 41⅛, and Texaco, ½ to 30.

CPR added 1½ to 59½, Royal Bank ½ to 18 on 7,260 shares and B.C. Forest, ⅜ to 15⅞.

AT VANCOUVER prices were mixed as mining issues started to recover from a continued slump in light trading this morning.

Neon Products advanced $1 in the industrials to $34.25, while Interior Breweries gained $1.25 to $11.25. Block Bros. dropped a quarter to $14.25 and Cunningham was off 37 cents at $10.25.

Volume leader in the mines was Tannex, posted for trading this morning, hitting a high of $1.25 at the opening and dropping back to $1.10 at 11:30 on 122,500 shares.

Highmont lost a quarter to $1.40, New Cinch Uranium fell 15 cents to $1, and Arctic posted the same loss to $3.95.

Leading gainer in the mines was Silver-Lee, advancing 15 cents to $1.35, while Bethlehem and Dynasty each added a dime to $7.40 and $7.60, respectively.

Oils were down in price with Stampede losing 11 cents to $1.43 and Giant Reef 15 cents to $1.35. Merit added one-half cent to 43½.

Mortgage Rate Drop Indicated

OTTAWA (CP)—The current 9⅛ per cent ceiling on National Housing Act mortgage interest rates will probably drop to 9 per cent and perhaps lower in July, August and September, latest financial statistics show.

The ceiling rate is geared to the investment yield on long-term government of Canada bonds at market prices, and this has been dropping in the last three weeks.

The change in the financial climate was reflected in Thursday's treasury bill auction and in a sharp drop in average yields on Government of Canada bonds.

Yields on 90-day treasury bills dropped to 6.66 per cent from 6.84 per cent a week ago and 6.95 per cent on June 6. The long-term bond yield, seven per cent a month ago, was down to 6.88 per cent on Wednesday and should drop further next week.

Day loans in the money market have dropped more than half a per cent in the past week to an average of 6.30 per cent.

Corporate bond yields have also dropped this week as part of a widespread recovery in the bond market.

The turnaround in interest rates should mean cheaper bond financing, lower bank interest rates and cheaper mortgages before long.

Container-Making Next Step

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Creation of a container-building industry in B.C. could follow development of revolutionary new shipping techniques.

For West Coast shipping, prospects are good, especially in the light of new port development, expansion of existing facilities and growing trade with the Pacific countries.

Kent

Making the containers will be a natural sequel to the containerization trend.

The containers are simply large, permanent packing boxes designed to be sealed at the point of origin, handled easily by automated or semi-automated methods for quick, safe delivery. Usually they are of steel or of aluminum, steel and wood and a standard size measures about 8 by 8 by 24 feet.

★ ★ ★

Currently there is only one company in Canada specializing in containers for the export industry, mostly dealing with automobiles, auto parts and agricultural implements. This is Livingston Industries of Tillsonburg, Ont.

British Columbia already possesses factories where trailers, campers and prefabricated buildings are made and sold competitively in many parts of the country—Fabco Manufacturing, and Campmobile Manufacturing, for example, both in the lower mainland area.

Since aluminum is smelted here and industrial plywoods originate here, there would appear to be no reason why containers—of similar construction—could not also be built in B.C.

Development of a new port at Roberts Bank is one impetus toward the use of shipping containers for bulk and manufactured goods in both import and export movements.

A precedent exists in the port of Vancouver, southern terminus for the White Pass and Yukon Route's wholly containerized service from the Yukon via Skagway, Alaska.

Lately there has been talk of a land-bridge using transcontinental rail lines from Vancouver to Halifax or some other Atlantic seaboard port as a fast leg in the trans-Pacific shipment of goods destined for Europe.

This concept would also use easily handled shipping containers for quick loading from ships to unit trains on this coast, and again on to ships for the Atlantic crossing.

Savings in both time and money are predicted by preliminary survey.

★ ★ ★

Further steps in the general direction of containerization are being taken by Canadian National Railways, which is taking a hard look at the land-bridge concept.

A container development branch has been announced by CN, with Rupert J. Tingley as general manager. He has just ended a six-month study of container use around the world.

CN wants to set up a Canada-wide container service, the immediate interest being CN's prospective role in a land-bridge, moving goods between Far East, European and inland Canadian points.

"We are also concerned with traffic which might originate or terminate in the U.S. but enter or leave the continent through a Canadian port," said E. J. Cooke, vice-president of special duties for CN.

The railway is thinking in terms of 300 containers per train, perhaps more, and of using double-tier loads per rail car.

A new technique for producing a cancer-fighting drug is claimed by Truett Laboratories, of Dallas, a division of Southwestern Drugs Corp.

The drug — l'Asparaginase — not yet approved for use in Canada, has been used in the U.S. for treatment of leukemia.

Truett Laboratories said Thursday it has developed a process that would turn out large quanities of the drug, an estimated 20 million units per week, which was expected to lower the cost.

Shareholders of Silverknife Mines Ltd. will hold their annual meeting at 2 p.m. Monday in the Empress Hotel's Princess Louise room.

This is the company with far northern B.C. holdings that was suspended for eight weeks last winter after certain claims were made relating to mineral values based on preliminary survey.

The company has since acquired financing for more detailed exploration work this season, starting with bulldozer trenching said to have at least partly confirmed earlier statements.

★ ★ ★

Similar work on behalf of Silver Standard Mines Ltd. 25 miles northwest of Smithers has turned up two high-grade silver zones, leaving company officials enthused about the prospects.

They point out that work is still in its early stages.

Silver Standard, in January, reported on property on which it had taken an option, lying 20 miles southeast of the company's former producing property that was highly profitable over the period 1948-58.

The new prospect has now been identified as being on Causqua Creek, to which a road has been built, and the holding increased to more than 100 claims.

Stock in Silver Standard meanwhile has gone from the 61-64-cent range at the end of last week to a high this week of 88 cents. Thursday's range was 74-79 cents.

★ ★ ★

Dome Babine Mines Ltd. reports it has secured 76 new copper-silver claims 28 miles west of Smithers, on which stage one of an exploration program covering the discovery is being done partly with $38,000 from a $72,000 underwriting.

Preliminary surface work and diamond drilling are planned.

Computer-Operated Brakes Next Year

By DAVID W. CHUTE

DETROIT (UPI) — A computer-controlled, anti-skid device that will be available on some 1969 model cars has been hailed as "the most significant braking advance in many years" by its developers.

Kelsey-Hayes Co., a major auto supplier, demonstrated the new braking system Thursday. Ford Motor Co. has announced it will be available on its new cars for next year at a price of about $150.

The device consists of individual magnetic sensors installed in each rear wheel connected to a computerized module which operates a control valve regulating the hydraulic pressure to the rear wheel brakes.

ON-OFF

When a rear wheel locks to start a skid, hydraulic pressure is reduced automatically, allowing the wheel to move again, then pressure is reapplied until it skids again. The on-off braking, all automatically controlled, continues until the car comes to a stop.

W. D. MacDonnell, president of Kelsey-Hayes, said the chief virtue of the device was the ability of the driver to retain stops, on wet pavement, on ice or snow where locking rear wheels cause skidding out of a straight line.

Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. has estimated that one out of every four accidents involve a car skidding out of control.

SAME LINE

No claim is made that the anti-skid device would reduce stopping distance. But, MacDonnell said, the device will stop a car in at least the same distance with the driver retaining control. He cited the case of control of his vehicle in panic panic-stop in a multibple-lane highway where a skidding car would tend to veer out of its lane, increasing the risk of a crash with another car.

A straight-line stop, obtainable with the anti-skid device, would eliminate the danger of collision with a car in another lane.

Kelsey-Hayes expects to produce about 38,000 of the anti-skid units this year. Officials said lower costs for the unit would be possible with development of integrated circuitry for the computer and higher mass production.

Moreover, with a computer in the car, natural development could lead to many other electronic controls on the car from the same computer system. Among the added items the computer could control would be locking of doors, intensity of headlights, regulation of sound volume on the car radio, automatic control of carburetor tuning and accurate regulation of speed control.

Flakes Lead To Gold Deposit?

PORTLAND (AP)—Flakes of gold are found on the ocean floor and the U.S. government is going to drill off the southern Oregon coast this summer to see if the flakes are an indication of larger deposits.

The Geological Survey and the Bureau of Mines will go into the drilling program jointly. The geological survey reported that the finding of widely scattered gold flakes resulted from a study by its marine geologists and those of Oregon State University.

Mr. Stanfield's demand that Mr. Trudeau repudiate Liberal advertising accusing him of standing for two nations and special status for Quebec, the prime minister said:

"All kinds of advertisements are published during elections and I don't think that I'm going to ask the leader of the Conservative party to disavow this."

The advertisement, paid for by the Madawaska-Victoria Conservative Association, covered a full page in an Edmundston weekly newspaper, La Madawaska.

It was headed, "Some political opinions of Jean-Maurice Simard, Robert Stanfield's candidate," and reproduced the text of a speech by Mr. Simard, Conservative candidate in Madawaska-Victoria.

It said in part:

"Pierre Elliott Trudeau with his bill on divorce, on abortion and on homosexuality has terrified all those who still believe in the principles of Christian morality."

The advertisement warned that "A Liberal vote would be a vote for socialism; a Liberal vote would be a vote against Christian morality."

Mr. Trudeau said that "what is most distressing is that certain politicians and certain parties are running their campaign on this sort of appeal to prejudice, this sort of appeal to passion and this sort of appeal to distorted ideas."

He said he had not noticed Conservatives in most of the other provinces campaigning against the Criminal Code amendments.

But he said that in some corners of the country "where they think they will be overlooked they campaign with this sort of thing."

The prime minister left it up to Mr. Stanfield to "do what he likes with this sort of ads paid and published by his party."

"It's his matter, not mine," Mr. Trudeau said.

YOUNG APPLAUD

Although a few of the older members of the audience sat stonily silent while Mr. Trudeau defended modification of the law to meet the needs of the pluralist society, the young and middle-aged adults applauded strongly and often.

Mr. Trudeau drew the distinction between a crime and a sin. He said a sin was a matter for the individual conscience or for one's confessor but not for the police.

The laws, he said, could not be based on the rules of one particular church.

"The wars of religion are over," he said.

Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick was on the platform with the prime minister for his last meeting of a day's campaigning in the province.

Mr. Robichaud said that any rumor that he was not supporting Mr. Trudeau was "not only false but idiotic and not only idiotic but super-idiotic."

The premier said he had "supported Mr. Trudeau from the beginning."

All-day rain and drizzle, among the rare bad weather of the Trudeau tour, forced two of the day's rallies indoors and brought a third to a stop minutes after the prime minister began to speak.

At Saint John Thursday morning Trudeau supporters filled the 1,300 seats and the aisles of a movie theatre across the street from King's Square where the rally was to have been held. Another 1,000 persons listened outside over a loudspeaker.

There were 1,000 people on hand despite the drizzle when Mr. Trudeau arrived at Fredericton in the afternoon but a heavy downpour cut short his speech soon after it began.

Mr. Trudeau was to spend today and tonight in the Montreal area and move into Ontario Saturday, returning to Ottawa Saturday evening.

gone, the Liberals now had to face the people on economic problems such as unemployment, housing, interest rates and the cost of living.

Mr. Stanfield said he had talked about agriculture, about pollution and regional disparity and many other policies which the Conservative party was prepared to implement.

DISTORTION

"We in our party have told the Canadian people it is our intention to straighten out the mess the Liberals now have created in the economy. They have resorted to tactics of distortion and misrepresentation behind phoney issues," he charged.

Mr. Stanfield warned that the economy of Canada could not stand much more of the "carelessness and casualness of Liberal mismanagement."

Mr. Stanfield told the crowd at Yarmouth that the Progressive Conservative party is the party that will save Confederation.

Referring to Mr. Trudeau he said, "No man has ever spoken to so many people and said so little."

At Port Hawkesbury earlier in the day he drew a crowd of around 2,000 in a school auditorium with many more standing outside in rain.

WARREN
. . . controversial

U.S. Supreme Court Chief Steps Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earl Warren has resigned as chief justice of the United States, authoritative sources reported today.

The Californian was named to the top post on the U.S. Supreme Court in 1953 by President Eisenhower. At 77, he is known to have long felt it was time to step aside.

President Johnson, who expects to leave office himself when his term ends in January, will be able to name Warren's successor before he leaves.

The appointment is of critical significance on a court where appointees commonly serve for decades and the relative strength of the liberal and conservative factions can be reversed by the departure of a single justice — depending on the politics of the president who chooses the man to fill the vacancy.

The Warren years on the court have been marked by unrelenting controversy. From the historic 1954 decision on school segregation up to the equally sweeping housing discrimination handed down Monday, the court's actions have been headline-makers.

Ultra-conservatives, while generally outraged at the court generally outraged at the court in general, have had special dislike for Warren. For years there have been "Impeach Earl Warren" billboards in sections where anti-court sentiment runs strong.

Kinette Swim Entries Close

Saturday will be the last day to register for the Kinette Club's water safety and swim classes at the Kinsmen Gorge Park.

Registration will take place from 10 a.m. to noon at the park. There is a $2 fee for the two-week course.

Minimum age is eight and all children must be accompanied by adults at registration. There will be no refunds.

Classes start the first and third weeks in July. Proceeds go to Kinette charities.

ADVANCEMENT CURBED

Lag in Research Affects Industry

Industrial production and technical advances are being curbed because Canada doesn't spend enough on research, Victoria NDP candidate Dr. Harvey Richardson told Oak Bay Kiwanis Thursday night.

He said the Glassco report showed Canada spends less than .75 per cent of its gross national product on research and development. The United States spends 2.6 per cent and England 2.6 per cent.

The over-all effect is that Canada is falling rapidly behind, he said.

Because of the lack of opportunities in research, he added, university graduates and skilled workers are leaving Canada.

"If the country is to stand on its own feet, it must make a greater effort in the field of technical research."

He said the problem is further aggravated by foreign-owned companies with branches in Canada which refuse to accept Canadian inventions to protect their home-based plants.

"The inventions have to be sold abroad," he stated.

Mr. Richardson, a designer of astronomical instruments at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich, said Victoria is an ideal place to establish "new look" scientific branch industries.

"This type of industry wouldn't conflict with the residential aspects of the city."

The candidate said the NDP believed that union wages should be the same for workers across the country.

If a policy of wage disparity is allowed, he warned, it will result in disunity.

He favored a planned economy for Canada—like Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

"Norway with a smaller population than Canada can compete in world markets because it has a planned economy," he said. "There are no strikes in Sweden because they are settled by management and labor on the basis of production."

He blamed the government for the high price of drugs because, he claimed, it consistently refused to take action to break a monopoly on medicine.

Driver Jailed; Faced 5 Charges

A man was sentenced Thursday to 60 days in jail on two counts of driving under suspension and one of failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Antonio Debrago, 568 Leaside, was also fined $35 each on two counts of careless driving. His right to obtain a driver's license was suspended for a year.

Court was told Debrago was arrested May 9 after police observed him driving in the Town and Country parking lot.

EDMONTON SOARS

Pioneer Raiment Outgrown

By ELIZABETH FORBES

I last saw Edmonton seven years ago. Then it was a city of promise. Eyes turned speculatively down north. Flexing its muscles. Outgrowing its pioneer raiment. And very sure that someday it would be one of Canada's outstanding cities.

Forbes

Now I have seen Edmonton again. Today, it is an assured metropolis. Proud of its history but more intent on its future than its past. Still looking down north but with a certainty that it holds a vital place in the develpment of that vast land.

Today, it is not only a city of ideas but also a place where ideas become fact.

Ask any of its public-minded citizens and you'll be told "nothing can stop us now."

Indeed, they will add, without hesitation, that the "biggest and the best" of most everything of importance to Canada is right in their city.

Looking around, I found myself tempted to agree. In seven years the skyline has changed so much, only landmarks I actually recognized were the Macdonald Hotel (the "Mac" as it is affectionately called), and an old bridge that spans the North Saskatchewan River below the embankment where it stands.

* * *

Dominating that skyline now is the tall outline of the CPR's Chateau Lacombe, built almost entirely in the round and looking, from a distance, a little like the leaning tower of Pisa.

I had lunch at the top of the tower in a glass-walled dining room that revolves very slowly to give a panoramic view of the city.

Across the river I could see the university campus ... almost a city in itself. Its buildings house 17 different faculties and schools, as well as student quarters that include blocks for married couples where each unit is assured privacy through use of colorful flying buttresses.

A little further around and we could see the Al Raschid Mosque, first religious centre of its kind in North America and where shoes are removed, Iwas told, at entrance to the prayer room.

There was the spacious landscaped grounds around the Legislative Buildings, too. Then Churchill Square, with Edmonton's city hall on one side, its centennial library on the other and the magnificent CN Tower, across the corner.

* * *

I was informed that already the city hall, opened in 1957, is too small. The city rents three or more floors in the CN Tower for over-flow civic offices. And, it is likely when the proposed twin tower is completed behind the present one (for a transportation centre) a further three floors will be rented.

That is, if it has not been decided by then, to build a new city hall behind the present one and then tear the latter down. Already a study is being made of the possibility.

When the present city hall was opened it was believed it would meet the city's needs for at least 15 years. It was full and overflowing after the first 12 months.

This is Edmonton today. Redolent wth the wealthy smell of oil. A place of almost 400,000 people. Ambitious, robust and comparatively young. Looking ahead and not back.

As we finished our lunch high in the Lacombe Tower, the dining room had revolved full circle. We could look down into the centre of the city. It was then that my Edmonton friend spoke briefly of the past.

"Our pioneer fathers planned well," she said. "They gave us our wide, wide streets. Jasper Avenue has always been like that. Other main streets too.

"It has assured us today of a feeling of space, even in the dowtown areas. You don't find that in many other Canadian cities."

UN Picketed By Secretariat

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—Picket lines stood inside United Nations headquarters on Wednesday for the first time as the world body's 4,000-member secrtariat demonstrated against inflation.

Their target was the UN catering service which recently raised prices, blaming the increase on higher catering staff wages and a decision by a UN committee that the organization's eating places must pay their way.

ROLLING, AND HOPING . . .

Regrets Could Reduce Joy of Reaching Final

Ellison Tackled Teacher In B.C. Golf Semifinals

By ERNIE FEDORUK

If Ross Ellison shows up for the 36-hole match at Gorge Vale Golf Club on Saturday, he'll do so with great elation and some regrets.

The match will be for the B.C. Amateur championship. That's reason enough for the elation.

The regret may be interjected because to earn Saturday's invitation, Ellison was asked to defeat defending-champion Johnny Russell in today's semi-finals.

A pair of hometown favorites — Cec Ferguson and Arthur Donaldson — met in the other semi-final today.

They all powered their way into the semi-finals with positive victories at Gorge Vale on Thursday.

Ferguson, the City junior king playing his own course, was one under par for 12 holes and sidelined Colwood's Laurie Kerr 8 and 6.

Russell, looming as the man to beat, was two under par for the 14 holes it took to sideline Vancouver junior Tom Moryson, 5 and 4.

Ellison and Donaldson both posted 3-and-2 winning margins. Ellison stayed right with par to put out Dave Mick, the 17-year-old Gorge Vale youngster who captured medal honors Wednesday. Donaldson sidelined Brian Field of Bremerton, Wash.

That's some of the background, now back to Ellison and his regretful possibilities.

The 20-year-old University of B.C. student looms, behind Russell, as a hot candidate for the provincial Willingdon Cup team. If that is so, he blames two other Point Grey favorites for "taking me from a 75-76 shooter to the par-or-better class."

"If I had anyone to thank for helping me with my game," Ellison says, "it would be John Russell and (Point Grey pro) Dick Munn.

"Two or three times every week, John phones me up and gets me on the course. He's given me a thousand tips, especially on the mental attitude and in thinking around a course."

Big Putt on First Hole Started It

That's why an Ellison triumph today will bring on a mixed reaction.

And about Munn, the former Victorian, Ellison "just can't say enough about him. I had a flat swing, but Dick took me and made me change it . . . more upright for greater control.

"He's spent hours and hours with me."

Ellison happens to be handy for lessons because he works for Munn in the Point Grey shop. He also gets to play in "most tournaments" because Munn "practically pushes me out of the door."

From a standpoint of stroke average, only Russell stands ahead of Ellison on the mainland. That, combined with his advance to the semi-finals, gives Ellison one of the inside tracks for selection to the Willingdon Cup team.

He got off to a good jump against Mick, running in a 30-foot putt from the fringe of the green for a birdie three on the first hole of their quarter-final bout Thursday.

Mick took a bogey three on the second, par-three hole and Ellison went two up. When Ellison tapped in another birdie putt on the fourth to go three up, the outcome seemed never in doubt.

Ferguson put together his best game of the week and, combined with Kerr's inability to get untracked, that led to the day's most one-sided result.

Russell Was Four Under After 12

Ferguson went over par on only two holes—taking a five on the par-four fourth hole and a seven on the par-five ninth when he hooked his tee shot and had to take a lost-ball penalty. But along the way, the Esquimalt high student birdied 2, 7, 10 and 11.

"I'm just sorry I couldn't give Cec a better game. But I just couldn't concentrate," said Kerr. "I felt my concentration slipping in the final qualifying rounds, and it just never came back."

Against Moryson, Russell wielded a hot hand. He was four under par after 11 holes to grab a four-up lead. After that, it was merely a matter of running out the string.

The 43-year-old Donaldson also played sub-par golf to reach the semi-finals for the second straight year. Former greenskeeper at Gorge Vale and now (if you please) the greens superintendent at Vancouver Capilano, Art couldn't shake Field until the late going.

Donaldson was two up at the turn with a double bogey six on the eighth, but Field sliced the margin on the par-five 11th by sinking an eight-foot putt for an eagle three.

They halved the next three holes in par, and then came the turning point. Field hit a poor drive into rough. He gambled with a wood shot that failed, took two more strokes to get on the green and two-putted for a bogey six.

Donaldson took a par five and went two up, then closed out the match with a great iron shot on the par-three 16th. He hit his tee shot to within eight feet of the cup and sank the putt for a birdie to wrap it up.

DOUG PEDEN, Sports Editor

ON THREE FRONTS

Ball Leagues, Umpires Feud

An apparent friction between district baseball and softball Leagues and the Victoria Umpires' Association came into the open Thursday.

The differences came to a head at Central Park when two executive members of the Senior Men's Softball League took on umpiring chores in a game between Molsons and Bate Construction. Bates won, 8-6.

John Oster, president of the softball circuit, went on the bases while Ken Griffin, the league's secretary, moved behind the plate.

Oster said the executive made the move because the umpires' association consistently refused to "abide with any requests . . . or even meet us halfway . . ."

"We submitted a list of eight men who we felt were best qualified to umpire our games. When an official showed who was not on that list, we refused to allow him to umpire our game.

"We had no argument with the other official.

"Simply, we had to take a stand," said Oster.

Friction with the umpiring association also has been experienced by the Lower Island Women's League as well as the Senior Amateur Baseball League.

Senior League president Don Jessop said his circuit "played about a dozen games before coming to terms with the umpires' association."

"We met them part way," added Jessop, "but we requested the association not send a certain man to our games. However, he showed up the other night, and I guess we'll have to start again."

Wally Yeamans, speaking for the Women's League, said he objected strongly to "second-rate" umpires being assigned to his league.

"If we pay top prices," said Yeamans, "we're entitled to top men. The umpires' association didn't give them to us."

Yeamans said that, after checking with the chairman of the B.C. Softball Association, he recruited his own umpiring staff headed by "an approved official with a B.C. ticket."

Officials of the Umpires' Association could not be reached for comment this morning.

Future Is Now For Bate Boys

The youth-laden Bate Construction team has been tabbed as the Senior Men's Softball League entry of the future.

As far as Molsons were concerned, the "future" came around to Central Park on Thursday. Bates belted out 16 hits—the largest hit production recorded by any team this season—and nipped Molsons 8-6.

Molsons scored all their runs in the first inning for a 6-0 lead before southpaw Don Lyon came on to stymie them the rest of the way.

Doug Gregory collected three hits, including a three-run homer, and drove in four runs to lead the way. Don Lancaster also homered as every Bate batter managed at least one hit off Molsons' Larry Jay.

LIONS' HOME GAMES AWARDED CABLEVISION

B.C. Lions' manager Denny Vietch made a hurried visit to Victoria this week, but it was long enough to leave some good news for the city's football followers.

The news was let out Thursday by Les Curran, president of Victoria Cablevision Limited.

The firm once again has obtained rights to telecast Lions' Western Football Conference games to cablevision subscribers.

Since the sale of rights fell under jurisdiction of the Canadian League, and not the Lions, some doubts had been expressed earlier about the availability of the service. Normally, all home games in Victoria and within a 100-mile radius of Vancouver are "blacked out."

ADANACS CONNECT

Eastern Squads Stay With Script

By The Canadian Press

It was the same old story in the National Lacrosse Association's Eastern Division Thursday night.

Detroit Olympics, in first place almost since the start of the season and apparently determined to stay there, downed Montreal Canadiens 16-10.

The victory, Detroit's third this season in three meetings with Montreal, moved the Olympics six points ahead of second-place Peterborough Lakers.

The Lakers stayed in contention by trouncing Toronto Maple Leafs 18-9 before 2,100 fans in Peterborough.

In the only Western Division contest, Mike Gates scored the winning goal with two minutes left to give Portland Adanacs a 10-9 win over New Westminster Salmonbellies.

A crowd of 2,200 in Montreal saw Gaylord Powless pace the powerful Detroit team with four goals and an assist. Tom Conlin, Bob Brown, Larry Lloyd and Bill Squires added two goals each.

AHERNE SCORES FOUR

Brian Aherne scored four goals for the last-place Canadiens. Ken Crawford connected twice for Montreal.

Cy Coombes paced the Lakers with six goals. John Davis and Jim Vilneff scored three each while Jim Paterson and Larry Ferguson added two apiece. Single goals came from Terry Downer and Bill Armour.

A crowd of 1,900 at Portland watched the Adanacs take an early 6-3 lead then fall behind 9-6.

Bill Bradley, John Allen and Pates scored two goals each for Portland. Single goals came from Kerry Gallagher, Doug Wallsmith, Ivan Stewart and Jack Barclay.

Scoring two goals each for New Westminster were John Shmyr and Wayne Goss.

WAKEHAM HAS 77

Devlin, Still Early Leaders

TORONTO (CP)—Billy Casper has the gallery at the Canadian Open golf championship wondering what will happen when he stops driving for show and starts putting for dough.

Casper, one of the deadliest men around the greens on the U.S. professional golf circuit, took 34 putts in the opening round Thursday and still wound up just two strokes behind the first-round leaders—Bruce Devlin of Australia and Ken Still of the U.S.

Still and Devlin, who admitted they "played with a great deal of luck," carded three-under-par 67s over the 6,792-yard St. George's Golf Club layout. Casper shot a 69 to tie with five other Americans and Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., for third place in the 72-hole tournament that carries a $25,000 first-place prize.

ROLLING GREENS

"Those greens take a lot of playing after a miss because they're so rolly," said Casper, who is aiming for his third straight tournament victory in Canada. He won the Canadian Open and the $200,000 world championship in this country last year.

"I guess you could say I didn't putt exceptionally well," said Casper.

But Casper and a number of other top-name U.S. professionals agreed that a northwest wind gusting to 20 miles an hour turned the easy-looking course into a rolling green monster Thursday.

"It's tough to get the greens in a wind like this, but I understand from the local people that it isn't normal."

SOME DIDN'T MIND

The wind didn't appear to interfere with rounds by Devlin and Still.

Devlin said he "couldn't really remember hitting any fairway," but his dazzling recoveries and super 26-stroke putting carried him into a first-place tie and made "me feel I should be given a licence for stealing."

"I'm extremely embarrassed because I should have scored an 80."

He holed a 70-foot chip shot for a birdie four on the 15th hole and sank a pair of 15 footers for a birdie and a par.

Still blew a chance to take over sole possession of first place when he missed a three-foot putt on the final hole and three putted the green.

Ken Fulton of Trail had a fine 31 on the first nine but slipped to 40 on the second nine to finish with 71.

Wayne Vollmer, who managed to squeeze into the field because of a last-minute withdrawal, led the other B.C. pros in the field with 37-38—75. Victoria's Bill Wakeham carded 40-37—77 while Bob Cox of Vancouver had 32-42—74.

YACHTSMAN RESCUED

Three Days on a Rubber Raft

French yachtsman Jean de Kat was reported fit and well aboard a Norwegian freighter today after surviving three days in the mid-Atlantic in a tiny rubber life raft.

De Kat, 27, took to the raft Tuesday after his three-hulled yacht Yaksha broke up in a storm which scattered competitors in the single-handed trans-Atlantic race.

Fourteen others of the original 35 entrants have not been heard or sighted since the storm but race organizers are not yet worried. Eight carried no radio transmitters and others may be out of radio range or deliberately keeping their postions secret.

The race started from Plymouth, England, June 1 with Newport, R.I., as the destination.

De Kat built the 50-foot Yaksha himself.

A Royal Air Force plane crew spotted his raft near dusk Thursday and guided the 10,000-ton freighter Jagona to the rescue.

SHORTS IN SPORTS

These things have also been happening in the world of sport:

Tony Conigliaro, the sidelined young slugger of Boston Red Sox, says doctors have advised him the condition of his injured left eye has stabilized and given him hope he may return to baseball next year. Conigliaro suffered blurred vision after being hit by a pitched ball last August. . . . German middleweight boxing champion Jupp Elze, who died Thursday night from brain damage, was "doped" for the fight, the Cologne Institute of Legal Medicine announced today. Elze staggered to his corner and collapsed in the 15th round of a June 12 bout against Carlos Durnan and never regained consciousness . . .

Canada's Sandra Post, 20, and Germany's Gerda Whalen, 30, held a one-stroke lead entering today's second roound of the $20,000 U.S. Ladies' Professional Golf Association championship at Sutton, Mass. . . . Both fired one-under-par 72s despite high winds Thursday.

Greaves' Power Jolts Ingrahams

Gary Bishop and Bob Knowles lent power at the plate to boost Greaves to a 12-11 win over Ingraham in a Senior Amateur Baseball League game Thursday at Layritz Park.

Bishop lashed out a triple, double, two singles, while Knowles added a homer and two singles.

STORM STOPS CRICKET TEST

LONDON (Reuters) — Torrential rain and hailstones the size of marbles ended play after only 87 minutes Thursday as England and Australia met for their 200th test cricket match.

England scored 53 runs for the loss of one wicket in the morning and only one more ball was bowled before the storm broke after lunch.

DORIS BROWN ENTERS SATURDAY TRACK MEET

World Record Holder Opposes Anne in 440

Former pole vaulter who was a member of France's junior team, Gerard Dumas has been associated with Vancouver Olympic and Victoria YM-YWCA track clubs since arriving in Canada 10 years ago. Canadian track and field correspondent for the Paris paper L'Equipe, Dumas is submitting the following comments in the second of two articles on the international track and field meet scheduled Saturday at Centennial Stadium:

By GERARD DUMAS

Considered one of the fastest running surfaces in Canada, the new all-weather track at Centennial Stadium will receive a revealing test Saturday with the running of the international track and field meet sponsored by the Victoria YM-YWCA and the Victoria Daily Times.

In quantity and quality of contestants, the affair, which will also serve as trials for selecting B.C. athletes to compete for places on a Canadian national team, seems certain to be the greatest ever presented on the Island.

Adult stars from most of the top clubs in B.C., Washington and Oregon are included in the more than 650 entrants and will be going for medals in open competition, but youngsters will also grab shares of glory since age-class contests are also scheduled on the all-day program.

Age-class heats will begin at 10 a.m. Age-class finals and open heats are slated to start at 12:45 p.m. Finals of open events will begin at 6:30 and are expected to conclude about 9.

In Thursday's article I discussed probable performances of major contenders for victories in men's track events. Today, let's talk about what could happen in field contests and women's track events.

Wedmann aims at seven-foot jump

Even in the U.S., where track and field performances are usually among the best in the world, a seven-foot mark in the high jump is still a notable effort. Canada's most talented leaper, and national record holder, Wilf Wedmann of Simon Fraser University, has topped 6:10 and will be hoping to clear the magic seven-foot barrier from the excellent take-off surface at Centennial Stadium. Behind him will be several men who have topped 6:6, including Roger Mercier, Steve Spencer and basketball ace Sam Vandermuellen.

Broad and triple jumps: Canadian champion Bill Greenough (24:6 and 50:8) should get good competition from Vancouvers' Roger Mercier and the American pair of Pat Deneen and Randy Montgomery.

Pole vault: One of the glamor events of the meet will be the struggle between Americans Casey Carrigan and Jim McMillan, both 16-foot vaulters, ahead of promising Canadians Rick Burrows and Allan Kane.

Throwing events: Let's mention Brian Robinson (Duncan) over Stu Hunnings (Vancouver) in the shot put. Tom Smith will win the discus and Jan Versteen will take the hammer. With six men able to beat 200 feet, the javelin should be interesting with SFU's Dave Vander Griend (241 feet) a probable winner over Seattle's Ken Johnson, whose best this year is 231.

Irene Piotrowski, the Vancouver star who holds Canadian records in the women's sprints, should be the dominating figure in women's competition. Irene should take the 100 and 220, although SFU's Jan Maddin could make it close in the longer event.

Anne Langdale, the amazing 16-year-old from Mount Douglas High who has run the fastest quarter-mile (56.7) by a woman in Canada this year, appeared the probable winner of the 440 after a stiff argument with Richmond's Ann Covell (57.7).

However, a late entry by Doris Brown primises to make the event one of the meet's highlights. The Seattle housewife, holder of the women's world indoor mile record, has turned the 440 in 56 seconds and might push Miss Langdale to new heights.

And if meet officials can convince Seattle's Janet Johnson to switch from the sprints to the quarter-mile, the event will have even greater stature.

In the half mile, Pat Mills, also of Richmond, will run under 2:20 and win easily. Jay Dahlgren of Vancouver has nothing to fear in javelin and discus throws. The Canadian record holder is training for the Olympics and should register excellent efforts.

That's the way things are shaping up for Saturday, but Canada's expanding track and field program is producing a new crop of talented young athletes.

Some of them could spring surprises and provide us with even more thrills than we expect in a standout meet.

THREE SPRINTERS TOP WORLD MARK

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Charlie Greene, Jim Hines and Ronnie Ray Smith each smashed the world record for the 100-metre dash Thursday before Greene outlegged Hines in the final of the Amateur Athletic Union track championships.

Green and Hines each won semi-finals in 9.9 seconds.

A meet official said that Smith also would get credit for a world record 9.9 even though he finished second to Hines in the semi-final heat.

Both semi-finals were run with wind readings of 1.8, well under the 4.47 allowable maximum.

The track must be resurveyed before any world record times can be submitted for recognition.

Germany's Armin Hary ran the first 10-second dash in 1959. It was equalled by Harry Jerome in Saskatoon in 1960 and by at least five others.

Like Old Times for Leo As Club Bats Stay Silent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Leo Durocher is almost as silent these days as the bats his Chicago Cubs are using while Bob Gibson is letting his right arm do the talking.

It was just like old times for Durocher as Gibson and St. Louis Cardinals blanked Chicago 1-0 Thursday—but they're times the Cub manager would rather forget.

For the Cubs, it was their fourth straight shutout defeat, tying a major league record. And their string of 46 consecutive scoreless innings broke the National League mark of 45 set by Cincinnati in 1931 and is two short of the major league record of 48 by the 1906 Philadelphia Athletics.

For Gibson, it was his fourth shutout in a row and ran his scoreless streak to 38 innings. Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers recently set all-time records of six straight shutouts and 58⅔ scoreless innings.

RETURNS TO SCENE

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta Braves tripped Cincinnati Reds 3-1, Philadelphia Phillies edged San Francisco Giants 2-1, Pittsburgh Pirates trounced Los Angeles 7-3 in the opener of the twi-night doubleheader but lost the nightcap 3-2 in 10 innings, and New York Mets turned back Houston Astros 5-3.

When the 1931 Cincinnati Reds went 45 innings without a run they had a shortstop named—you guessed it—Leo Durocher.

Reached at his hotel by a newsman who began to say something about scoreless innings, Durocher muttered, "I have no comment," and hung up the phone.

In the American League, Denny McLain won his 12th game against two losses as Detroit Tigers beat Boston Red Sox 5-1 and Chicago White Sox outslugged Cleveland Indians 8-4. McLain also hurled 6⅔ innings of hitless ball.

A Mercury outboard with Thunderbolt ignition will run on dirty plugs like these.

Just try this with any other ignition system.

Badly fouled, shorted or oiled plugs run fine when you have 40,000 volts available to fire through 'em. And if Thunderbolt will run an engine on plugs like these, think what it'll do with a new set. For one thing, you'll go years between changes. For another, Thunderbolt has no breaker points to wear out or replace. Then there's the matter of starts. People who tried Thunderbolt for the first time couldn't tell when the engine started. Suddenly it was running. There's a smoothness and quietness of operation . . . from idle to full bore . . . that you've got to experience. Thunderbolt . . . only electronic ignition created exclusively for marine use . . . is a year older, and better, than anyone else's. But the difference doesn't end there. Thunderbolt can develop almost twice the voltage of any other system, and deliver it several times faster. That's why the 14 new Mercs with Thunderbolt ignition outperform anything in their class. See your Mercury dealer!

Ransom is the first full king size cigarette in the world with the Strickman Filter!

New RANSOM with the Strickman Filter is so efficient, it must, under licence, guarantee to deliver no more than 10 milligrams of tar.

With this very high level of filtration, RANSOM's rich tobacco flavour is truly remarkable.

In test after test, smokers preferred the flavour of a cigarette with the Strickman Filter four to one over the same cigarette with a conventional filter.

We are proud that RANSOM is the first full king size cigarette in the world to offer you the Strickman Filter.

We know how much it means to those who enjoy the simple pleasure of smoking.

FISHING REPORT

Anglers Find Action Brisk

By STEWART LANG

Campbell River remains a Mecca for freshwater anglers on Vancouver Island while the sea-water fleet is finding action brisk everywhere.

Working south on the Island from Campbell River we find poor spring salmon returns in Johnson Strait, but showing improvement off the south end of Quadra Island. Brown's Bay continues good but better fishing closer to Campbell River, near Butler's Point and Duncan Bay, makes the longer trip seem unnecessary. Frenchman's Pool, near Painter's Lodge, has fallen off a bit, but a large stock of herring and shrimp indicate spring fishing returns are likely to improve.

The bell-buoy off Comox, fished on a slow tide, should yield bluebacks. Springs in this area may be found from Blue River to Kitty Coleman beach. Restrictions on commercial herring nearby could account for this improved fortune.

On the west coast, springs up to 30 pounds have been taken off Bamfield and near Village Island.

★ ★ ★

Deep Bay remains the best for coho seekers, with many over the five-pound size coming in regularly.

Spring fishing is good from The Fingers south to Dodd's Narrows and near Clayton's. Cowichan Bay is another excellent choice, especially around Separation Point. Maple Bay, at low tide, and under the power line in Sansum Narrows also may be considered safe bets.

Pedder Bay has slowed down a bit but is showing some springs from seven to 27 pounds. Early morning is the best time for trolling off Oak Bay with The Gap and Halibut Flats best spots.

Mill Bay and Pat Bay remain good for cohos around the upper end of Saanich Inlet. Tod Inlet to Willis Point is good for springs and Finlayson Arm "safe" for both. Cohoes averaging around 4¼ pounds have started to outnumber the springs at the south end.

★ ★ ★

For the fresh-water enthusiast, Campbell River Lakes system, and Buttle Lake, can be described in one word—dependable. Middle Quinsam is yielding some fine trout about pan-size while Ledore must be considered best for the fly purist.

In mid-Island, Great Central is still giving up fine lake trout and Sproat Lake has been good for those using a flasher and going deep.

Bass fishermen might take note of Green Lake in the Nanaimo area.

Some action is still to be had from brown trout on the upper reaches of the Cowichan River and a few trout returns have been reported from the Nanaimo Lakes chain.

Closer to Victoria, Weeks Lake had some heavy pressure over last weekend with some success noted. Shawnigan and Kemp Lakes still are producing a few trout on the troll.

★ ★ ★

Ken Smith won the trophy for the fourth week of the VSIAA qualifying derby with a 27:03 spring (chinook) and Bob Redgrave, Marie Sidaway, J. Robson and J. Elliott took hidden-weight prizes.

Fishing is now in its fifth week, halfway to the fishoff on July 29.

Winners of the Chinook Club's Sunburn Derby last Sunday were A. Gray (20:12), Mel Lohr (19:11) and Jim Rymer (12:14). Charley Hammond walked off with first prize in the Anglers' Anchorage Father's Day Derby.

Bonspiel Certain Of Record Entry

A record entry of 34 rinks is already assured for the seventh annual summer curling bonspiel at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Entry deadline is 5 p.m. Monday for the four-event 'spiel, which stipulates that each rink contain at least one woman curler.

Starting date is Thursday, June 27, and the event will conclude the following Sunday with evening draws only on Thursday and Friday.

Picking Favorite Difficult After Blizzard Blew Over

TORONTO (CP) — An injury to Arctic Blizzard has made picking a winner in Saturday's Queen's Plate a difficult chore.

The winter book favorite, Arctic Blizzard suffered a cracked sesamoid bone about 10 days ago and his withdrawal leaves Canada's richest horse race with no odds-on choice.

A field of 13 starters, including three fillies and one surprising last-minute entry, was drawn up Thursday to compete for the first-place money of $53,641.

The surprise entry is McSam. His owners, the Eaton-Assaf Stable, stunned horsemen Thursday by dropping $1,000 in the entry box.

McSam usually runs in claiming races with a price tag on his head. He has run twice this year for $7,500 and $5,000 and finished sixth both times. Nobody claimed him.

Another last-minute entry Thursday was Winning Isle, a filly owned by Leonard Prussky of King, Ont. The other fillies are Solometeor, owned by E. P. Taylor's Winfields Farm and winner of the Canadian Oaks for fillies a week ago, and Mink Stole, owned by Marc, Gene and Don Cavotti.

The three will be trying to make it two Plate wins in as many years for the girls. Conn Smythe's Jammed Lovely won last year.

Dropped from the list of entries Thursday was Bow Shannon, badly beaten in the Plate Trial Monday.

The morning line Thursday had the Lanson Farm entry of Big Blunder and Polar Zone at 5 to 2. Lanson Farm is owned by Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Boylen.

Rouletabille, owned by J. Louis Levesque of Montreal, was listed at 3 to 1 while Phelodie, out of the J. Frowde Seagram Stable, was rated 4 to 1.

Listed at 6 to 1 is the western hope Merger, owned by Max Bell and Frank McMahon of Calgary and Vancouver. Solometeor was 8 to 1, Mink Stole 12 to 1 and Winning Isle 15-1.

At odds ranging from 15 to 1 to 30 to 1 were Northern Oil, No Parando, Dainty Davie, McSam and Son Costume.

AFTER YEARS OF HOPING

Lena Gets Chance At Acting Role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I couldn't do what I wanted to do, so I simply put it out of my mind and did what was available to me. I didn't like it, but I did a good job of it."

Lena Horne has at last received the opportunity to play her first dramatic role, as Richard Widmark's mistress in Universal's Patch.

She also runs a bawdy house in the film, which concerns violence in a Midwestern town at the turn of the century.

Miss Horne is no newcomer to movies. From 1942 to 1956, she sang her sultry songs in such MGM musicals as Panama Hattie, I Dood It, Thousands Cheer, Two Girls and a Sailor, Ziegfeld Follies, Till the Clouds Roll By, Words and Music, and Meet Me in St. Louis.

LIMITED TO SINGING

She was the only Negro performer appearing regularly in films, but she never appeared in the story portions. Always she was featured in musical solos which could be conveniently cut when the films played the South.

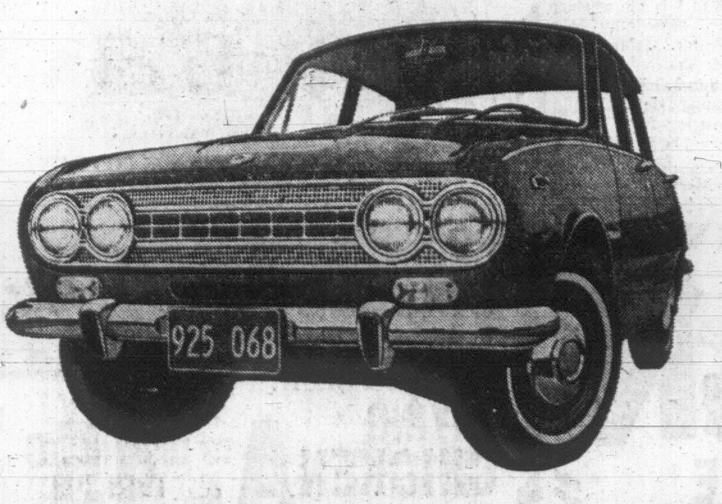
Cabin in the Sky and Stormy Weather were her only acting roles. Both musicals had all-Negro casts.

Miss Horne says she would have preferred the life of an actress; instead, she became a night club singer.

"I never liked it," she says. "I found it bearable only because I was protected by two very important people in my life: my husband, Lennie Hayton, and my manager, Ralph Harris. But even their protection wasn't always enough to prevent incidents from happening.

"That life served its purpose: My children got good educations. But I suspect that I gave to it more than I got out of it. Anyway, I suppose I made it easier for those who followed after me."

THE NEW 1968 ISUZU BELLETT



It may well be the best economy car ever built.

Who else offers a 1500 c.c. economy car with a silky, smooth 5-bearing crankshaft engine developing 71 horsepower, up to 40 miles to a gallon economy, 90 mph top speed, a beautiful 4-door body with standard equipment whitewalls, all for around two grand?

Isuzu Motors, Japan's oldest auto maker, offers all of these in the new Bellett and throws in rubber capped bumperettes, quad headlights, 2-speed wipers and washers, padded dash and visors, locking gas cap, individual front seats and back-up lights. It's the most complete economy car package in Canada.

VICTORIA PEARLIES will shortly take off for the nation's capital, where they will take part in the Dominion Day celebrations. To give three performances in Ottawa, are, left to right, Al Denoni, Jack and Pamela Trueman, Bill and Sylvia Hosie and Jerry Gosley. Originating with the Smile Show, the Pearlies were a hit number in last fall's Folk Art Fiesta at the McPherson Playhouse. This year's 16th annual Smile Show will open at Langahm Court July 6 and continue through August.

LIZ SEEKING NEW GUN LAW

NEW YORK (Reuters) — Movie star Elizabeth Taylor is paying for a series of full-page newspaper advertisements supporting President Johnson's call for stronger gun controls in the U.S.

Variety, the American show business newspaper, said Wednesday the advertisements are appearing in the New York Times, the Washington Post and the Los Angeles Times this week.

The advertisements list the names of about 400 leading show business personalities under a photograph of slian Senator Robert F. Kennedy captioned: "Where is the public outcry for more effective gun laws?"

Cribbens At the Movies

SWEET NOVEMBER
Victoria Premiere
Odeon Theatre

A charming, rather fragile and somewhat nebulous story has been evolved out of a girl who takes to her heart and to her apartment—for a month at a time—a man with a problem.

In so doing, she eases certain troubles of her own and, at the end of the month, the man leaves her a changed human being.

This is a kindly film—and heaven knows that's something nowadays—and it has been handled with a deft touch by director Robert Ellis.

If the dialogue is sometimes tedious, it at least establishes a mood in keeping with the curiously-motivated story.

Sandy Dennis, (The Fox) is outstanding as a kind of quixotic Brooklyn girl who understands men, and Anthony Newley gives a capital performance as one of the problem males.

Newley stays with her throughout the month of November and she develops a poetic streak in his nature which has been suppressed by a former environment.

From her friend (Theodore Bickel), Newley learns that she has a fatal illness. He determines not to leave at the end of November but the girl insists that her 30-day limit be maintained.

The story is off-beat in conception and treatment. Production and photography are good and there is a pleasing musical score by Michel Legrand. The original screen play is by Herman Raucher.

DON'T JUST STAND THERE
Capitol Theatre

Those who enjoyed Mary Tyler Moore with Julie Andrews in Thoroughly Modern Millie may find her vivaciously amusing in this rather droll comedy. But it lacks the substance of "Millie" and is not nearly as captivating.

Most of the action takes place in Paris, where Mary asks Richard Wagner, an American writer, to complete a partly-finished sex novel by Glynis Johns. After years of writing about sex, Johns has discovered the real thing and gone off with a male companion.

This is only part of the plot, for Moore and Wagner are soon involved with gangsters, hoodlums and kidnappers to the point where the story becomes almost incoherent.

The script by Charles Williams is based on his own novel, The Wrong Venus.

Organ Shows Tonal Scope In Recital

A recital which demonstrated the great tonal variety of a new sixteen-rank organ was greeted with enthusiasm by members of the Royal Canadian College of Organists, Victoria Centre.

The small pipe organ, which has only 16 ranks of pipes, was recently installed in the home of Dr. Roxburgh on King George Terrace.

Following the recital Dr. Roxburgh, who hosted the meeting, explained some technical features of the instrument and its installation.

The recital, which was given by Donald Woodworth, preceded the group's annual meeting.

It was announced at the meeting that the Vancouver and Victoria Centres would cooperate in preparing the R.C.C.O. Diamond Jubilee National Convention which is scheduled for August 1969 in the two cities.

The executive of the group were also elected at the meeting. They are: chairman Dr. W. M. Barss, vice-chairman Eric Edwards, secretary Ann Van der Voort, treasurer Mrs. H. Ashby, program convener Ian Galliford, program secretary Phyllis Pollard, publicity Mrs. Philip Boese, social convener Mrs. M. Reynolds, and historian Ingram Smith.

Appointed members at large are: Hugo Spilker, Richard Proudman, Donald Woodworth, Charles Palmer.

Actress Bound, Gagged

WEYBRIDGE, England (UPI)—Two thieves bound and gagged actress Maureen O'Sullivan Thursday night after breaking into the home of her daughter, Mia Farrow.

Miss Farrow, estranged wife of Frank Sinatra, was not at home.

Miss O'Sullivan said the thieves accosted her after she was awakened by the barking of the family dog. She said one of the men wore a stocking mask.

Police said the burglars took jewelry and passports.

NEW TYPE SURGERY

Attack Postpones Heart Operation

MONTREAL (CP) — A patient who was to undergo a new type of surgical operation Thursday to restore the blood supply to his heart has suffered a heart attack at Royal Victoria Hospital and has been sent home.

Dr. Arthur Vineberg, chief of cardiac surgery at the hospital and the man who developed the artery implant technique to feed blood-starved hearts, said it will not be known until mid-August whether an operation can be performed on the original patient or whether others may become available.

The patient, a 24-year-old Regina area man, suffered his heart attack earlier this week and has been sent home for three or four months, Dr. Vineberg said.

The technique, described by Dr. Vineberg at the Canadian Medical Association convention this week in Regina, involves implanting strips of omentum into the walls of both heart chambers and attaching them to the aorta or main artery.

The omentum is a fatty apron of tissue that hangs from the stomach and large intestine. It seeks and obtains its own blood supply and provides its own arterial transportation system.

Fire Damage Totals $5,000

Damage was estimated at $5,000 after fire gutted the basement of a food store Thursday night.

The blaze broke out in the basement of the Lucky Dollar Food Market, 3949 Quadra, at 7:22 p.m.

Fire department officials are investigating the cause of the fire.

BUTCHART GARDENS . . . Romantic after-dark illumination . . . Restaurant. Ever changing . . . awlays lovely! Developed from an abandoned cement quarry to become one of the world's most admired, most photographed gardens. Due to careful planning and the lush growing season, they're unusually lovely right now. You'll be attracted to the soft-scented Rose Garden just coming into bloom. As an added feature, the gardens are romantically illuminated every night after dark. From corner to corner, side to side, the entire 30 acres are transformed into a fairyland of unbelievable beauty. You'll marvel at the Sunken Garden, be amazed at the spectacular "Ross Fountains." Restaurant service every day, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Gardens open every day, 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. Lights off midnight. Continuous coffee bar service. Before another day goes by, plan to visit these beautiful gardens. You'll be lost in their loveliness . . . carried away by their beauty . . . enriched with a greater appreciation of the good things this world has to offer.

A.J.'s—Dining by Trakadas from 5 p.m. and luncheons too. Dancing to music by Valdy, Shumka, Pick and Scherk after nine. Late night menu available and reasonable until 2 a.m. The food is excellent at A.J.'s but if you choose to sample another of Victoria's fine dining rooms (more per capita than any other city we know of) drop in after for dancing and A.J.'s late night menu. We are situated at the bottom of Fort Street—500 Fort to be exact. We start at 5 p.m. nightly through to 2 a.m. except Saturday when we stop at midnight. Reservations 383-4131 or our extra line 383-4132.

COWICHAN FOREST MUSEUM—Come and see artists at work. June 22 is "fence-art" day at the museum when artists will demonstrate their skill in decorating panels to be erected on the grounds. Peter Yelland, well-known artist and art teacher, will select three winners. But any day is one of unusual interest at the museum. Here, on 25 beautiful lakeside acres, is an extraordinary collection of old-time logging exhibits. Bring your camera, ride the stout little steam train and see it all. Open daily 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Puppy Match To Feature Dancers

The Vancouver Island Terrier Club will hold a pedigree "puppy match" July 6 at Schofield Hall, 108 Niagara.

Featured will be a Seattle-based revue called Kennelcade of Trick and Dancing Dogs" owned by Robert Mock.

Mr. Mock is expected to bring about eight of his 35 dogs. The act has gained considerable popularity over U.S. television networks.

SIX CATEGORIES

About 75 entries are expected for the actual show which will be judged in six categories: sporting, sporting hounds, non-sporting, work terrier and toy.

Groups in each category will be three to six months, six to nine and nine to 12.

Entries will be judged by Mrs. Agnes Wilkie.

Registration of competitors will be taken at the door at 6 p.m.

Entrance fees are $1 for the first entry and 50 cents for each entry over.

View Royal Sewer Cost Determined

Cost to home owners for installing a sewage system in View Royal would be $115 a year or about $9.50 a month.

The overall cost of the sewage scheme would be $1,000,000 according to a report prepared by the engineering firm of Willis, Cunliffe, Tait and Co. Ltd.

The study was initiated earler this year by View Royal fire trustees.

The report based its costs on the assumption that the system could be completed by 1970.

The longer construction is put off, the more difficult it is to predict financing costs, it points out.

Al E. Beasley, View Royal representative on the regional board, felt that the estimated costs were reasonable.

"In view of all the rock we have in the district, the costs are not high," he said. "In other areas with less rock, such as Campbell River, costs for home owners is about $90 a year."

He said a general meeting of View Royal ratepayers would be held at 8 p.m., Monday, in the View Royal Community Hall to discuss the report.

Strike Dries Up Ontario Beer

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario residents who planned to stock up on beer during the weekend are out of luck — the beer strike officially started early today, closing all beer stores.

Shortly after midnight 300 members of Local 304, International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America, went on strike at the Toronto plant of Molson's Brewery (Ontario) Ltd.

As a result all Ontario operations by Carling Breweries Ltd., O'Keefe Brewing Co. Ltd., John Labatt (Ontario) Breweries Ltd., Brewers Warehousing Co. Ltd., Canadian Breweries Ltd., Canadian Breweries Transport Ltd., and W. J. Hyatt Ltd. are shutting down, a breweries spokesman said.

The breweries, which have negotiated jointly since the last contract expired Dec. 31, 1967, gave notice earlier that a strike against one firm would be countered by a lockout at all other breweries.

Picket lines were set up at the Molson's plant to test the solidarity of the breweries.

If the breweries maintain a solid front, as they have warned they would, all Brewers' Retail stores will remain closed, beer deliveries will stop and hotels' beer stocks will probably run out within a few weeks.

TALKS BREAK OFF

Talks between management and the 2,700 workers across the province broke off a few days ago. Union directors earlier had decided not to call a walkout this morning because they wanted to co-ordinate the strike across the province, but it began anyway at Molson's.

Wages are the main issue.

The union is seeking a three-year contract with an over-all increase of $1.25 an hour. The companies have offered a three-year contract with an increase of 30 cents the first year and 25 in the second and third plus 15 cents in fringe benefits.

BACKS SENTINEL MISSILE

U.S. Defence Policy Changed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Clark Clifford has revealed for the first time a significant difference in views from his predecessor, Robert McNamara.

The dispute came to light Tuesday when Clifford told a news conference that the United States should push ahead with development of the Sentinel anti-missile system, something opposed by McNamara when he was defence secretary.

The $5,000,000,000 Sentinel program, the so-called "thin missile" system, is designed to protect the United States from the relatively small-scale Chinese nuclear attack, thought possible by the mid-1970s.

"I believe we should have a defence against the Chinese system other than just a massive retaliatory attack," Clifford said in opposing current moves in Congress to cut funds for the Sentinel program.

McNamara's position was that the U.S. should concentrate on building the strength of its offensive missile program to the point where neither China nor the Soviet Union would dare attack.

Twin Girls Drown

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (AP) — The infant twin daughters of heavyweight wrestler Buddy (Killer) Austin were drowned Wednesday in the family swimming pool. The 15-month-old twins, Sandrina and Christina, were pulled from the pool by their 11-year-old brother Kevin. Authorities said the infant girls apparently had left the house through an open sliding glass door and fallen into the pool while playing.

Italy Doctors Strike

ROME (Reuters) — Rome hospital doctors began a month-long strike Wednesday to support pay claims and requests for more staff, but emergency staffs were on duty to keep hospitals running.

Scratch a Nova Scotian, even an expatriate one, and you court stern reprisals. Witness this lady reader's fore-and-aft attack.

"Dear Sir:

"I would like to punch you right in the nose!!

"You said Mr. Stanfield was uncommonly like his native province—'long, rocky, and somewhat behind the times.' You've got a nerve! What do you know about Nova Scotia anyway? (It is plain to be seen that you are not a Conservative.)

"As you probably know, Nova Scotia was Canada's first province. It was thickly settled and going strong when this cock-eyed place was only a wilderness. Many Canadian leaders came from there, good men too.

"Behind the times, indeed! For saying that, you deserve a good swift kick in the pants!"

There are other communications, but that sample tells the tale.

Its key words are "came from there"—something which the Bluenoses do with such good will that Boston is occasionally referred to as Canada's third city.

But no matter. From Cape Stormy to Cape Sable, she's a right good province, with fine fish in her seas, and what may well be the world's second-best apples in her Annapolis Valley orchards. I've roved her by road, trail and Cape Islander, and written of her more than once in affectionate terms.

Even is she is a little ... well ... you know ...

★

Just about the nicest thing on TV these days is the lovely young matron with the modern-madonna face who strolls through a late evening insurance commercial.

You know the one: there's a tender song for background music, and the girl is obviously, wonderfully expectant. She is browsing with stately grace through a baby-wear department, smiling at this, dreaming over that, and giving a furry-toy ear a playful flip.

All very fetching. But that nice girl has been enceinte for Lord only knows how long, and I really think it's time her sponsors advanced the play to keep up with the processes of nature.

It's about time ... and I know that a host of anxious viewers will agree ... that we saw her with figure recovered and proud husband at her side, wheeling a baby carriage to a livelier tune.

★

B.C. Tel, I like your courteous and helpful operators, such of them as you still employ, but there are times when I would like to give you a punch in the nose and a good swift kick in your corporate pants.

Despite all manner of defensive double-talk, your long-distance telephone rates are scandalously high. Also—and here we come to the matter in hand—just how do you explain this bit of banditry?

A recent direct-dial evening call to Vancouver from my home was answered by a metallic recorded voice that parroted, "Please call such-and-such, the night number."

Caller did so, and in the course of time, we got billed for not one Vancouver call, but two.

Said the non-recorded company voice with which we checked:

"You reached a recording, but it was that company's recording, not ours, and it conveyed information. Therefore the call was completed, and we had to make the charge."

Well, if that's what can happen when you follow B.C. Tel's urging to use direct dialling, me for the non-mechanical operator ... as long as she survives.

She wouldn't nick the public for a non-conversation with a platter, you bet!

Or, on the other hand, would she?

Note to any and all Vancouver Island candidates who score next Tuesday:

Gentlemen, we need more camping-hiking-fishing parks on our Island, and, most of all, we need a large national park north of Seymour Narrows.

The loggers, abetted by a cynical provincial government, will do their damnedest to block you. But your constituents, and their children, will bless the foresight that claimed this much back for the people.

SEALED BALLOT BOXES are appearing at Victoria polling stations today for the federal election next Tuesday. Victoria returning officer David Wilson, above, helps hand out the boxes at his headquarters. There are 208 polls in Victoria, and eight have had to be divided in half because of size. There are also six advance polls, meaning a total of 222 ballot boxes will have to be opened when the counting starts. (Times photo.)

Province to Review Cost-Split Formulas

Talks Resume With Nurses, B.C. Hospitals

Conciliator Named By Labor Minister

Talks between registered nurses and hospitals in British Columbia resumed today in Vancouver.

The development represented the first break in an impasse between the two sides over salary increases in a new contract.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson appointed Victoria-based conciliation officer Jack Sherlock to assist both sides in reaching an agreement.

A statement by the Registered Nurses' Association of B.C., representing just over 4,000 nurses at 61 hospitals, said however that "the nurses bargaining committee is continuing with plans for strike action in the event that the new talks do not lead to a settlement in the bargaining dispute."

NO STRIKE DATE

The association has not set a strike date or posted 48 hours strike notice since nurses in 59 of the hospitals voted 95 per cent in favor of this action in a government-supervised strike vote one week ago.

The dispute affects three hospitals in Victoria — Royal Jubilee, St. Joseph's and Gorge Road rehabilitation centre.

The hospitals have accepted, and the nurses have rejected, a non-binding conciliation board report which recommended salary increases of 21.8 per cent and 27.4 per cent in two steps this year.

The nurses are sticking by their original demands which amount to more than 50 per cent as well as a 37½-hour work week in place of the present 40 hours and portability of salary increments.

START AT $390

Present pay starts at $390 a month increasing to $466 after four years.

The conciliation board recommended, by the second stage effective July 1, $475 a month to start increasing to $593.75 after five years as well as a fifth week of vacation after 20 years and $1 a shift differential for evening and overnight work.

The nurses want $600 a month to start increasing to $841 after five years.

On Thursday, Premier Bennett said in Kimberley that the provincial government will not automatically lead nurses "by the ear" back to work if they strike.

Earlier, Labor Minister Peterson strongly indicated Bill 33 would be used to prevent a strike against hospitals. Later he expressed the hope that both sides could settle the dispute "without recourse to the mediation commission" established under Bill 33.

IWA TALKS PLOD ON

Official silence surrounded continuing negotiations today aimed at avoidng a shutdown of the B.C. coast woods products industry.

There was no comment at noon from the International Woodworkers of America, representing 26,000 loggers and mill workers, and Forest Industrial Relations, bargainer for 113 companies.

Earlier this week, the IWA officially reported "some progress" in the talks but gave no details. The current contract expired one week ago but remains in effect until negotiations break down.

Pulp Union Votes 91% For Strike

Some 3,500 members of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada at six mills voted 91 per cent in favor of strike action, the union announced Thursday.

Three of the mills are on Vancouver Island—Crofton, Harmac just south of Nanaimo and Gold River.

The union said it is ready for "real bargaining" and accused the Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations Bureau, bargaining agent for the mills, of "failure to bargain seriously."

It is seeking a 35-cent hourly wage increase in a one-year contract on the current basic rate of $2.84. The PPWC said employers have not made a wage offer. The existing contract expires at the end of the month.

Motorcyclist Only Fair After Crash

A 22-year-old motorcyclist is in only fair condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital after his machine slammed into a steel bus stop sign Thursday night.

Stephen Baxter, 1027 Chamberlain, received a broken leg and severe cuts.

Police said the motorbike apparently mounted the sidewalk 43 feet west of the four foot high steel sign.

The rider landed 12 feet from the sign and the motorbike was found in the centre of the intersection of Quamichan and Cowichan, a further 40 feet away.

A woman injured in an accident Thursday morning is reported in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Police said a car driven by Gladys Smith, 37, of 1042 Goldstream, left the Trans-Canada Highway near Millstream and smashed into a rock bluff.

The drivers of two cars involved in a head-on collision at Fort and Bank just after 8 p.m. Thursday were treated for minor injuries at Royal Jubilee Hospital and released.

Police said an eastbound car driven by Eric Geary, 2326 Estevan, was in collision with a west bound car driven by Herbert Pickup, 2041 Allenby.

Both cars were heavily damaged.

$750 Bail For Break-In

Bail was set at $750 today for a man charged with breaking and entering a Niagara Street apartment Thursday.

Sidney Hayward, 47, of 271 Michigan, was apprehended shortly after the owner of the apartment chased a man from inside.

Hayward was remanded without plea to June 28.

'Working Closely' With UBCM Team

By JIM HUME

The provincial government has agreed to review provincial-municipal cost-sharing formulas throughout the province.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said today his department is already working in close liaison with the Union of British Columbia Municipalities and local civic officials to pin-point the trouble spots and eliminate "some of the old shibboleths which trouble us".

Cost-sharing formulas and the provincial grants system have long been a source of antagonism between the senior government and municipal governments.

In 1966 at the UBCM convention in Penticton Mayor Hugh Stephen said the situation is so serious that a royal commission into provincial, federal and municipal cost-sharing and grant formulas should be held.

His resolution on the convention floor was soundly defeated. The mayor repeated his plea for a thorough investigation last September when the UBCM met in Prince George.

GAINED SUPPORT

Once again the formal resolution was defeated but not until several mayors had spoken in favor of the need for a detailed study.

At that time Mr. Campbell stressed his department was more than willing to sit down and talk about the situation.

"They apparently took me at my word and as a result we are now putting together a steering committee to compile and collect data which at this point just doesn't exist," Mr. Campbell said this morning. "The first meetings with the UBCM were held in May and will be continuing throughout the summer.

"Next month, on July 9-10, we hope to be sitting down to work out the actual terms of reference of the committee which should have its findings ready well before the UBCM meets in Vancouver in September.

ALL AREAS

"We are not just working on a report for the UBCM. It is more than that. We intend to go into all areas and, for the first time, present comprehensive findings and recommendations.

"Some of the things the committee will be looking at is the oft-repeated statement that there is a high degree of corelation between income and the municipal tax bill. Is there or isn't there? It is one of those statements repeated over and over again but no one really has the answer.

"Then there is the opinion often expressed by Mayor Allan Emmott of Burnaby that people just aren't aware of the range of municipal services which come to people at a high level of management, but are actually cheap when put on a per capita basis."

'DOWN TO CASES'

Mr. Campbell said it had not yet been decided in what form the findings of the select committee would be published.

"We shall decide that when we meet next month," he said.

"What we really want to do is get down to cases on the problem and get some of the shibboleths, old saws is maybe a better phrase, out in the open to find if in fact they exist."

Mayor Hugh Stephen was unavailable for comment at press time but it is known that he is pleased the talks have started.

Mr. Campbell said the talks had been constructive and amicable.

"I don't think the UBCM ever really wanted a royal commission," he said. "We can achieve a great deal just by airing the problems and finding the answers."

'Velkommen'

Three Anthems Sung Feelingly At 'Sons' Meet

By PAT MOAN

The welcome was a hearty "velkommen" and the spirited singing of "O Canada" would have reddened the faces of those who attended the Trudeau rally.

The Canadian, Norwegian and American anthems were sung with equal vigor by beribboned delegates as the first biennial convention of the 7th District of the Sons of Norway opened here today.

Mayor Hugh Stephen, in welcoming the 150 delegates, said: "In the tumultuous times ahead "it gives me confidence to know that the men of the long ships will be in the vanguard striving for a Canada which Mr. Trudeau will find just, Mr. Stanfield will find compassionate and I am sure Mr. Douglas will find equitable."

FIVE LODGES

The delegates represent 3,000 members from five island and seven mainland lodges.

District No. 7 has only recently been formed. The lodges formerly belonged to an American district. The new district includes lodges from Dawson Creek to Port Alberni and is the order's fastest-growing district.

The lodge works toward promoting Norwegian culture, traditions and fraternity.

A Summer Language Camp has been proposed to encourage children who wish to learn the Norwegian language.

This evening at 8 there will be a drill and dance display, Norwegian-style, at Norway House on Hillside Ave.

The election and installation of new officers will take place Saturday. There will also be a banquet and dance at the Red Lion Motor Inn.

Ask The Times

Q. Could you give me the history of the old brick factory on Sidney Island—when it was built, who the owners were and when it went out of operation?—P.V.

A. This brick factory was started in 1907 under the ownership of Sheen, Courtenay and Greer. It was operated during summers until 1915 by James Readings and his sons Ambrose and Arthur. Ownership changed hands several times and the factory finally ceased operation in 1938.

Q. Will you please give the numbers of French in Canada as well as Chinese, Germans, Italians, Dutch and Hungarians?—M.D.

A. According to the latest ethnic census (1961) contained in the McGraw Hill directory and almanac of Canada, 1968, there were 5,540,346 French in Canada. They comprised 30.38 per cent of the total population. The rest were: Chinese—58,197 or .32 per cent; German—1,049,599 or 5.76 per cent; Italian—450,351 or 2.47 per cent; Dutch—429,679 or 2.36 per cent; Hungarian—126,220 or .69 per cent. English numbered 4,195,175 or 23 per cent. The population at that time was 18,238,247.

Chatterton Roasted by Rivals For Controversial Vote Cards

Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate David Anderson today charged Conservative George Chatterton with "deliberately encouraging" voters to break the Canada Elections Act.

Mr. Chatterton last week sent cards to all constituents showing a sample ballot with an X marked by his name. Words on the ballot said: "Important: Take this notice with you and be sure to mark your ballot with the pencil supplied in the voting booth."

FOUR DAYS TO GO

Carrying any election material into a polling station is prohibited under the elections act.

Whether merely sending the cards represents a breach of the act is questionable according to Victoria returning officer David Wilson.

Chief Electoral Officer Jean-Marc Hamel said in Ottawa today it's "awfully close to the line."

Mr. Hamel said no charges would be laid by election officials, but this doesn't mean someone else won't press charges.

Mr. Anderson said Mr. Chatterton is encouraging delays in voting procedure and exploiting a misinformed public.

He termed Mr. Chatterton's call to settle the legality of the cards in the courts as "absurd."

INJUNCTION

"What does he want, an injunction to stop his name appearing on the ballot?"

Elections are determined not in the courts, but when the people have their say, Mr. Anderson said.

Mr. Chatterton is trying to reduce the chance of the people making their choice, he said, pointing out that if cards are left in the polling stations or if voting is delayed, the election may be overturned and have to be held all over again.

Both Mr. Anderson and NDP candidate Don Johannessen have sent out sample ballots too, but both omit the special notice on the Chatterton ballot telling voters to take the card to the polling station.

Cards similar to Mr. Chatterton's were distributed in support of Victoria Conservative Eric Charman Thursday.

Mr. Wilson said he can't do anything about it now except warn people that the cards may not be taken into the polling stations.

Only two local candidates are not using the cards.

Dr. Harvey Richardson, NDP candidate in Victoria, said he regards the cards as misleading and has steered clear of using them for that reason.

LOOK OFFICIAL

David Groos, the Liberal candidate in Victoria, said the cards tend to look "very official and I think that's why we decided not to use them this time."

His workers have distributed about 36,000 brochures instead and almost all of these were delivered by hand.

Arrival of New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas has been rescheduled to 12:45 p.m. Sunday at Victoria International Airport.

He had previously been scheduled to arrive later in the day.

He speaks at a rally in Memorial Arena at 8 p.m.

Cartoonist Wins Plaque

Times editorial cartoonist Bob Bierman has been awarded a bronze plaque by the National Foundation for Highway Safety, in New Haven, Conn., for his New Year's Eve cartoon on the theme of safe driving.

Bob Bierman

The announcement was made today by Wm. H. Neale, president of the foundation.

Mr. Bierman, on the staff of the Times for the past six years and known for his incisive political caricatures, chose a night club scene for his safe-driving message. In sarcastic vein, a lady points to two feet sticking out from under a table and comments: "No more for him, he says ... he has to drive."

The National Foundation encourages press support for safe driving on this continent by annually offering plaques or prizes for outstanding articles, cartoons and editorials directed to the theme, "Driving carries a moral responsiblity."

Sun Obscured By Overcast On Longest Day

It's the longest day.

Summer began officially at 1:13 a.m. today.

And that means that today's 16 hours and nine minutes of daylight will be the most of any day this year.

Not that summer is too obvious. The sun was hiding behind a solid blanket of cloud most of the day. Scattered showers were in the offing.

Above all that cloud the sun today attained its greatest distance north of the equator to mark the summer solstice.

Daylight Saturday will be shorter—but only by a matter of seconds.

SCIENTISTS FIGHT FOREST-DESTROYING INSECTS

Brain-in-the-Tummy Transplants Performed

By TERRY RITCHIE

One of Canada's most recent transplant patients is a caterpillar.

The insect's brain was removed Thursday in a Victoria laboratory as part of a program by which scientists hope to discover new weapons to combat forest-destroying insects.

Although less spectacular, the ravage of insects is far greater than forest fires and destroys millions of dollars of B.C. trees yearly.

Dr. T. S. Sahota, a scientist at the federal Forestry Research Laboratory on Burnside Rd., transplants the brains of some tent caterpillars into stomachs removed from others.

The purpose is to see what effect chemicals released by the brain have on the insects' egg production. To do this, Dr. Sahota compares full-length caterpillars which have no brains and half caterpillars which have brains added.

From these studies, Dr. Sahota thinks chemicals may be developed which will stop an insect's egg production entirely.

Or, he said, the chemical might be a sort of "insect thalidomide," producing deformed offspring which could give no eggs at all.

The chemicals, after further testing, could then be applied to the forests as sprays. This will only be done if they will not harm other, harmless life.

Operations such as Thursday's will help show what chemicals can do this.

The operation is delicate, since the insects are only one-quarter-inch long in the pupa state, and may die if not treated properly with antibiotics.

Thursday's mini-surgery, one of many performed here each week, began at 10:45.

The insect is first anesthetized with carbon dioxide gas. The operation is carried out under a microscope using small, fine, sterilized instruments.

By 11:10 the brain, almost invisible, floats in a preserving solution, and the head wound is sealed with clear plastic and wax.

Later, Dr. Sahota, a Ph.D from the University of Toronto, will implant the brain in the severed stomach of another caterpillar. Techniques for the operation were developed at Harvard and Cambridge.

If kept alive by food injections, both would develop into half-moths—one a brainless insect, the other a stomach with a brain. Dr. Sahota said that Thursday's "patient" would then be a normal-sized but inactive moth, with a hole in its head.

The program is only just beginning. But Dr. Sahota hopes it will some day result in important new weapons which can wipe out all major insect pests.

Disaster Hits Salad During Saver Picnic

By PENNY SAVER

"Picnic time is here again. We'll meet the ants and bees again. Lose knives and forks and spoons again. Picnic time is here again." Oscar Hammerstein I am not, but I concocted this little paraphrase of the old song last year around this time. (Recognize which old song? Yes, the "agains" are a dead give-away; it is indeed "Happy Days.")

Last year we had several classic disasters. We really did drop the basket into the water on the way out to a tempting island. We really did find a field that was empty except for a bull. And the youngest son managed the classic faux-pas of stepping in a big dish of potato salad while fielding a fly-ball. The little rascal caught the ball too, quite ignoring the gooey mess his foot had made.

I was fond of that salad. It had taken hours to prepare and promised to be the best I had ever made. Now that I have learned, however, I won't become so attached to a dish in the future. In fact, I will buy my salads. Since the salads I can buy are much, much tastier than most of my own, and since being freed from the toil of preparation frees me to enjoy my family, I refuse to feel I am "copping out." I can buy potato salad without egg for 49 cents a pound and with egg for 59 cents a pound. A yummy tossed salad with oodles of radish is 79 cents a pound.

Jellied salads are something I have never had a knack of making. I can buy a vegetable salad with shredded vegetables in lemon lime jelly for 59 cents a pound. Also for 59 cents a pound are mandarin orange morsels in orange jelly and mixed fruits in raspberry jelly. Absolutely delicious and good to look at as well is an orange jelly with crushed pineapple, grated carrots and pecans. This exotic salad is 65 cents a pound. These salads are all made at the delicatessen.

Spiced Apple Rings Hit the Spot

The garnish can make or break a meal. It should complement the main dish both in taste and appearance. Pickles are the classic garnish and, with the choice between sweet, mustard and dill, will suit any taste. But why not try something different? Spiced apple rings. These deep red rings of apple are 89 cents a pound. They are pickled in a brine well laced with cinnamon as well as some other spices.

Cold meats are a life-saver in the summer when standing over a hot stove is just too much trouble. My beef-loving family doesn't want to give up their favorite meat just because the weather is too hot for comfort. Rather than struggle with a roast myself, I buy cold, sliced roast beef at 99 cents a half pound. Another favorite with my family is chicken loaf (fantastic in sandwiches) at 39 cents a half pound.

Speaking of chicken, the delicatessen I visited will barbecue chickens or turkeys to order. To the cost of the bird is added $1.50 for the barbecue and an extra 50 cents for stuffing.

To finish off your outdoor meal in style, try crusty rolls. These come in bags of 13 (a baker's dozen) for 39 cents. Just heat them to make the crust crustier than ever. French bread is another treat coming in every shape from the tiny "shorties" to the thin, full size loaves. This bread can be barbecued to order. It is cut lengthwise, buttered and barbecued, all for 29 cents.

Please call me at 382-3131 if you would like to know where I shop for these items.

To Live in Indian Village

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — When Judy Pullen marries here Saturday, she will foresake the comforts of Canadian life for a bamboo hut in a Tibetan refugee village in India.

But before she settles down as the wife of Tsewang Choegyal Tethong, the representative in the village of the Dalai Lama of Tibet's spiritual leader, she will have four wedding receptions.

The first will follow her marriage and the second will come in several weeks' time in Switzerland where Judy received part of her education. The third will be in New Delhi, India, where the couple first met, and the fourth when they finally reach the refugee settlement, 600 miles south of Bombay.

Judy came to know both "T. C.", as she calls her future husband, and the Dalai Lama after she went to India in 1963 as a 22-year-old volunteer with the Canadian University Service Overseas.

Together with a Canadian nurse, she spent her first nine months in the small community of Kangra, among 180 Tibetan refugee children. There was only one ramshackle building, no furniture and hardly any blankets, said Judy. The children slept on the cement floor.

Then Judy transferred to nearby Dharmsala to instruct 24 Buddhist monks and two Buddhist nuns in conversational English and teaching methods.

It was in Dharmsala she became reacquainted with her future husband, although she had known him as a Tibetan government official in New Delhi.

T. C. had moved to Dharmsala when the Dalai Lama decided to set up headquarters there after fleeing from the Chinese invasion of Tibet several years ago. T. C. served as the spiritual leader's interpreter.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

As a result of the excitement created by Gurus, sitars, et al, Yoga is currently considered the "in" system of exercising. There is nothing mystical about it. Yoga is a classic, no-strenuous discipline which you'll enjoy. It exalts you instead of exhausting you and will make you feel and look better from head to toe.

Do try some of my favorite Yoga exercises. All you need to get going is loose, comfortable clothing, a small mat or bath towel and a quiet corner. It's preferable to exercise before eating or at least two hours after.

SIDE STRETCH

Benefits: Stretches and firms the waistline and sides of the body and relieves neck tension.

Method: 1. Stand with legs about 12 inches apart, hands at sides. 2. Lift arms up and straight out at shoulder level. 3. Bend torso slowly to your left until left hand touches left knee (right arm lifts straight up in the air). Let head and neck follow through accordingly. Hold stretch for count of five. 4. Straighten up slowly. 5. Repeat movement on the right side.

Schedule: Do exercises three times on each side, alternating sides. Increase holding time by five seconds each week until you can hold the stretch comfortably 20 seconds.

COMPLETE BREATH STANDING

Benefits: Stretches the entire spine, firms and strengthens arches and ankles; improves breathing capacity as well as balance, poise and grace.

Method: 1. Stand with legs about five inches apart, hands at sides. 2. Inhale through nose, at the same time raising arms out at sides and coming up on toes. 3. Continue inhaling slowly until arms touch above head, then, 4, hold breath for a count of five. 5. Exhale slowly through nose as you simultaneously bring hands back down to sides and come down from toes.

Schedule: Do this exercise three times; each week increase breath holding time until you can hold it 10 seconds.

CHEST EXPANSION

Benefits: Improves posture, acts as a stretch for the entire spine and relieves tension throughout the body, neck, shoulders and upper back. Develops chest, firms bosom and shoulder muscles, whittles down upper arms and brings an increased supply of blood to the brain.

Method: 1. Stand with feet about five inches apart, hands at sides. 2. Raise arms out to sides and bring them in toward chest, palms facing outward. Touch chest. 3. Bring arms slowly back as though attempting to make hands meet behind you at shoulder level. 4. When you can go no further, drop hands and clasp them behind you. 5. Gently bend backward from waist as far as possible. Don't strain. Drop head and neck back and release jaw. Hold for five seconds.

6. Straighten up and bend forward from the waist as far as possible, exhaling air through lips as though whistling. Keep arms high above head. Don't strain. Hold for five seconds. 7. Slowly straighten up, uncurling spine as you do. Unclasp hands and relax.

Schedule: Repeat exercise three times. Start by holding positions outlined in steps 5 and 6 five seconds as you bend backward, five seconds as you bend forward. Do not increase the time you bend back, but increase the time you bend forward by five seconds each week until you can hold forward bend comfortably for 20 seconds.

THE NEW YOU who learns these Yoga classics will be in shape as well as in style.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. What can I do about the split ends of my hair? They make it look awful.

A. In the first place have a scissor trim by a hairdresser to get rid of them. This problem usually goes along with dry hair. Therefore, use a cream shampoo or one of the mild baby shampoos. It will also be helpful to give yourself a few hot oil treatments. Protect your hair from extreme exposure to the summer sun. Wear a scarf or a hat when possible, or do your sunning in the earlier hours of the day or in the late afternoon.

Lowman

Q. What can I do about enlarged pores?

A. The large pore is really the opening of a hair follicle. The hair itself is extremely fine. So far as I know there is no special reason for this problem. Some specialists feel that the constant use of makeup, without proper and frequent cleansing, may be factors.

Stimulation of circulation with a complexion brush and soap and water may help. The use of astringents may also prove useful. Dermatologists sometimes prescribe a special lotion for this condition.

Q. Do masks really do anything for the complexion?

A. Masks are refreshing and some stir up circulation. Others remove dirt from the skin.

Q. Can drooping eyelids be corrected by plastic surgery?

A. Yes.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Family 'Tangled Up' By Longhair Son

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: As I write this I am practically blinded by tears. My husband told our 17-year-old son that if he didn't come home with a haircut tonight, he didn't have to come home at all. It is midnight, and Jon is not home yet.

Why should something like the length of a boy's hair make such a big difference to a father? Jon is not a "bad" boy. All the boys he goes with have long hair.

Jon and his father have fought over this for over a year and now it has come to a showdown, because he finally pushed the boy too far and gave him an ultimatum.

If something happens to Jon I will never forgive my husband for his stubbornness.

I don't like long hair on boys, either, but at least I didn't drive my own son out of the house because of it.

Please, please put something in your column about fathers who always have to have the last word. I have given up.

HEARTBROKEN MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: There is much more involved here than hair. In a good father-son relationship, the father never gives his 17-year-old son an "ultimatum" merely because he "outranks" him. Patience and understanding should be forthcoming from the older and wiser man.

Although I also prefer short hair on men, I realize that long hair is "in," and kids have as much right to their fads as adults.

Tell father to emphasize the more permanent and lasting aspects of his son's character, and forget the hair for now. It will grow shorter (or disappear entirely) soon enough.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter Lisa is 17, and if I have to say so myself she is a very beautiful girl. She was invited to a formal country club party by a 21-year-old fellow who comes from one of the best families. He asked her if she could stay all night at his home as it would probably be a late evening and it would save him a lot of driving. (They live in one of those big homes on a nearby lake.)

I told Lisa to tell him no, that we want her to come home to sleep no matter how late the party lasts.

This morning I got a call from this young fellow's mother urging me to let Lisa stay at her home all night. Abby, I have never met this woman. She is high society and she may be very nice, but just because people have money doesn't always mean they're nice. Anyway, I told Lisa I was sorry, but I wanted Lisa home. Now Lisa says I'm square. Am I?

MADISON MOM.

DEAR MOM: If you are "square," I want to be in all four of your corners.

DEAR ABBY: Re the married man who had a heart attack in the apartment of another woman at 2 a.m., listen to this:

Several years ago a friend of ours (I'll call him Larry) was involved in an automobile accident with a lady companion in the wee hours of the morning. (He was supposed to have been "out with the boys.")

The lady, who was an attractive widow and a friend of his wife, was only slightly shaken up, but Larry had to be hospitalized for several weeks. During that time Larry's wife found out that there had been some hanky-panky between this widow and Larry, although they both insisted they were only "good friends."

The day Larry was to be brought home from the hospital, his wife arranged that he be taken to the widow's home!

It was midafternoon and the widow was entertaining her garden club.

Can you imagine the scene when the ambulance pulled up in front of the widow's house, and Larry was carried in on a stretcher over his vigorous protests?

The widow, of course, told them they had made a mistake, whereupon they put Larry back into the ambulance and delivered him to his own home.

The club members went home holding their sides, the widow was mortified, Larry's wife took him back again, and at this writing they are living happily ever after.

SUE.

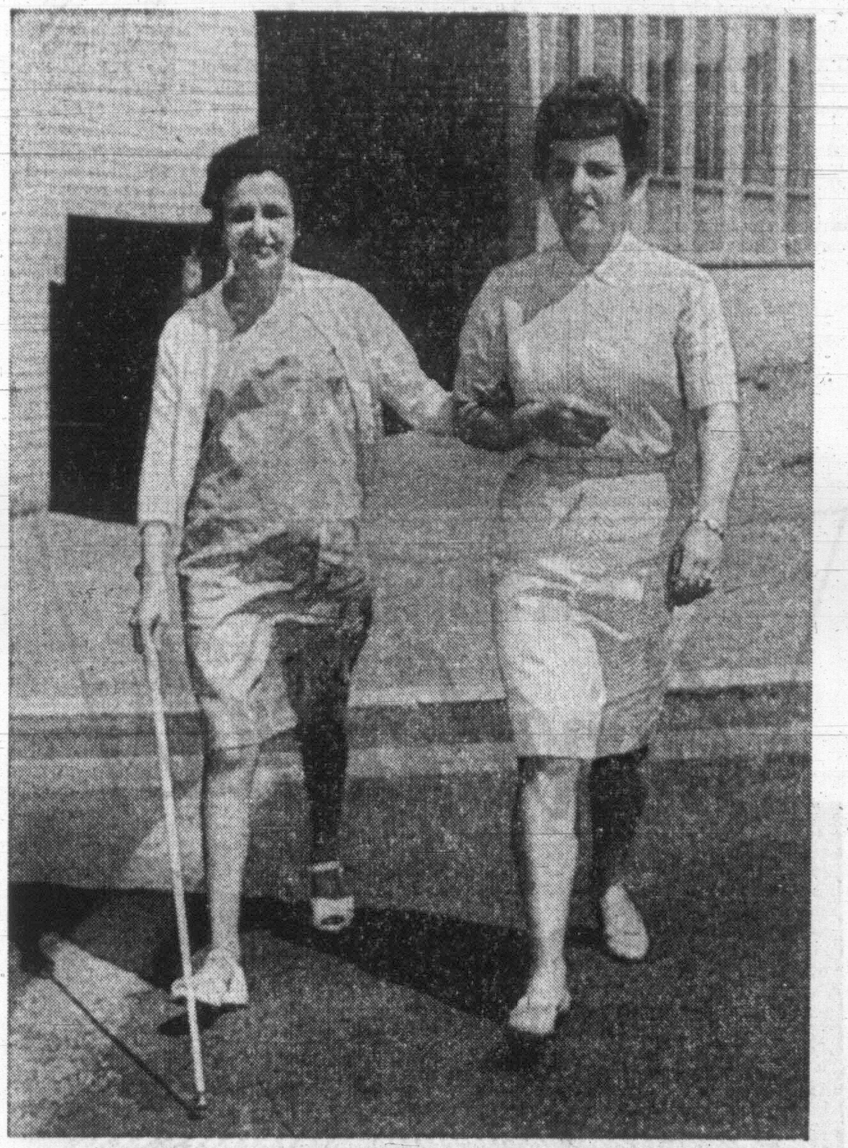
Partially Blind Instructress Stresses the Public's Role

TEACHES BLIND TO OBTAIN MOBILITY



"Let a blind person take your arm," says Rosemarie Druskin (on the right) as she demonstrates with Lillian Venn in front of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind Centre on Blanshard Street. Rosemarie, who is partially blind herself, is an instructor in mobility for the totally blind. She encourages her pupils to use public help at busy intersections. (Photo by Irving Strickland.)

By ELIZABETH BENNETT

Yes, Lillian Venn would like you to help her across the street.

Lillian, a short, dark-haired girl with a tall white cane, has been totally blind since birth. Each day she makes the bus trip from her home on Davida Avenue alone, walking from Douglas Street up to the Canadian Institute for the Blind centre on Blanshard Street. When she reaches the busy intersection at Blanshard and Fisgard she welcomes a helping hand.

"A lot of the public aren't sure whether to approach a blind person or not," says Rosemarie Druskin, mobility instructress with the CNIB. "Sometimes they have been brushed off by a blind person who wants to be independent."

Rosemarie has been working with the CNIB for seven years. She took her training in Toronto, spending several weeks in New York specializing in mobility. Now she works at the Vancouver office of CNIB, going wherever she is needed to train the blind.

AVOID 'BLINDISMS'

What is mobility? For a blind person it is the ability to use buses, escalators and stairways, the ability to get into a chair or to walk down a street. But Rosemarie adds another dimension to this. For her the blind person must not only be able to do all these things, but he must be able to do them graciously—without "blindisms."

"I always impress students to use public help," she says. "If someone doesn't offer, I tell them to ask. Victorians are generally very kind. 'Walk' and 'Don't Walk' signs are difficult for a blind person because they are silent; he cannot use the sound of feet to guide him. If a car is making a right or left turn a blind person has no way of knowing."

Rosemarie also demonstrates the proper way to lead a blind person. "Let him take your arm," she says. "If I push Lillian's arm you can see she has no direction but if she takes mine she can tell what is happening by the movement of my body."

This movement goes up as well as from side to side. Lillian recently made a walking trip from the Bay to the Empress Hotel and she reports that curbs set at odd heights are very confusing.

USES VARIOUS CUES

A blind person uses cues from all his senses, touch, hearing and smell, to find his way around. "If you come up to a table with people talking you know where it is but if you come into a room that is totally silent you have nowhere to start," says Lillian. "Groups of people standing in the middle of the sidewalk amuse me. They are just standing there saying nothing and before you know it you are on top of them. That is embarrassing for both you and them."

Lillian's long cane is part of the cane technique that Rosemarie teaches. It comes up to Lillian's elbow so that she can reach quite far ahead while "arcing." (This is tapping on each side of her path to locate any obstacles.)

"It is known as the long cane or Valley Forge method," says Rosemarie. "It was developed with the blinded veterans coming home from the war."

The cane Lillian uses is collapsible. In just a second or two she can fold it to pocket size. She also has a fair sense of "object perception."

NOT CONFINED

"I was playing with the other children as soon as I could walk," Lillian says. "My parents didn't keep me in my own yard just because I was blind." Born in Victoria, Lillian was sent to Jericho Hill School in Vancouver when she was four and returned only two years ago. "I found Victoria sort of familiar. It's not like coming into a strange city."

Our unpaved streets with ditches one side are a problem though. "You just keep well to the side, move over if you hear a car and keep arcing," Lillian reports.

"Mobility is the hardest thing for a blind person to learn," adds Rosemarie. "It is hard on the nerves. I never tell a person coming into one of my courses it will be a snap."

Mrs. Barbara Miskiman Elected As Head of Victoria BPW Club

Interpretation of the club emblem was used as a theme when new officers of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club were installed at a candlelight installation ceremony recently.

The installation officer was Miss Ruth Adams, a past president and president-elect of the Provincial Chapter of BPW clubs.

Mrs. Barbara Miskiman is the new president. Other officers are: Past president, Miss Elizabeth Clement; first vice-president, Mrs. Kae Fleming; second vice-president, Mrs. Irmgard MacMaster; recording secretary, Miss Ella Brett; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Carrie MacLean; treasurer, Mrs. Sally Hamill.

The directors are: Mrs. Beth Crerar, fellowship chairman; Mrs. Mabel Dean, legislation chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth Mayne, finance chairman and publicity; Mrs. Pat Lakin, employment conditions chairman, and Mrs. Lillian Wright, membership chairman.

Appointed as standing committee chairman are: United Nations, Mrs. Winnifred Bath; Victoria Council of Women, Miss Dorothy Crighton; Consumers' Association of Canada, Miss Emily Warburton; emblems, Miss Helen Cruikshank; newsletter, Mrs. Edith Forsyth; citizenship, Mrs. Sonia Rose; education, Mrs. Suzanne Dearman; archivist, Miss Marjorie Gibson; scholarship, Mrs. Lilian Smith; telephone, Miss Winnifred Ellis.

Mrs. Miskiman and Mrs. Fleming reported on the provincial conference, held in Manning Park. Congratulations were extended to Miss Adams, Mrs. Fleming and Mrs. M. Laughlin on their election to the provincial executive.

Mrs. Miskiman also reported on the Friendship Banquet which she and nine other Victoria members attended in Seattle. More than 40 Canadians attended the event, which was arranged by various Seattle BPW clubs.

Miss Brett told of a seminar to be held in Nanaimo on October 5 for the Victoria and Vancouver Island clubs. Attendance from the lower mainland is also expected. Mrs. Suzanne Dearman will be moderator and the topic will be "Human Rights and Responsibilities." Further details and the names of speakers will be given at the local club's dinner meeting in September.

GERNREICH SHOWS BLOOMERS FOR DAY AND EVENING

Pants Rate High on Fashion Poll

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — At the risk of being trite, I simply must say, women will wear the pants come fall and winter.

As an observer for the fashion scene for some time now, I thought that writing about women's trousers last year and the year before and the year even before that, the trend to trousers would dimish gradually.

Not so. The pants look takes over strongly in fall clothes and it's a rare designer of any note who doesn't include them as part of his new collection, shown as suits, paired with midi-length coats and capes, and then right on into evening.

There are knicker suits, suits with Bermuda length trousers, suits with trouser cuffs brushing the floor, and Rudi Gernreich, that man of avant garde design fame, even does bloomers for both day and evening. Just pair them with matching panty hose and away you go.

When talking of trousers, I'm not discussing the casual stretch slacks for sports, but of trousers with the full, wide legs like the men were wearing until somebody pared out a lot of the excess fabric. These are for women to wear anywhere a suit or costume goes.

Some designers call their trousers the Fred Astaires, named for the styles when the dancer was in his hey-day in Hollywood musicals. Others just say the 1930s inspired them. Still others, like Donald Brooks, choose a specific star of that era to epitomize their designs for 1968.

Brooks did the costumes for the forthcoming film, "Star," the story of the late Gertrude Lawrence, with Julie Andrews in the lead. The Lawrence look of elegance reflects completely in Brooks' wholesale collection for department stores and specialty shops.

Typical are Brooks' greatcoats, their huge collars turned up in the manner of the raccoons of the college set years ago, enveloping wide-legged trousers. Many of the standup collars are fur-lined.

A favorite Brooks combination is camel coat with grey flannel pants, or tweedy fabrics for both coat and pants. He also pairs wrist-length jackets with trousers, and belts the jackets, as who isn't belting everything in the New York garment industry for fall and winter!

Brooks is one of the more than 110 individual designers and manufacturers participating in a marathon series of showings of their new wares for the nation's visiting fashion press. The events, some of which start at 7:30 a.m. and others which continue well past midnight, will end June 28.

MEDICAL BILL FANTASTIC

Heart Transplant Cost Prohibitive to Masses

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — In time, human heart transplants may become commonplace. But their cost in dollars will likely remain uncommonly high.

There are no hard figures on the real, total cost of each heart transplant carried out so far. But it ranges up to $50,000 each, one heart specialist estimates.

If heart transplantation proves successfull, then at least 10,000 Americans might be candidates for new hearts each year, says Dr. Donald Fredrickson, former director of the National Heart Institute.

That could bring a new kind of medical bill totalling at least $500,000,000 a year.

In one heart case in which there are some precise figures —that of Michael Kasperak who received a borrowed heart at Stanford University last January—the hospital bill totalled $28,845.83. This amounts to about $1,900 a day for the 15 days he lived after operation. Hospital insurance covered $21,580 of this sum. Fellow workers and others are paying or have paid the remaining $7,265.83 expenses for blood by replacing 288 pints.

In this case, and presumably all others so far, the surgeons donated their services.

RECEPIENT DOESN'T PAY

Costs of heart transplants performed to date apparently have been borne mainly through medical insurance, through research funds, or private contributions, including contribution of skills and services.

Fredrickson, now chief of the Laboratory of Molecular Diseases of the Heart Institute, says he does not expect costs to decline significantly in the next few years even if heart transplants become rather routine. A prime expense is many days in hospital under intensive, special care.

Cost of kidney transplants have come down within the last decade.

At one centre for kidney transplants, the cost averaged $17,750 over a three-year period. Now it averages $13,300, with another $200 to $1,000 a year for follow-up costs.

Artificial kidneys—machines that purify the blood—are keeping victims of kidney disease alive through repeated use at hospitals or in the home. The annual cost ranges from $5,000 up.

The National Kidney Foundation cites estimates that 5,000 to 10,000 American die each year from chronic kidney disease, and that many of them could enjoy extra years of life if treated by kidney machines or borrowed kidneys.

But besides the enormous cost, there is a shortage of trained personnel and lack of adequate treatment facilities.

Bills introduced in Congress this year would provide $140,000,000 during the next five years to set up and operate artificial kidney and kidney transplant centres.

'REAL BREAKTHROUGH'

Vaccine Planned Against Syphilis

SAN FRANCISCO (WP) — "The most promising approach" yet to developing a syphilis vaccine was reported to the American Medical Association Thursday by government scientists.

In "a real breakthrough," a chimpanzee has been infected with a bacteria closely related to syphilis bacteria, said Dr. William J. Brown, veneral disease program chief at the Atlanta, Ga., communicable disease centre.

The bacteria is that of pinta, a mild South American skin disease that discolors the skin.

Syphilis and pinta bacteria are members of the same family — the treponema — and look exactly alike under a microscope.

Once a person gets pinta, South American scientists report, he is usually immune to syphilis. Where pinta is common, there is little syphili. But if Pinta is wiped out in a locality by penicillin, then gradually syphilis moves in.

The hope now, said Drs. U. S. Grant Kuhn and Leslie C. Norins, is to:

—Develop methods of growing large numbers of pinta organisms in animals and then in tissue cultures.

—Develop weakened strains of Pinta, that would infect midly without causing the disease.

Then use these to make a vaccine that hopefully would confer cross-immunity to the very similar syphilis bug.

Mysterious Bridge Fire Probed

LILLOOET, B.C. (CP) — A Pacific Great Eastern railway spokesman said Thursday police are investigating the possibility of arson in a fire that damaged a PGE bridge and closed it earlier this month.

The bridge, 821 feet long and 190 high, now is back in operation following repairs. The repair work re-opened PGE's line between North Vancouver and points beyond Lillooet, 110 miles northeast of Vancouver.

A PGE spokesman said cause of the blaze is a mystery. Ties and decking on the bridge had been treated with asbestos, it was raining the night of the blaze and wind was blowing away from the span.

Total cost of repairs was not determined, but replacement of 850 ties alone cost an estimated $120,000. While the bridge was closed, freight was moved by Canadian National Railways, passengers by bus.

CUTBACK MANDATORY

Johnson Tax Bill Assured

WASHINGTON (CP)-AP) — The Senate is expected today to complete congressional action giving President Johnson his long-sought 10-per-cent income tax surcharge.

Johnson has said he will sign the bill, although he opposes its provision for a mandatory $6,000,000,000 cut in government spending.

The House of Representatives passed the measure Thursday night 268 to 35.

Its key provisions originally were adopted in the Senate 53 to 35 April 2 as an amendment to a House bill.

Johnson has said spending restrictions may force cuts in federal programs he considers already at rock-bottom levels.

The surcharge is retroactive for individuals to April 1 and for corporations to Jan. 1. It is scheduled to expire June 30 next year unless the new administration to be elected in November and Congress decide to extend it.

The increase, to go into effect 15 days after presidential approval, will apply to all individuals except those at the bottom of the scale—single persons with $1,000 or less of taxable income and couples with $2,000 or less.

The new surtax means a single person earning $10,000 a year would pay $131 more in 1968 and $87 more in 1969. He now pays $1,742.

The surcharge, along with other tax provisions in the bill, will bring in an estimated $15,500,000,000 in extra revenue to help improve the government's dismal fiscal picture in the next year.

U.K. Envoy Freed

LONDON (Reuters) — British diplomat Raymond Whitney, whose departure from Peking was delayed for a year by the Chinese government, arrived here from Peking Wednesday. Whitney was beaten by Red Guards in May, 1967. He was scheduled to have left the British mission in Peking a year ago but the Chinese rejected requests for an exit visa.

9 IN MEMORIAM

GILBERT — In loving memory of a darling father and pappa, James Henry (Harry), who passed away June 21, 1967.

When we are sad and lonely
And everything goes wrong
We seem to hear you whisper
Cheer up and carry on.
Each time we see your photo
You seem to smile and say
Don't cry, I'm only sleeping
We'll meet again some day.

—Sadly missed by your daughter, Marie; son-in-law, Ted; grandsons, Gilbert and Paul.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A little learning is a dangerous thing. South knew all about the Bath Coup. He tried one at the wrong time and wound up taking a bath.

Opening lead—♦K

He played his five of diamonds at trick one. West held the trick with his king and was tempted to continue the suit. After all, his partner had played the seven. Then West looked over dummy and noticed that the seven was the lowest missing diamond. He shifted to the three of hearts.

South took East's king with his ace. There was no Bath Coup possible in hearts since, if South ducked, East would be holding the trick. Then South proceeded to run off four club tricks before going after spades.

Once South led a spade the contest ended quickly. East took his ace and led a heart. Since West had hung on to all his hearts, he collected three heart tricks and game had disappeared into limbo.

South's play of the five of diamonds was a genuine Bath Coup. This was first developed in the English resort town of Bath in the days of whist. It is quite effective in that it forces the player whose king holds the first trick either to give declarer two tricks in the suit or lead something else.

The trouble with this particular Bath Coup was that the diamond suit represented a futile threat to South contract. If South grabbed that first diamond trick and knocked out the ace of spades, the worst that could happen to him would be for East to give his partner three diamond tricks. If West had started with five diamonds, East would not have a diamond to lead.

Once the diamond parade ended, South would proceed to make the nine tricks necessary for his contract.

The "more-for-your-money car." If somebody ever tells you he drives an economy import with 96 h.p. engine that goes 100 m.p.h., has a safer, impact absorbing body, the safest suspension money can buy, a wrap-around air-flow system that keeps windows clear, that it looks great, handles like a dream and that he bought it from us for only $2,025, believe him. HAVE YOU $1,500
TO PUT DOWN ON A NEW HOME?

A lot of people cannot afford to buy their own homes because they cannot qualify for an N.H.A. loan or cannot meet the down payment of a duplex — We have the answer — you buy ½ of a duplex — We will build this duplex in the Gordon Head area which will have 2 units of 1189 square feet—bigger than the 1000 square foot homes which are selling around $23,000 and your price, including land, is $17,500 — your down payment is $1,500 — your monthly payments $138 plus ½ of the taxes. This beautiful colonial home has a through hall, 3-bedrooms, living room, dining room or family room, kitchen, 4 piece bathroom and full basement. We have a limited number of lots. Call B. Price 385-2458.

DO YOU HAVE $9,000?

HEARTWARMER!
LOVELY OAK BAY!

This eye-appealing Tudor style home is set in a delightful secluded, treed garden in a quiet, beautifully maintained area of good homes. Its comfortable (18x15) living room features oak floor, beamed ceiling and deep fireplace. Two bedrooms (12x12) have extra large lighted closets and a small dining room adjoins the sunny kitchen. The full basement is bright and has a drive-in garage — although this need not be used as there is also a separate garage. Copper plumbing, glass lined H.W. tank, hot water heating and a one room guest or summer house (wired and insulated) are just a few of the attractions. Accurately priced at $18,900 with terms or clear title. George Blackburn 385-2458 or 386-0849.

PEACE and COMFORT
In Upper Lansdowne

Here's a rare jewel due to its location. Its size, its liveability rare because there are so few homes with 4 bedrooms with 3 baths in this lovely area, in this price range. The entrance foyer hall provides a good traffic pattern to areas such as a large family room, den, large living room with fireplace and teak paneling. A double glass door divides the dining-room from the large covered sundeck with fireplace. The kitchen is completely modern with lovely ceramic tile on cupboards and wall, a good eating area for the large family. This lovely home is on a large well landscaped fenced lot, with double garage. See it today it could bring you a lifetime of happiness, the price in only $43,500. Close to school and shopping.

LANDSEND ROAD COMPLETELY MODERN $51,500

A lovely secluded home on one acre of waterfront property. Facing northwest it has the full benefit of the evening sun which can be enjoyed on the sundeck overlooking the water. This is a beautiful finished home a little in the rustic style with much use of cedar and old brick. The high beamed ceilings accentuate the feeling of spaciousness in the living room, dining room, kitchen and master bedroom. The lower level has been skilfully developed to provide two additional bedrooms, den with fireplace, laundry and second complete bathroom. Do give yourself the pleasure of viewing this delightful property.

Six Plan To Join Medicare

Six medical insurance societies have agreed to become licensed carriers of the B.C. medicare plan when it links with federal medicare, July 1.

Geoffrey Stewart, chairman of the B.C. Medical Services Commission said today the six new administrative arms of the medicare plan are:

Provincial Teachers Medical Services, Canadian Pacific Employees Group, Automotive Retailers Medical Association, Fraser Valley Medical Services Society, MSA, and CU and C.

In addition three other societies will join the medicare plan by joining MSA. These are Woodwards, Cunningham Drugs, and Telephone Employees plans, he said.

Mr. Stewart said officials of the carriers are working "night and day" to get ready for the July switch-over in which Ottawa begins paying half the medicare costs in the province.

One of the major jobs under way is to negotiate with the numerous private insurance schemes to provide an opportunity for their total of 244,000 subscribers to join the medicare plan either through the B.C. medical plan or through one of the licensed carriers.

Responsibility to make sure coverage is obtained under the medicare plan rests not only with the private schemes but also with individuals, provincial officials said.

Picnic Planned For Stampeders

Don't stampede, but ex-Calgarians living in Victoria are invited to a reunion picnic Sunday behind Goldstream Inn.

It's a bring-your-own lunch affair and the frolic gets underway at 1 p.m.

Picnic organizer is Paul Rowe, captain of the 1948 Grey Cup winning Calgary Stampeders.

Drug Addict Jargon Helpful to Police

An RCMP officer testified Thursday a bag containing 942 "blue tablets" was found shortly after he had asked a Seattle youth if he "might be able to steer me to some acid."

Constable Geroge Robertson said he had spent two months "on the street" and that "a tab of LSD was worth $5 on the street."

The evidence was given in the trial of Harold Wood of Seattle and Ivars Zarins of Santa Rosa, California, both charged with possession of marijuana and selling LSD.

Robertson said he went to an Esquimalt motel unit May 22 clad in cowboy boots, jeans, sweat shirt and an old red jacket. Wood appeared after he knocked at the door.

Robertson testified that Wood said "what person told you that" after he asked him the question about acid. Following the discussion several other police officers arrived and the plastic bag containing the tablets was found behind a board in a garage adjoining the unit.

Court was also told some green plant-like material was found in a large piece of silver foil in the same place as the tablets.

The trial continues July 2.

Linen Workers Ready to Sign Wage Contract

Thirty-five employees of Canadian Linen Supply, Victoria, have voted to accept a new contract, it was announced Thursday.

The 30-month contract provides wage increases of 30 cents an hour in the first year and from 25 cents to 48 cents in the second, said John Squire of Vancouver, representative for the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union.

Other provisions include four and five-week vacations, sick leave, severance pay, welfare and improved contract language, he said.

The new agreement provides the same terms as the recent agreement with Nelson's Laundries and covers office and plant workers. Employees, who had earned $1.37½ to $2.14 an hour, voted to strike the company last week.

MYSTIQUE COVER-UP

Charman Charges Colossal Fraud

Conservative candidate Eric Charman Thursday accused Liberals of avoiding embarrassing election issues with Trudeaumania.

By concentrating on the Trudeau mystique, the Liberals are perpetrating "a colossal fraud," he said, calling the Trudeau rally here Monday "a political love-in."

In a speech at the White Eagel Hall in James Bay, Mr. Charman attacked his Liberal opponent David Groos as a man who "has failed to speak out for his constituency when he should have done."

Mr. Tudeau had no news for pensioners or west coast shipbuilders when he was here, Mr. Charman said, and he described it as a "remarkable coincidence." that the public address system failed before the prime minister could answer any questions from the crowd.

The Conservative candidate charged this election was called because Canada is in economic trouble.

Thirty per cent of Victorians on fixed incomes are having a hard come to live, he said.

Mr. Charman traced accelerating inflation to a 30 per cent raise given St. Lawrence Seaway workers two years ago, and he said industrial wages have risen 45 per cent in five years.

"This is why we're finding it tough to get into markets."

In response to a question about income tax exemptions, Mr. Charman said that if the economy is in as good a state as the Liberals say it is, why can't this figure, which Liberals set 15 years ago, be raised.

Yard Fires To Continue; Trip Costly

Backyards will continue to burn in Victoria.

The city's lands and firewardens committee was asked Thursday to ban backyard incinerators if not totally at least on weekends.

Only Ald. Robart Baird thought the idea of a partial ban or at least a complete review of the situation worthwhile. Other committee members voted solidly in favor of the smell of smoke and smouldering cabbage stalks.

Oak Bay has already introduced a Sunday ban on garbage incinerators and Vancouver has gone one long step further with a total ban on all backyard burning.

Ald. Baird told the committee that he was aware of the problems a total ban might bring. "It would mean stepping up garbage collections and it would cost the taxpayers money," he said. "But I think the time has come when we should instruct the city engineer to bring us in a full report on the situation. It is quite serious."

Other committee members disagreed supporting instead Ald. Percy Frampton who said he valued his backyard burning privileges.

In other business finance committee members deferred a final decision on a request from city manager Dennis Young that he and personnel director Terry Fitzpatrick be authorized to attend a three-day manpower conference in Montreal in November.

Cost of the trip would be around $1,000 and was termed an "utter waste of money," by Ald. Baird.

Assistant to the city manager William Hooson, presenting the request, said the three-day seminar would be of tremendous value to Mr. Young and Mr. Fitzpatrick. "This wouldn't be a relaxing seminar," he said. "The people attending it will be working 24-hours a day."

Ald. Frampton moved that the matter be referred to the Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee to see if other municipalities would share the cost of sending one representative to Montreal to represent the entire area.

Former City Music Teacher Dies in East

Mrs. Olive Crampton Stuart — teacher, pianist and composer and for many years resident in Victoria — died in New York recently at the age of 70.

Mrs. Stuart came to Canada 16 years ago and helped organize the British Columbia Registered Music Teachers' Association.

She studied under Marc Hambourg in England and later under Boris Roubakine and Lloyd Powell of Vancouver.

In 1962 she entered the University of Washington school of music, specializing in composition. But Mrs. Stuart composed music for musicians rather than for popular use. Many of her works were in competitions and examinations.

She is survived by her husband, A. G. Stuart; a daughter, Dr. Sonia Ryan, Denver; and three sons, Mark C., Victoria; C. Michael, Eugene, Ore., and Robert C., Cambridge, Mass.

Young 'Hopper' Vulnerable

By JACK BEASTALL

Many newcomers to this area have made their first acquaintance with the so-called spittle bug. Spittle bugs are the nymphs of the leaf-hoppers that will later be leaping from many plants when disturbed by a passer-by.

Hilda

These are sucking insects that attach themselves to soft plant stems, draw out some juice, pass it through body openings, then beat it into a froth with their legs to form a protective covering.

Within this covering the nymphs are safe from all predators, heat, cold, sunshine, and the majority of sprays, until fully grown and with the hard covering of the adults.

Living within this environment of moisture and relative darkness, their bodies are very soft and unable to withstand exposure to normal air conditions and strong light, especially sunshine. Once dislodged from the plant they are unable to produce their protective spittle and soon die from exposure or are picked up by predators.

The fumes from Clensel ammoniated soap with a little nicotine sulphate (Black-leaf 40) added is about the only mix that will produce fumes to penetrate the spittle and kill the nymphs, but the air temperature has to be 70 degs. F. or higher.

Since these temperatures rarely prevail when the spittle bugs are making garden plants unsightly, we often obtain better results with a fairly strong stream of water from the hose. This washes off the spittle and dislodges the nymphs, but the force must never be strong enough to damage plant foliage.

In seasons when the bugs are not too numerous, we wash down the plants, then pick off the nymphs and dispose of them between thumb and finger.

While the spittle bug does cause distortion of a few growths, especially on the fall flowering asters, the disfigurement is not a permanent damage.

YOUR HEALTH

How Long To Stay On Couch?

By WALTER C. ALVAREZ

I was just reading an excellent and thought-producing article by that very able psychiatrist, Dr. C. H. Hardin Branch of the University of Utah Medical School. He discusses some of the problems of treating patients with psychotherapy.

Alvarez

What interested me most was the discussion of how long after it is obvious that psychotherapy won't work should the psychiatrist go on treating. Dr. Branch says that when a patient of his with a terrible phobia seems to be about over it, he dismisses the fellow, telling him to come back in a month or six weeks and report on how he is getting along. Blessings on Dr. Hardin Branch for his wisdom and his kindness.

This paper made me think of the pile of letters I have received in the last few years from readers of this column who have told me sadly of having undergone perhaps two or three years of psychoanalysis without getting any benefit, that they could see.

Recently I was shocked when I saw an able lawyer who admitted to having had eight years of psychoanalysis from a couple of men—one after the other—without getting any benefit. In this case the patient should have had enough sense to quit, perhaps after a month of failure to improve. Interestingly, I gave him some medicine which he says almost cured him overnight.

Why didn't the analysts make a few examinations? Why didn't they ask and learn of the man's terrible family history and why didn't they try medicines? The old-fashioned kind of psychiatrist—whom I loved—would, I am sure, have tried medicines.

Often I marvel at the patient's having kept on going to the psychotherapist for so long, and I marvel at the ability of the doctor to stand the boredom of treating one person perhaps for three hours a week for several years, when there was no sign of getting anywhere. Every so often a patient tells me that finally his analyst told him to go, and he didn't want to go; he had become so dependent on the doctor.

I feel all the more doubtful of the wisdom of treating schizophrenia and manic depressive patients for years with psychotherapy, when very able psychiatrists like my friend Dr. Abram Hoffer of Canada, tell me that they have had such uniformly poor results with psychotherapy in these diseases that they have quit such treatment, and are now trying to find a drug that will help. Actually, many times a drug does help.

I just got a grateful letter from a happy woman who, when she came to me a few years ago, was utterly miserable and unable to work, with a severe depression.

When I sent her to a fine psychiatrist friend of mine, he said that the only treatment he would care to try on anyone so terribly depressed would be electroshocks, but she had no money, and she could not go into a hospital, there to get half a dozen of the very expensive shocks.

I put her on one of the anti-depressive drugs, and within two months she was back at work and very happy. She has remained well ever since.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Greg Bennett, age 12, of Indianapolis, Indiana, for his question:

When were the moons of Mars discovered?

There are times when Mars is way out of sight and times when it seems no higher than a glowing red lamp on top of the nearest mountain. Astronomers say that there are favorable and unfavorable times for viewing the details of the red planet, and the favorable times are very rare. They occur at a period of opposition when the earth is between Mars and the sun. This event occurs once in a period of two years and 50 days. Then Mars is in opposition — but not every opposition is favorable. In fact, a favorable opposition occurs only once in 15 or 17 years.

The last favorable opposition was in 1956 and the next will come in 1971. At these times, the earth and Mars are separated by only 35 million miles and the glowing red planet appears bright above us in the night skies for several weeks. Then is the time for amateurs with small telescopes and experts with big telescopes to observe all they can.

The Martian moons were discovered during a favorable opposition in the year 1877. They were spotted by the American astronomer Aspah Hall with the help of a large telescope at Washington's Naval Observatory. The two little moons appeared as tiny dots of light, very close to their parent planet. It was decided to name them Phobos and Deimos — Fear and Panic — for the two unworthy companions of Mars, the ancient god of war.

Photos Taken

Phobos is estimated to be about 10 miles wide and it orbits around Mars about 3,700 miles above the planet's surface. Deimos circles around about 12,500 miles above the planet and it is somewhat smaller than Phobos. Phobos completes three orbits while Mars rotates once around its axis. Seen from the surface of the planet, the tiny inner moon appears to rise in the west and set in the east. Deimos takes a little more than 30 hours to complete its orbit — or a few hours longer than the Martian day. The outer moon takes two and a half days to journey over the Martian skies, and between rising and setting it passes through all lunar phases twice.

U.S. spacecraft Mariner IV sent back some very vivid photos of Mars taken from 6,100 miles above the surface, but no new data was added on the Martian moons. Astronomers already had figured out the speeds and orbits, the locations and approximate sizes of the tiny satellites.

Estimates on the density of the Martian moons led to some rather astonishing science fiction-type speculation. Our scientists figured that Phobos is made of materials lighter than any known solid. Russian scientists used this data to make a wild guess that Phobos must be hollow. And, they argued, a hollow satellite must be artificially made by intelligent beings. Nobody has proved this true or false. The fabulous notion of life on Mars must wait until our spacemen land there and relay on-the-spot information that can be accepted as facts.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Jim Remondino, age 11, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, for his question:

Is it true that Lake Winnebago is bigger than Great Salt Lake?

Utah's Great Salt Lake is 75 miles long and its average width is 50 miles. Its salty waters cover an area of 1,500 square miles. Lake Winnebago is the largest of the many lakes in Wisconsin. It nestles amid the forested greenery of the eastern central part of the U.S. state where the people take their lush super-scenery for granted. Great Salt Lake is bounded by rugged deserts, and these regions have beauty of a very different kind. The great salty lake in the desert is just about seven times bigger than Wisconsin's Lake Winnebago. In fact, it is about 51 miles larger than all the inland waters of Wisconsin — and this includes 8,000 lakes large enough to be placed on the state's map.

Lake Winnebago is 30 miles long and its width varies from five to 10 miles. It covers a total area of 215 square miles. Actually it is a big bathtub that belongs to Wisconsin's wandering Fox River. The river empties in its fresh water at Oshkosh on the western shore. It drains out the surplus water on the northern shore, near Neenah and Menasha. From there the Fox River flows on to empty its waters into Green Bay.

Pens to Repellants Ocean Race Necessities

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

Yo Ho Ho and a bottle of shark repellent. That's what it takes these days if you're cross-Pacific racing.

Hewett

Because there's more involved in the Victoria-Maui Race than merely entering a stout boat and a stout-hearted crew. There's a formidable list of requirements which must be met before an entering yacht can be duly certified. The object is to ensure that everyone comes home in good condition . . . even on the off chance that the boat doesn't.

Take, for example, the ship's dinghy. It must be outfitted with flares, food, water, a medical kit, a patch repair kit, paddles, a knife, and even a specified number of fishing lines and fishing hooks.

Each crew member must have a D.O.T. approved lifejacket equipped with a flashing light (with a 12-hour life), a small vial of dye-marker stain . . . and a bottle of shark repellent.

Other required safety gear includes twin Dan-buoys, each with dye marker; two floating rings with high-intensity 12-hour flashing lights; a safety harness for each crew member, and a radar reflector.

Each yacht must have a 35-watt transmitter and receiver.

But since the Maui Race is, after all, a contest for "amateurs," radar sets are outlawed. So are professional skippers and navigators. so is LORAN (a navigational aid which plots radio beams on a recorder and oscilliscope).

But there is some "outside" assistance available. Each boat will compile its own weather maps from coded dats which will be transmitted to all contestants.

A short pre-race briefing session will familiarize the participants with the decoding procedures. And the ship's required equipment will include a red felt pen for marking in "warm fronts," and a blue felt pen for marking in "cold fronts." (Other small items to be carried for chart work include a ballpoint pen, soft lead pencils, and erasers.)

The Potlatch is the latest Victoria yacht to tackle the arduous task of preparation for this ocean race. RCNSA skipper Wally Meakes was three years finishing his 37-foot sloop, which began as a fiberglas hull (the third to be moulded locally, following the Warrior and the Concubine).

The Potlatch crew will include two husband-and-wife teams; Wally and Molly Meakes, and George and Pat Dufour. Roger Schmutz, who has crewed with the Dufours on the Little Swiftsure circuit, will also go along. The Meakes formerly raced in Sailorettes.

Potlatch, launched in April, has already competed in the Victoria Regatta and the 1968 Swiftsure.

SHORT TACKS: Ronnie Ramsay has withdrawn the Norena of Wight from the Maui Race, for lack of a crew to bring her back . . . The first issue of the Pacific Yachting Journal appropriately features a full color cover photo of the Royal Vancouver yacht Jeunesse, another Maui Race contestant. Victoria's Jim McVie is the magazine's official photographer and contributing editor. The Journal for July covers every aspect of boating—from houseboats, to Power Squadrons, to Capital City Yacht Club's opening ceremonies, to concrete boats, to the Yachtsman's Camera.

The weekend's sailing schedule includes fleet championships at RVYC for Cal 20s, Haidas and Thunderbirds . . . RVYC cruising class yachts will also compete in the Port Angeles Race . . . Behind many a sailing "success" story is a case where "bad luck" didn't mean giving up, but merely provided the spur to try a little harder. In Wednesday night's stormy race, one crew jury-rigged a substitute Genoa hallyard, and lashed a boom to the mast with rope when the gooseneck broke. And "Uncle Ned," at the helm of May D II, went on to win the Thunderbird class, in spite of it all . . . During the blow, John Todd was out in Cadboro Bay tuning his six-metre Llanoria in preparation for the month-end PIYA Regatta in Bellingham. The sixes have a relatively short, but very competitive, racing season. PIYA usually sees a good turnout.

Research Institute Appoints Director

VANCOUVER (CP) — Conrad M. Lamond, 45, founder of a Vancouver firm of consulting psychologists, Thursday was named first full-time executive director of the Educational Research Institute of British Columbia.

His appointment to the $18,000-a-year post was announced by James M. Campbell, president, who said the year-old institute hopes to approach a budget of $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 a year.

The institute has allotted $62,000 for research studies in the elementary and secondary fields.

Mr. Campbell said he hopes the budget soon will pass the $1,000,000 mark. He suggested the province contribute 20 to 25 per cent and trustee, teacher, parent-teacher and business interests the remainder.

The institute was formed by the Vancouver school board, the province's four universities and provincial teachers, trustees and parent-teacher association.

Mr. Lamond, one of 69 candidates for the director's post, is president of the B.C. division of the Canadian Association for Adult Education and a lecturer in industrial psychology.

S. AFRICA AGAIN SHIPS GOLD

CAPE TOWN (AP) — Finance Minister Nicolaas Diederichs announced today that South Africa will resume gold shipments abroad.

He said in a press statement the government has agreed to make available $19,000,000 in gold to the International Monetary Fund for France, and $23,000,000 to the fund for Britain, resulting in a fall in South African gold reserves held outside the country. The reserves will have to be replenished through resumed gold shipments, the minister said.

Diederichs gave no indication how or when his government would resume overseas selling of its newly-mined gold, about 75 per cent of the non-Communist world's output.

South Africa "reserved its right" to act after announcement of the two-tier price system for gold.

Diederichs and Prime Minister John Vorster criticized the two-tier system as a temporary gimmick and appealed for an increase in the official pegged price of $35 U.S. an ounce as the only realistic solution to international monetary problems.

South Africa's gold and foreign exchange reserves are at a record high, and it has no immediate need to sell gold for foreign exchange. But gold comprises 35 per cent of the value of South African exports normally and cannot be stockpiled forever.

Economists say a stable market is necessary for South Africa's huge production and cannot depend on the vagaries of the free market, which is at the mercy of speculators and hoarders.

Separatists Issue Call For Anti-Trudeau Rally

Up to 160 Ships May Be Stranded

MONTREAL (CP)—A strike by 1,200 workers effectively blocked vessel movements in the St. Lawrence Seaway today and trapped a large number of ocean-going vessels within the system.

The strike began at 8 a.m. EDT and an official of the striking Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers predicted it could last at least until after next Tuesday's federal election.

There were conflicting reports of the number of ocean-going ships, most of foreign registry, trapped in the seaway.

In Montreal, a spokesman for the national harbors board said 58 ships were caught between here and Port Colborne, Ont. But other reports said more than 160 ocean-going vessels were trapped.

Seven ships were reported at anchor in the seaway itself between St. Lambert and the Iroquois locks.

RUSHED THROUGH LOCKS

Some 30 vessels were cleared downbound Thursday and passed through the St. Lambert lock in Montreal in a rush to clear the seaway before the strike deadline.

The strike, called to back demands for higher pay, is the first to hit the seaway in its 10 years of operation.

Hopes for a last-minute settlement evaporated Thursday night.

"The government's inflexible stand and its failure to mediate in this dispute leaves us with no alternative but to exercise our legal and democratic rights to withdraw our members' services at 8 a.m.," William J. Smith, president of the CBRT, said in Ottawa.

MINER WAS LAST

The Cape Breton Miner, downbound from Toronto, was the last to clear the St. Lambert locks in Montreal at 8:08 a.m. The vessel, a self-unloader, is owned by Upper Lakes Shipping.

In Montreal harbor, outside the seaway system, a total of 32 sea-going vessels were berthed. Those scheduled to leave for foreign ports would not be affected by the system's closure.

Hundreds of seamen at Ontario ports were affected by the strike, which closed the sole passageway between Lake Erie and Lake Ontario at the Welland Canal. The last vessel to clear the canal was the John E. F. Misener of Canadian registry headed for Cleveland, Ohio, with a shipment of iron ore.

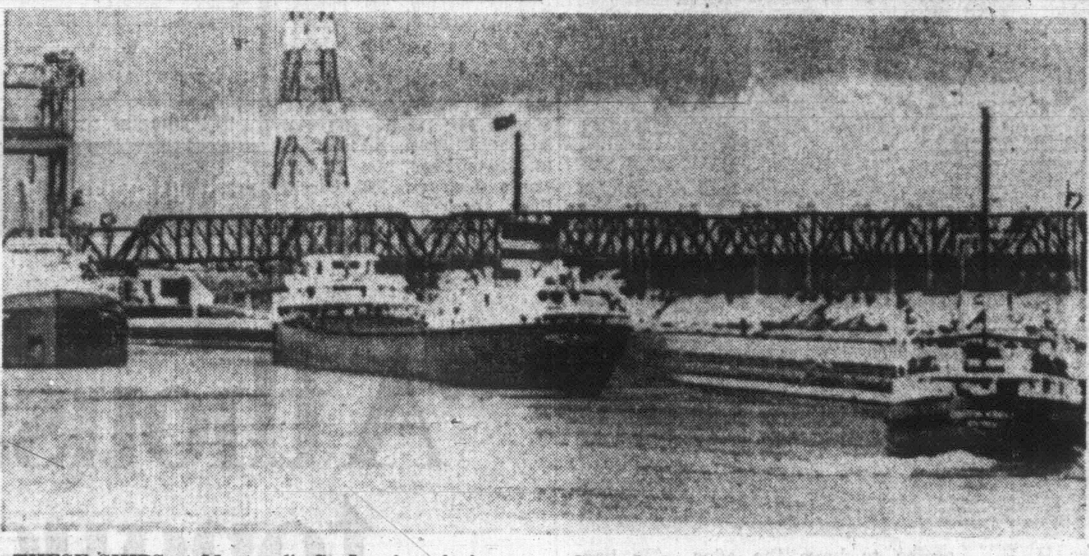
All ships above Port Colborne, Ont., in the Great Lakes were able to continue operating because the strike does not affect U.S. locks at Sault Ste. Marie linking Lake Superior with Lake Huron.

On orders from the seaway authority, sections of the seaway between Montreal and Lake Ontario were closed Thursday and traffic came to a virtual standstill in anticipation of the strike.

NEW WAY DISCOVERED TO DETECT TUMORS

HONEY HARBOUR, Ont. (CP)—Three McGill University scientists have scored a major breakthrough in the war on cancer by finding a new way to detect tumors in the gastric tract almost before they begin to grow.

The technique is said to be 80-per-cent effective which puts it on a par with the Pap smear test for women that has helped reduce the death rate from cancer of the uterus by 50 per cent since 1945.



THESE SHIPS at Montreal's St. Lambert lock are trapped in the St. Lawrence Seaway as 1,200 workers went on strike this morning. Oil carrier Coastal Creek, far right, was the last vessel to enter the locks before they were closed to inbound traffic. (CP Wirephoto.)

40,000 Cheer Trudeau

MONTREAL (UPI)—Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau was accorded one of the most tumultuous welcomes of the June 25 election campaign today when he arrived at the concourse of Montreal's Place Ville Marie office and shopping plaza complex.

The mini-skirted secretaries rubbed shoulders with workmen and businessmen in the throng of about 40,000 that streamed into the concourse to cheer and applaud the tanned 48-year-old bachelor.

Hundreds more watched the crowd from the windows of buildings that lined the huge square.

1,400 Police Await Monday

MONTREAL (CP)—Separatist leader Pierre Bourgault has accused Prime Minister Trudeau of being a "traitor" who has "sold out" the French-Canadian "nation".

The head of the Rassemblement pour l'indepenance nationale called upon his supporters to demonstrate against the Liberal leader when Mr. Trudeau reviews the St. Jean Baptiste Day parade here Monday night on the eve of the federal election.

About 1,000 persons packed an east-end arena Thursday night and responded with wild cheering as Mr. Bourgault in a bitter personal attack claimed that Mr. Trudeau is fighting the election campaign by knocking down separatism.

"If an English-speaking prime minister came here and told us what he is telling us, we would kill him," Mr. Bourgault said.

About 1,400 police will patrol Montreal streets Monday to attempt to keep order.

The separatist leader said he personally plans to watch the parade, high point of week-long festivities in honor of Quebec's patron saint, from a position in front of the reviewing stand in the city's east end.

Mr. Trudeau has been invited by the Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies to be guest of honor on the stand.

URGES BIG TURNOUT

He also asked his followers to turn out en masse to demonstrate against Mr. Trudeau's policies at tonight's La Grande Fete—an evening of entertainment by popular French-Canadian stars in suburban Anjou.

The prime minister was to make a brief appearance at the show but Liberal party officials announced Thursday that he would not be able to appear because of his tight schedule.

The prime minister is to attend an 8 p.m. rally in the Montreal riding of Hochelaga and then proceed by helicopter to another rally at 10 p.m. in Joliette, about 40 miles north of here.

"If he doesn't appear at the show, then it is a victory for us," Mr. Bourgault told his audience.

The separatist leader said he feels Mr. Trudeau has no right to attend the Monday parade "because it is a national holiday and he does not recognize the existence of the Quebec nation."

Aside from the RIN, several other Quebec nationalist groups have announced they intend to demonstrate against Mr. Trudeau's presence at the St. Jean Baptiste Day festivities.

They are the Committee for Socialist Independence, the Chevaliers de l'independance, the Jeunesses rinistes, the Popular Liberation Front, and the June 24 Patriotic Committee.

Meanwhile, Maurice St.

DOUGLAS TALKS UNITY IN QUEBEC

By TOM MITCHELL

MONTREAL (CP)—New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas made national unity his pitch Thursday on a brief election campaign visit to Montreal.

Only the NDP can bring "genuine national unity" to Canada, founded on "social justice and economic equality," he said during a party rally in a north-end hockey arena.

Earlier, Mr. Douglas did some mainstreeting in west-end shopping plazas in a drive by the party to make a breakthrough in Quebec, where it has never won a seat in a federal election.

The diminutive NDP leader got a great reception from about 500 persons in the arena. Two hefty workers carried him on their sholders when he arrived, depositing him on the speaking platform as a band blared.

But the crowd seemed to lose

RUSH

Stock Fraud Suspect Held In London

LONDON (CP) — Meyer Rush, wanted on a huge stock fraud case in Toronto, was caught by police while asleep in a London luxury hotel today and steps were immediately taken to extradite him to Canada.

A Scotland Yard officer said Rush, who registered at the hotel under the name of Michael Brian Rush, will appear at Bow Street magistrate's court, Saturday in the first stage of the extradition proceedings.

The 44-year-old Canadian, who jumped $40,000 bail on the fraud conspiracy charges last year, gave a Toronto address when he registered at the Royal Lancaster, a Hyde Park luxury hotel, June 9. He told the hotel he would remain for five weeks.

The Scotland Yard officer said police acted on a tip but declined to disclose further information.

The officer said Rush is being held in custody at the request of the RCMP.

Rush, who arrived in London from Panama June 8, is wanted in court to answer charges of conspiracy to defraud the public of $100,000,000.

In Toronto, Clay Powell, Crown prosecutor, arranged a

TEAR GAS, BILLY CLUBS

Violence Hits Shantytowners

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Police fired tear gas, wielded billy clubs and arrested 77 demonstrators Thursday in the first violence of the Poor People's Campaign begun six weeks ago.

The eruption indicated growing militancy by the demonstrators and by the police, raising concern about what happens after the extended licence for the poverty camp—Resurrection City—expires Sunday.

Campaign leader Rev. Ralph Abernathy, in a midnight plea to the restive residents of the plywood camp, sought to cool emotions.

"I am pleading with you to say violence is not the way," said the heir to the leader of Negro non-violence, the assassinated Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

He spoke to a community almost under siege by helmeted police with tear gas.

"Let us stand firm and let us stand fast," said Abernathy. "Let us remain calm. Let us get a restful night so we can get up tomorrow ready to do business."

Just what that business is to be vitally concerns the government since the leadership has given no hint it means to call off its campaign for more food, more welfare, jobs and housing.

'WANT US OUT'

"This is exactly what they want, they're trying to get us out of here," said Rev. Andrew Young, vice-president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference headed by Abernathy.

"All they need is a little incident like this to get a court order and slap us with a $50,000 or $100,000 fine."

Trouble erupted just a day after 50,000 or more blacks, whites, Spanish-speaking Americans, Indians and other poverty elements had congregated at the foot of the memorial to the assassinated President Abraham Lincoln in a peaceful show marked more by middle-class affluence than want.

Viet Cong Resume Saigon Rocket Attack

From Reuters-AP

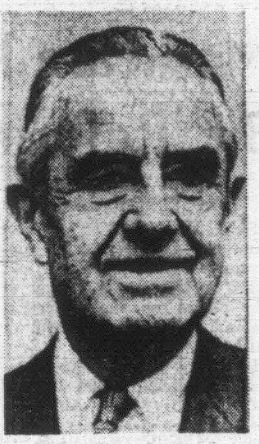
SAIGON (CP) — The Viet Cong early today launched their first rocket attack against Saigon in five days, killing six civilians and wounding 23 in a bombardment of the capital's airport and a northern suburb.

Ten rockets flashed into Gia Dinh suburb and the American air base and military command headquarters at Tan Son Nhut, a U.S. spokesman said.

The attack flattened six houses in the suburb and started a fire which burned for an hour before being brought unde control, a govenment spokesman said.

The U.S. spokesman said thee was little damage to the air base and to the headquarters of the American military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton Abrams.

The U.S. said South Vietnamese military casualties "were very light," and there were no U.S. casualties.



HARRIMAN

Envoy Sees Peace Talk Progress

PARIS (AP) — Ambassador W. Averell Harriman took off for Washington today to report to President Johnson that "some progress is being made by bits and straws" in the Paris talks on reducing and eventually ending the war in Vietnam.

He told reporters evidence has developed here that the North Vietnamese are serious in their approach to the talks.

He noted that top members of the U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiating teams have been holding longer informal sessions in the midst of their formal meetings, and found this encouraging.

"I'm not going to predict the future," Harriman said, "but if we could have private talks each side could find ways to make adjustments toward the ultimate objective of peace."

Harriman will be in Washington for 10 days.

'It Is Up to Stanfield What to Do About Ad'

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Ottawa Bureau

EDMUNDSTON, N.B.—Prime Minister Trudeau said Thursday he would leave it up to Conservative leader Robert Stanfield to decide what to do about a Conservative advertisement that said a Liberal vote was a vote for socialism and against Christian morality.

The prime minister quoted the advertisement from a local newspaper after making a militant defence of Criminal Code and divorce law amendments before a crowd of slightly over 2,000 at the Edmundston Arena.

WHAT IS PARTY STAND ON UNITY? ASKS PM

SAINT JOHN—Prime Minister Trudeau challenged Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield on Thursday to clarify the stand of his party as well as his "personal stand" on the issue of the two-nations policy and special status for Quebec.

"Mr. Stanfield has clarified his own personal stand," Mr. Trudeau said. "He has not clarified the stand of his party."

"If he does in Quebec," he added, "I can guarantee to you he will obtain the resignations of a great many Conservative candidates who came into the campaign in order to fight the Liberals, who are against two nations and special status."

TORY CHIEF GETS SCARE AS PLANE NEARS DITCH

It Turned Out to Be Happy Landing for PCs

Times News Services

HALIFAX — Robert L. Stanfield came home for a day Thursday, risking his neck at one point to get at the Liberal jugular in his native province.

The risk was repaid in a large and enthusiastic crowd at Port Hawkesbury, N.S., where his light plane landed on a slope of the Trans-Canada Highway in wind and rain after a turbulent flight from Halifax.

Port Hawkesbury is in the centre of Health Minister Allan MacEachen's riding, which now comprises most of the two Nova Scotia ridings that went Liberal in the 1965 election.

More than 2,000 persons were crammed into the Port Hawkesbury high school auditorium, others stood at the doors in the rain, and three classrooms were filled with people who had waited up to two hours for Mr. Stanfield's arrival.

His pilot was unable to find RCMP patrol cars marking off the "temporary landing strip" on the highway at the hilly Strait of Canso separating Cape Breton from mainland Nova Scotia and in desperation chose a slope two miles away.

"You've landed in the wrong place," a grinning Mountie said as the pilot and five passengers climbed out of the plane, which nearly slewed into a deep ditch as it rolled down the asphalt to a stop.

At Dartmouth later, an estimated 5,000 people milled outdoors at a shopping centre plaza and police said autos were backed up for miles as Mr. Stanfield spoke.

"MacEachen is on the run," he told the cheering crowd, which chanted "sock it to 'em, Bob." Someone threw a banana at the stand and Mr. Stanfield ducked, laughing.

SAME THEME

Mr. Stanfield visited Yarmouth on his first stop of the day. A crowd of about 1,000 went to a theatre to hear the former premier hit at the Liberals for using "phoney issues," a theme he repeated through the day.

Liberals had used full-page ads in Alberta and New Brunswick to say Mr. Stanfield stood for "two countries."

"Last night, a week late and not very graciously, Mr. Trudeau apologized."

"With their "phoney issue"

I'll Shoot Stanfield, Caller Tells Daughter

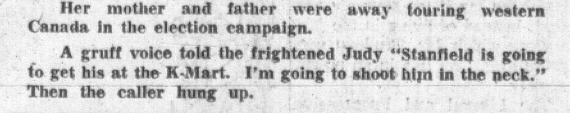
HALIFAX—A telephone threat on his life was brushed off today by Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield as "just another crank call".

RCMP, however, took it seriously and had a large corps of plainclothes men spotted at strategic points throughout the large throng at the Tory rally Thursday night.

The telephone assassination threat was received by 17-year-old Judy Stanfield at the Stanfield home in Halifax last Saturday.

Her mother and father were away touring western Canada in the election campaign.

A gruff voice told the frightened Judy "Stanfield is going to get his at the K-Mart. I'm going to shoot him in the neck." Then the caller hung up.



Th' separatists seem t' be gittin' separated from sense too.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Strong Surge In Active Trade

Industrials and oils led a strong surge on the Toronto Stock Market in active trading. Golds slipped.

Brokers said strength was due to Thursday's successful vote on the U.S. tax increase-spending cut bill in the House of Representatives.

Among climbing issues, White Pass and Yukon gained 1⅞ to 34⅞, International Utilities and Canadian Tire A 1½ each to 54½ and 50, Moore Corp. 1 to 30½ and Pacific Pete ⅜ to 21⅜.

Anthes Imperial A and Goodyear dropped 1½ each to 42½ and 183½.

Placer Development was up 1½ to 27. The company has joint plans with Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. to expand mining operations in Australia, Papua and New Guinea.

Dustbane Enterprises, newly listed Wednesday, rose ¼ to 18. The firm has set up its first overseas subsidiary in England to make cleaning equipment.

AT NEW YORK the market held a gain in active trading, although profit taking trimmed some advances.

Gains outstripped losses by some 200 issues. Averages were well into plus territory.

Passage of the surtax-spending-cut bill was fairly well anticipated, and there was some profit taking on the news. The general trend, however, was higher, and the trend remained the same.

Ashland Oil was up about 4, National General and Hooker Chemical about 2 each.

Among Canadians International Nickel was up ⅝, Distillers Seagrams ¼, Granby Mining ¼ and Massey ⅛. Dome Mines was down 1⅛ and Alcan ⅛.

AT MONTREAL the passage of the U.S. tax bill and signs of progress in Washington-Hanoi peace talks pushed prices up.

Brokers attributed the uptrend to passage today of an income surtax and mandatory cut in federal spending bill by the U.S. Senate and a statement by the country's defence secretary that "there is some movement" in Vietnam peace talks.

Among industrials, Wajax and International Utilities advanced 1½ each to 17 and 54¼ with gains of 1¼ posted by Scott-Lasalle at 28½ and Great Britain-Canada Investment at 14¼.

Southam, McAllister and Molson A added 1 each to 49, 11⅝ and 25 respectively. Argus, which reported a 3.69 per cent increase in half-yearly earnings, went up ½ to 14.

In senior mines and oils, Hudson Bay Mining and Imperial Oil edged up one each to 56 and 65¾; B-A, ⅞ to 41⅛, and Texaco, ½ to 30.

CPR added 1½ to 59½, Royal Bank ½ to 18 on 7,260 shares and B.C. Forest, ⅜ to 15⅞.

AT VANCOUVER prices were mixed as mining issues started to recover from a continued slump in light trading this morning.

Neon Products advanced $1 in the industrials to $34.25, while Interior Breweries gained $1.25 to $11.25. Block Bros. dropped a quarter to $14.25 and Cunningham was off 37 cents at $10.25.

Volume leader in the mines was Tannex, posted for trading this morning, hitting a high of $1.25 at the opening and dropping back to $1.10 at 11:30 on 122,500 shares.

Highmont lost a quarter to $1.40, New Cinch Uranium fell 15 cents to $1, and Arctic posted the same loss to $3.95.

Leading gainer in the mines was Silver-Lee, advancing 15 cents to $1.35, while Bethlehem and Dynasty each added a dime to $7.40 and $7.60, respectively.

Oils were down in price with Stampede losing 11 cents to $1.43 and Giant Reef 15 cents to $1.35. Merit added one-half cent to 43½.

Mortgage Rate Drop Indicated

OTTAWA (CP)—The current 9⅛ per cent ceiling on National Housing Act mortgage interest rates will probably drop to 9 per cent and perhaps lower in July, August and September, latest financial statistics show.

The ceiling rate is geared to the investment yield on long-term government of Canada bonds at market prices, and this has been dropping in the last three weeks.

The change in the financial climate was reflected in Thursday's treasury bill auction and in a sharp drop in average yields on Government of Canada bonds.

Yields on 90-day treasury bills dropped to 6.66 per cent from 6.84 per cent a week ago and 6.95 per cent on June 6. The long-term bond yield, seven per cent a month ago, was down to 6.88 per cent on Wednesday and should drop further next week.

Day loans in the money market have dropped more than half a per cent in the past week to an average of 6.30 per cent.

Corporate bond yields have also dropped this week as part of a widespread recovery in the bond market.

The turnaround in interest rates should mean cheaper bond financing, lower bank interest rates and cheaper mortgages before long.

Scratch a Nova Scotian, even an expatriate one, and you court stern reprisals. Witness this lady reader's fore-and-aft attack.

"Dear Sir:

"I would like to punch you right in the nose!!

"You said Mr. Stanfield was uncommonly like his native province—'long, raky, and somewhat behind the times.' You've got a nerve! What do you know about Nova Scotia anyway? (It is plain to be seen that you are not a Conservative.)

"As you probably know, Nova Scotia was Canada's first province. It was thickly settled and going strong when this cock-eyed place was only a wilderness. Many Canadian leaders came from there, good men too.

"Behind the times, indeed! For saying that, you deserve a good swift kick in the pants!"

There are other communications, but that sample tells the tale.

Its key words are "came from there"—something which the Bluenoses do with such good will that Boston is occasionally referred to as Canada's third city.

But no matter. From Cape Stormy to Cape Sable, she's a right good province, with fine fish in her seas, and what may well be the world's second-best apples in her Annapolis Valley orchards. I've roved her by road, trail and Cape Islander, and written of her more than once in affectionate terms.

Even is she is a little . . . well . . . you know . . .

★

Just about the nicest thing on TV these days is the lovely young matron with the modern-madonna face who strolls through a late evening insurance commercial.

You know the one: there's a tender song for background music, and the girl is obviously, wonderfully expectant. She is browsing with stately grace through a baby-wear department, smiling at this, dreaming over that, and giving a furry-toy ear a playful flip.

All very fetching. But that nice girl has been enceinte or Lord only knows how long, and I really think it's time her sponsors advanced the play to keep up with the processes of nature.

It's about time . . . and I know that a host of anxious viewers will agree . . . that we saw her with figure recovered and proud husband at her side, wheeling a baby carriage to a livelier tune.

★

B.C. Tel, I like your courteous and helpful operators, such of them as you still employ, but there are times when I would like to give you a punch in the nose and a good swift kick in your corporate pants.

Despite all manner of defensive double-talk, your long-distance telephone rates are scandalously high. Also—and here we come to the matter in hand—just how do you explain this bit of banditry?

A recent direct-dial evening call to Vancouver from my home was answered by a metallic recorded voice that parroted, "Please call such-and-such, the night number."

Caller did so, and in the course of time, we got billed for not one Vancouver call, but two.

Said the non-recorded company voice with which we checked:

"You reached a recording, but it was that company's recording, not ours, and it conveyed information. Therefore the call was completed, and we had to make the charge."

Well, if that's what can happen when you follow B.C. Tel's urging to use direct dialling, me for the non-mechanical operator . . . as long as she survives.

She wouldn't nick the public for a non-conversation with a platter, you bet!

Or, on the other hand, would she?

Note to any and all Vancouver Island candidates who score next Tuesday:

Gentlemen, we need more camping-hiking-fishing parks on our Island, and, most of all, we need a large national park north of Seymour Narrows.

The loggers, abetted by a cynical provincial government, will do their damnedest to block you. But your constituents, and their children, will bless the foresight that claimed this much back for the people.

SEALED BALLOT BOXES are appearing at Victoria polling stations today for the federal election next Tuesday. Victoria returning officer David Wilson, above, helps hand out the boxes at his headquarters. There are 208 polls in Victoria, and eight have had to be divided in half because of size. There are also six advance polls, meaning a total of 222 ballot boxes will have to be opened when the counting starts. (Times photo.)

Chatterton Roasted by Rivals For Controversial Vote Cards

Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate David Anderson today charged Conservative George Chatterton with "deliberately encouraging" voters to break the Canada Elections Act.

Mr. Chatterton last week sent cards to all constituents showing a sample ballot with an X marked by his name. Words on the ballot said: "Important: Take this notice with you and be sure to mark your ballot with the pencil supplied in the voting booth."

FOUR DAYS TO GO

Carrying any election material into a polling station is prohibited under the elections act.

Whether merely sending the cards represents a breach of the act is questionable according to Victoria returning officer David Wilson.

Chief Electoral Officer Jean-Marc Hamel said in Ottawa today it's "awfully close to the line."

Mr. Hamel said no charges would be laid by election officials, but this doesn't mean someone else won't press charges.

Mr. Anderson said Mr. Chatterton is encouraging delays in voting procedure and exploiting a misinformed public.

He termed Mr. Chatterton's call to settle the legality of the cards in the courts as "absurd."

INJUNCTION

"What does he want, an injunction to stop his name appearing on the ballot?"

Elections are determined not in the courts, but when the people have their say, Mr. Anderson said.

Mr. Chatterton is trying to reduce the chance of the people making their choice, he said, pointing out that if cards are left in the polling stations or if voting is delayed, the election may be overturned and have to be held all over again.

Both Mr. Anderson and NDP candidate Don Johannessen have sent out sample ballots too, but both omit the special notice on the Chatterton ballot telling voters to take the card to the polling station.

Cards similar to Mr. Chatterton's were distributed in support of Victoria Conservative Eric Charman Thursday.

Mr. Wilson said he can't do anything about it now except warn people that the cards may not be taken into the polling stations.

Only two local candidates are not using the cards.

Dr. Harvey Richardson, NDP candidate in Victoria, said he regards the cards as misleading and has steered clear of using them for that reason.

LOOK OFFICIAL

David Groos, the Liberal candidate in Victoria, said the cards tend to look "very official and I think that's why we decided not to use them this time."

His workers have distributed about 36,000 brochures instead and almost all of these were delivered by hand.

Arrival of New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas has been rescheduled to 12:45 p.m. Sunday at Victoria International Airport.

He had previously been scheduled to arrive later in the day.

He speaks at a rally in Memorial Arena at 8 p.m.

Cartoonist Wins Plaque

Times editorial cartoonist Bob Bierman has been awarded a bronze plaque by the National Foundation for Highway Safety, in New Haven, Conn., for his New Year's Eve cartoon on the theme of safe driving.

Bob Bierman

The announcement was made today by Wm. H. Neale, president of the foundation.

Mr. Bierman, on the staff of the Times for the past six years and known for his incisive political caricatures, chose a night club scene for his safe-driving message. In sarcastic vein, a lady points to two feet sticking out from under a table and comments: "No more for him, he says . . . he has to drive."

The National Foundation encourages press support for safe driving on this continent by annually offering plaques or prizes for outstanding articles, cartoons and editorials directed to the theme, "Driving carries a moral responsiblity."

Province to Review Cost-Split Formulas

Talks Resume With Nurses, B.C. Hospitals

Conciliator Named By Labor Minister

Talks between registered nurses and hospitals in British Columbia resumed today in Vancouver.

The development represented the first break in an impasse between the two sides over salary increases in a new contract.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson appointed Victoria-based conciliation officer Jack Sherlock to assist both sides in reaching an agreement.

A statement by the Registered Nurses' Association of B.C., representing just over 4,000 nurses at 61 hospitals, said however that "the nurses bargaining committee is continuing with plans for strike action in the event that the new talks do not lead to a settlement in the bargaining dispute."

NO STRIKE DATE

The association has not set a strike date or posted 48 hours strike notice since nurses in 59 of the hospitals voted 95 per cent in favor of this action in a government-supervised strike vote one week ago.

The dispute affects three hospitals in Victoria — Royal Jubilee, St. Joseph's and Gorge Road rehabilitation centre.

The hospitals have accepted, and the nurses have rejected, a non-binding conciliation board report which recommended salary increases of 21.8 per cent and 27.4 per cent in two steps this year.

The nurses are sticking by their original demands which amount to more than 50 per cent as well as a 37½-hour work week in place of the present 40 hours and portability of salary increments.

START AT $390

Present pay starts at $390 a month increasing to $466 after four years.

The conciliation board recommended, by the second stage effective July 1, $475 a month to start increasing to $593.75 after five years as well as a fifth week of vacation after 20 years and $1 a shift differential for evening and overnight work.

The nurses want $600 a month to start increasing to $841 after five years.

On Thursday, Premier Bennett said in Kimberley that the provincial government will not automatically lead nurses "by the ear" back to work if they strike.

Earlier, Labor Minister Peterson strongly indicated Bill 33 would be used to prevent a strike against hospitals. Later he expressed the hope that both sides could settle the dispute "without recourse to the mediation commission" established under Bill 33.

IWA TALKS PLOD ON

Official silence surrounded continuing negotiations today aimed at avoidng a shutdown of the B.C. coast woods products industry.

There was no comment at noon from the International Woodworkers of America, representing 26,000 loggers and mill workers, and Forest Industrial Relations, bargainer for 113 companies.

Earlier this week, the IWA officially reported "some progress" in the talks but gave no details. The current contract expired one week ago but remains in effect until negotiations break down.

Pulp Union Votes 91% For Strike

Some 3,500 members of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada at six mills voted 91 per cent in favor of strike action, the union announced Thursday.

Three of the mills are on Vancouver Island—Crofton, Harmac just south of Nanaimo and Gold River.

The union said it is ready for "real bargaining" and accused the Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations Bureau, bargaining agent for the mills, of "failure to bargain seriously."

It is seeking a 35-cent hourly wage increase in a one-year contract on the current basic rate of $2.84. The PPWC said employers have not made a wage offer. The existing contract expires at the end of the month.

Motorcyclist Only Fair After Crash

A 22-year-old motorcyclist is in only fair condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital after his machine slammed into a steel bus stop sign Thursday night.

Stephen Baxter, 1027 Chamberlain, received a broken leg and severe cuts.

Police said the motorbike apparently mounted the sidewalk 43 feet west of the four foot high steel sign.

The rider landed 12 feet from the sign and the motorbike was found in the centre of the intersection of Quamichan and Cowichan, a further 40 feet away.

A woman injured in an accident Thursday morning is reported in good condition in St Joseph's Hospital.

Police said a car driven by Gladys Smith, 37, of 1042 Goldstream, left the Trans-Canada Highway near Millstream and smashed into a rock bluff.

The drivers of two cars involved in a head-on collision at Fort and Bank just after 8 p.m. Thursday were treated for minor injuries at Royal Jubilee Hospital and released.

Police said an eastbound car driven by Eric Geary, 2326 Estevan, was in collision with a west bound car driven by Herbert Pickup, 2041 Allenby.

Both cars were heavily damaged.

Sun Obscured By Overcast On Longest Day

It's the longest day.

Summer began officially at 1:13 a.m. today.

And that means that today's 16 hours and nine minutes of daylight will be the most of any day this year.

Not that summer is too obvious. The sun was hiding behind a solid blanket of cloud most of the day. Scattered showers were in the offing.

Above all that cloud the sun today attained its greatest distance north of the equator to mark the summer solstice.

Daylight Saturday will be shorter—but only by a matter of seconds.

$750 Bail For Break-In

Bail was set at $750 today for a man charged with breaking and entering a Niagara Street apartment Thursday.

Sidney Hayward, 47, of 271 Michigan, was apprehended shortly after the owner of the apartment chased a man from inside.

Hayward was remanded without plea to June 28.

'Working Closely' With UBCM Team

By JIM HUME

The provincial government has agreed to review provincial-municipal cost-sharing formulas throughout the province.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said today his department is already working in close liaison with the Union of British Columbia Municipalities and local civic officials to pin-point the trouble spots and eliminate "some of the old shibboleths which trouble us".

Cost-sharing formulas and the provincial grants system have long been a source of antagonism between the senior government and municipal governments.

In 1966 at the UBCM convention in Penticton Mayor Hugh Stephen said the situation is so serious that a royal commission into provincial, federal and municipal cost-sharing and grant formulas should be held.

His resolution on the convention floor was soundly defeated. The mayor repeated his plea for a thorough investigation last September when the UBCM met in Prince George.

GAINED SUPPORT

Once again the formal resolution was defeated but not until several mayors had spoken in favor of the need for a detailed study.

At that time Mr. Campbell stressed his department was more than willing to sit down and talk about the situation.

"They apparently took me at my word and as a result we are now putting together a steering committee to compile and collect data which at this point just doesn't exist," Mr. Campbell said this morning. "The first meetings with the UBCM were held in May and will be continuing throughout the summer.

"Next month, on July 9-10, we hope to be sitting down to work out the actual terms of reference of the committee which should have its findings ready well before the UBCM meets in Vancouver in September.

ALL AREAS

"We are not just working on a report for the UBCM. It is more than that. We intend to go into all areas and, for the first time, present comprehensive findings and recommendations.

"Some of the things the committee will be looking at is the oft-repeated statement that there is a high degree of co-relation between income and the municipal tax bill. Is there or isn't there? It is one of those statements repeated over and over again but no one really has the answer.

"Then there is the opinion often expressed by Mayor Allan Emmott of Burnaby that people just aren't aware of the range of municipal services which come to people at a high level of management, but are actually cheap when put on a per capita basis."

'DOWN TO CASES'

Mr. Campbell said it had not yet been decided in what form the findings of the select committee would be published.

"We shall decide that when we meet next month," he said.

"What we really want to do is get down to cases on the problem and get some of the shibboleths, old saws is maybe a better phrase, out in the open to find if in fact they exist."

Mayor Hugh Stephen was unavailable for comment at press time but it is known that he is pleased the talks have started.

Mr. Campbell said the talks had been constructive and amicable.

"I don't think the UBCM ever really wanted a royal commission," he said. "We can achieve a great deal just by airing the problems and finding the answers."

'Velkommen'

Three Anthems Sung Feelingly At 'Sons' Meeet

By PAT MOAN

The welcome was a hearty "velkommen" and the spirited singing of "O Canada" would have reddened the faces of those who attended the Trudeau rally.

The Canadian, Norwegian and American anthems were sung with equal vigor by beribboned delegates as the first biennial convention of the 7th District of the Sons of Norway opened here today.

Mayor Hugh Stephen, in welcoming the 150 delegates, said: "In the tumultous times ahead "it gives me confidence to know that the men of the long ships will be in the vanguard striving for a Canada which Mr. Trudeau will find just, Mr. Stanfield will find compassionate and I am sure Mr. Dougals will find equitable."

FIVE LODGES

The delegates represent 3,000 members from five island and seven mainland lodges.

District No. 7 has only recently been formed. The lodges formerly belonged to an American district. The new district includes lodges from Dawson Creek to Port Alberni and is the order's fastest-growing district.

The lodge works toward promoting Norwegian culture, traditions and fraternity.

A Summer Language Camp has been proposed to encourage children who wish to learn the Norwegian language.

This evening at 8 there will be a drill and dance display, Norwegian-style, at Norway House on Hillside Ave.

The election and installation of new officers will take place Saturday. There will also be a banquet and dance at the Red Lion Motor Inn.

Ask The Times

Q. Could you give me the history of the old brick factory on Sidney Island—when it was built, who the owners were and when it went out of operation?—P.V.

A. This brick factory was started in 1907 under the ownership of Sheen, Courtenay and Greer. It was operated during summers until 1915 by James Readings and his sons Ambrose and Arthur. Ownership changed hands several times and the factory finally ceased operation in 1938.

Q. Will you please give the numbers of French in Canada as well as Chinese, Germans, Italians, Dutch and Hungarians?—M.D.

A. According to the latest ethnic census (1961) contained in the McGraw Hill directory and almanac of Canada, 1968, there were 5,540,346 French in Canada. They comprised 30.38 per cent of the total population. The rest were: Chinese —58,197 or .32 per cent; German—1,049,599 or 5.76 per cent; Italian—450,351 or 2.47 per cent; Dutch—429,679 or 2.36 per cent; Hungarian—126,220 or .69 per cent. English numbered 4,195,175 or 23 per cent. The population at that time was 18,238,247.

SCIENTISTS FIGHT FOREST-DESTROYING INSECTS

Brain-in-the-Tummy Transplants Performed

By TERRY RITCHIE

One of Canada's most recent transplant patients is a caterpillar.

The insect's brain was removed Thursday in a Victoria laboratory as part of a program by which scientists hope to discover new weapons to combat forest-destroying insects.

Although less spectacular, the ravage of insects is far greater than forest fires and destroys millions of dollars of B.C. trees yearly.

Dr. T. S. Sahota, a scientist at the federal Forestry Research Laboratory on Burnside Rd., transplants the brains of some tent caterpillars into stomachs removed from others.

The purpose is to see what effect chemicals released by the brain have on the insects' egg production. To do this, Dr. Sahota compares full-length caterpillars which have no brains and half caterpillars which have brains added.

From these studies, Dr. Sahota thinks chemicals may be developed which will stop an insect's egg production entirely.

Or, he said, the chemical might be a sort of "insect thalidomide," producing deformed offspring which could give no eggs at all.

The chemicals, after further testing, could then be applied to the forests as sprays. This will only be done if they will not harm other, harmless life.

Operations such as Thursday's will help show what chemicals can do this.

The operation is delicate, since the insects are only one-quarter-inch long in the pupa state, and may die if not treated properly with antibiotics.

Thursday's mini-surgery, one of many performed here each week, began at 10:45.

The insect is first anesthetized with carbon dioxide gas. The operation is carried out under a microscope using small, fine, sterilized instruments.

By 11:10 the brain, almost invisible, floats in a preserving solution, and the head wound is sealed with clear plastic and wax.

Later, Dr. Sahota, a Ph.D from the University of Toronto, will implant the brain in the severed stomach of another caterpillar. Techniques for the operation were developed at Harvard and Cambridge.

If kept alive by food injections, both would develop into half-moths—one a brainless insect, the other a stomach with a brain. Dr. Sahota said that Thursday's "patient" would then be a normal-sized but inactive moth, with a hole in its head.

The program is only just beginning. But Dr. Sahota hopes it will some day result in major new weapons which can wipe out all major insect pests.

ELECTION ROUNDUP

Bar-Closing Law May Be Tested

Times News Services

OTTAWA — New Brunswick bar and tavern owners face possible federal prosecution if they open after polls close on election day, next Tuesday.

Bernard A. Jean, New Brunswick justice minister, said Wednesday the provincial government is considering allowing the bars and taverns there to open when the polls close at 8 p.m. ADT.

But a federal justice department official said today if authorities in his department decide this is a violation of the Canada Elections Act, they would take action against any owner who opens Tuesday.

Such an action, he said, would be based on the province's lack of authority to override a federal statute.

Jean-Marc Hamel, chief electoral officer, said today a section of the act has been assumed to mean that taverns and bars must remain closed throughout a federal election day.

The act says they have to close during "the polling day." However, there is no legal interpretation of what constitutes a polling day.

The justice department official said the federal act would supersede any provincial statute on the same subject.

AYLMER, Que.—Creditiste Leader Real Caouette predicted Thursday night that his party would win 34 seats in Quebec and one in New Brunswick in the June 25 federal election.

Mr. Caouette told about 300 persons at a rally in this town about eight miles west of Ottawa that political pundits in 1962 predicted Creditistes would get no seats. They got 26.

"This time, after touring Quebec, I can tell you it will be even better than in 1962," he said.

VANCOUVER — A 30-year-old evangelical minister has had several thousand pamphlets printed attacking Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau as having had Communist contacts, and Baptist minister has criticized the leader in radio sermons as "anti-God."

Rev. Curtis Mitchell of Surrey Evangelistic Tabernacle reproduced pamphlets issued by the Canadian Intelligence Service of Flesherton, Ont., a private organization.

Mr. Mitchell, who said he was a Social Crediter, took up what he called the anti-Communist campaign as a Christian, and did not consider the pamphlets hate literature.

OTTAWA—The destruction of election posters in six Ottawa and Hull, Que., federal ridings has cost candidates for the June 25 general election an estimated $6,000.

A spokesman said Consumer Affairs Minister John Turner has lost about $1,200 in destroyed campaign posters in the new Ottawa-Carleton riding.

His Conservative opponent, Ken Binks, estimates his loss at $400.

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Trudeau said in the final CBC-TV free-time political broadcast Thursday night that separatists are not alone in Quebec in working against national unity.

He said that other parties—and he named the Conservatives and the NDP—are talking about special status for Quebec and the two-nations theory, "and that's against unity."

WOODSTOCK, Ont.—External Affairs Minister Sharp claimed Thursday that Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield damaged his credibility in the business community with his last-minute campaign promise to attack high interest home mortgages with tax allowances.

Mr. Sharp told a press conference that businessmen quickly recognized that the Stanfield plan would be open to abuse and that it was not practical answer to Canada's housing problem.

"Nothing caused a greater loss of confidence in Mr Stanfield in the business community," said Mr. Sharp of the Conservative leader's proposal.

VIET GAS TESTED IN CANADA

LONDON (CP) — A London university lecturer claims that the United States is using a lethal gas in South Vietnam that was first developed in Britain and tested in Canada. Dr. Steven Rose, Imperial College biochemist, maintained in an interview today the riot control gas known as CS was tested at the Suffield defence research experimental station 30 miles north of Medicine Hat.

A spokesman for the Defence Research Board in Ottawa confirmed that the gas was tested a few months ago at the Suffield defence research establishment.

$5,500 Raised By Walkathon At L. Cowichan

LAKE COWICHAN — Proceeds from the recent 10-mile walkathon staged by Lake Cowichan Guide Association have topped $5,500 and are still rising.

Acting secretary Mrs. Mel Miller said today: "The response has been overwhelming.

"There are still some pledges outstanding and I think they will come in."

The walk was sponsored by the Guides in aid of the Kiwanis camp for handicapped children on Lake Cowichan and is expected to open shortly.

Two Youths Given Year in Drug Case

Two 20-year-old youths were sentenced Wednesday to one year each in the Young Offenders, Unit at Haney for traffing in marijuana on Victoria streets.

Rolland H. Lock and Daniel V. Headdy pleaded guilty to being in possession of marijuana on May 14 last. They said they had been to Seattle and purchased a kilo of the drug.

When arrested by Saanich police, near the White Spot cafe, they had about three ounces of the drug left and cash amounting to $388.

Lock told police they would share the proceeds of the sales.

"They are not serious professional traffickers who make a living out of selling marijuana," said Judge Montague Drake. "Nevertheless this is a very serious offence.

"I believe that proper training and re-orientation would be appropriate for both of them, and I trust they will get this at the Young Offenders Unit."

Victoria lawyer David Skillings, appearing for the defence, said Rolland had considerable ability as a modeller in clay and would benefit from training in the art.

Mr. Skillings said suspended sentences have been given in Vancouver recently for drug offences.

Murray Holmes, for the Crown, said suspended sentences were given for possession of drugs, not for trafficking in them.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Scratch a Nova Scotian, even an expatriate one, and you court stern reprisals. Witness this lady reader's fore-and-aft attack.

"Dear Sir:

"I would like to punch you right in the nose!!

"You said Mr. Stanfield was uncommonly like his native province—'long, rocky, and somewhat behind the times.' You've got a nerve! What do you know about Nova Scotia anyway?, (It is plain to be seen that you are not a Conservative.)

"As you probably know, Nova Scotia was Canada's first province. It was thickly settled and going strong when this cock-eyed place was only a wilderness. Many Canadian leaders came from there, good men too.

"Behind the times, indeed! For saying that, you deserve a good swift kick in the pants!"

There are other communications, but that sample tells the tale.

Its key words are "came from there"—something which the Bluenoses do with such good will that Boston is occasionally referred to as Canada's third city.

But no matter. From Cape Stormy to Cape Sable, she's a right good province, with fine fish in her seas, and what may well be the world's second-best apples in her Annapolis Valley orchards. I've roved her by road, trail and Cape Islander, and written of her more than once in affectionate terms.

Even is she is a little ... well ... you know ...

★

Just about the nicest thing on TV these days is the lovely young matron with the modern-madonna face who strolls through a late evening insurance commercial.

You know the one: there's a tender song for background music, and the girl is obviously, wonderfully expectant. She is browsing with stately grace through a baby-wear department, smiling at this, dreaming over that, and giving a furry-toy ear a playful flip.

All very fetching. But that nice girl has been enceinte for Lord only knows how long, and I really think it's time her sponsors advanced the play to keep up with the processes of nature.

It's about time ... and I know that a host of anxious viewers will agree ... that we saw her with figure recovered and proud husband at her side, wheeling a baby carriage to a livelier tune.

B.C. Tel, I like your courteous and helpful operators, such of them as you still employ, but there are times when I would like to give you a punch in the nose and a good swift kick in your corporate pants.

Despite all manner of defensive double-talk, your long-distance telephone rates are scandalously high. Also—and here we come to the matter in hand—just how do you explain this bit of banditry?

A recent direct-dial evening call to Vancouver from my home was answered by a metallic recorded voice that parroted, "Please call such-and-such, the night number."

Caller did so, and in the course of time, we got billed for not one Vancouver call, but two.

Said the non-recorded company voice with which we checked:

"You reached a recording, but it was that company's recording, not ours, and it conveyed information. Therefore the call was completed, and we had to make the charge."

Well, if that's what can happen when you follow B.C. Tel's urging to use direct dialling, me for the non-mechanical operator ... as long as she survives.

She wouldn't nick the public for a non-conversation with a platter, you bet!

Or, on the other hand, would she?

Note to any and all Vancouver Island candidates who score next Tuesday:

Gentlemen, we need more camping-hiking-fishing parks on our Island, and most of all, we need a large national park north of Seymour Narrows.

SEALED BALLOT BOXES are appearing at Victoria polling stations today for the federal election next Tuesday. Victoria returning officer David Wilson, above, helps hand out the boxes at his headquarters. There are 208 polls in Victoria, and eight have had to be divided in half because of size. There are also six advance polls, meaning a total of 222 ballot boxes will have to be opened when the counting starts. (Times photo.)

Chatterton Roasted by Rivals For Controversial Vote Cards

Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate David Anderson today charged Conservative George Chatterton with "deliberately encouraging" voters to break the Canada Elections Act.

Mr. Chatterton last week sent cards to all constituents showing a sample ballot with an X marked by his name. Words on the ballot said: "Important: Take this notice with you and be sure to mark your ballot with the pencil supplied in the voting booth."

FOUR DAYS TO GO

Carrying any election material into a polling station is prohibited under the elections act.

Whether merely sending the cards represents a breach of the act is questionable according to Victoria returning officer David Wilson.

Chief Electoral Officer Jean-Marc Hamel said in Ottawa today it's "awfully close to the line."

Mr. Hamel said no charges would be laid by election officials, but this doesn't mean someone else won't press charges.

Mr. Anderson said Mr. Chatterton is encouraging delays in voting procedure and exploiting a misinformed public.

He termed Mr. Chatterton's call to settle the legality of the cards in the courts as "absurd."

INJUNCTION

"What does he want, an injunction to stop his name appearing on the ballot?"

Elections are determined not in the courts, but when the people have their say, Mr. Anderson said.

Mr. Chatterton is trying to reduce the chance of the people making their choice, he said, pointing out that if cards are left in the polling stations or if voting is delayed, the election may be overturned and have to be held all over again.

Both Mr. Anderson and NDP candidate Don Johannessen have sent out sample ballots too, but both omit the special notice on the Chatterton ballot telling voters to take the card to the polling station.

Cards similar to Mr. Chatterton's were distributed in support of Victoria Conservative Eric Charman Thursday.

Mr. Wilson said he can't do anything about it now except warn people that the cards may not be taken into the polling stations.

Only two local candidates are not using the cards.

Dr. Harvey Richardson, NDP candidate in Victoria, said he regards the cards as misleading and has steered clear of using them for that reason.

LOOK OFFICIAL

David Groos, the Liberal candidate in Victoria, said the cards tend to look "very official and I think that's why we decided not to use them this time."

His workers have distributed about 36,000 brochures instead and almost all of these were delivered by hand.

Arrival of New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas has been rescheduled to 12:45 p.m. Sunday at Victoria International Airport.

He had previously been scheduled to arrive later in the day.

He speaks at a rally in Memorial Arena at 8 p.m.

Cartoonist Wins Plaque

Times editorial cartoonist Bob Bierman has been awarded a bronze plaque by the National Foundation for Highway Safety, in New Haven, Conn., for his New Year's Eve cartoon on the theme of safe driving.

Bob Bierman

The announcement was made today by Wm. H. Neale, president of the foundation.

Mr. Bierman, on the staff of the Times for the past six years and known for his incisive political caricatures, chose a night club scene for his safe-driving message. In sarcastic vein, a lady points to two feet sticking out from under a table and comments: "No more for him, he says ... he has to drive."

The National Foundation encourages press support for safe driving on this continent by annually offering plaques or prizes for outstanding articles, cartoons and editorials directed to the theme, "Driving carries a moral responsiblity."

Province to Review Cost-Split Formulas

'Working Closely' With UBCM Team

By JIM HUME

The provincial government has agreed to review provincial-municipal cost-sharing formulas throughout the province.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said today his department is already working in close liaison with the Union of British Columbia Municipalities and local civic officials to pin-point the trouble spots and eliminate "some of the old shibboleths which trouble us".

Cost-sharing formulas and the provincial grants system have long been a source of antagonism between the senior government and municipal governments.

In 1966 at the UBCM convention in Penticton Mayor Hugh Stephen said the situation is so serious that a royal commission into provincial, federal and municipal cost-sharing and grant formulas should be held.

His resolution on the convention floor was soundly defeated. The mayor repeated his plea for a thorough investigation last September when the UBCM met in Prince George.

GAINED SUPPORT

Once again the formal resolution was defeated but not until several mayors had spoken in favor of the need for a detailed study.

At that time Mr. Campbell stressed his department was more than willing to sit down and talk about the situation.

"They apparently took me at my word and as a result we are now putting together a steering committee to compile and collect data which at this point just doesn't exist," Mr. Campbell said this morning. "The first meetings with the UBCM were held in May and will be continuing throughout the summer.

"Next month, on July 9-10, we hope to be sitting down to work out the actual terms of reference of the committee which should have its findings ready well before the UBCM meets in Vancouver in September.

ALL AREAS

"We are not just working on a report for the UBCM. It is more than that. We intend to go into all areas and, for the first time, present comprehensive findings and recommendations.

"Some of the things the committee will be looking at is the oft-repeated statement that there is a high degree of corelation between income and the municipal tax bill. Is there or isn't there? It is one of those statements repeated over and over again but no one really has the answer.

"Then there is the opinion often expressed by Mayor Allan Emmott of Burnaby that people just aren't aware of the range of municipal services which come to people at a high level of management, but are actually cheap when put on a per capita basis."

'DOWN TO CASES'

Mr. Campbell said it had not yet been decided in what form the findings of the select committee would be published.

"We shall decide that when we meet next month," he said.

"What we really want to do is get down to cases on the problem and get some of the shibboleths, old saws is maybe a better phrase, out in the open to find if in fact they exist."

Mayor Hugh Stephen was unavailable for comment at press time but it is known that he is pleased the talks have started.

Mr. Campbell said the talks had been constructive and amicable.

"I don't think the UBCM ever really wanted a royal commission," he said. "We can achieve a great deal just by airing the problems and finding the answers."

Talks Resume With Nurses, B.C. Hospitals

Conciliator Named By Labor Minister

Talks between registered nurses and hospitals in British Columbia resumed today in Vancouver.

The development represented the first break in an impasse between the two sides over salary increases in a new contract.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson appointed Victoria-based conciliation officer Jack Sherlock to assist both sides in reaching an agreement.

A statement by the Registered Nurses' Association of B.C., representing just over 4,000 nurses at 61 hospitals, said however that "the nurses bargaining committee is continuing with plans for strike action in the event that the new talks do not lead to a settlement in the bargaining dispute."

NO STRIKE DATE

The association has not set a strike date or posted 48 hours strike notice since nurses in 59 of the hospitals voted 95 per cent in favor of this action in a government-supervised strike vote one week ago.

The dispute affects three hospitals in Victoria — Royal Jubilee, St. Joseph's and Gorge Road rehabilitation centre.

The hospitals have accepted, and the nurses have rejected, a non-binding conciliation board report which recommended salary increases of 21.8 per cent and 27.4 per cent in two steps this year.

The nurses are sticking by their original demands which amount to more than 50 per cent as well as a 37½-hour work week in place of the present 40 hours and portability of salary increments.

START AT $390

Present pay starts at $390 a month increasing to $466 after four years.

The conciliation board recommended, by the second stage effective July 1, $475 a month to start increasing to $593.75 after five years as well as a fifth week of vacation after 20 years and $1 a shift differential for evening and overnight work.

The nurses want $600 a month to start increasing to $841 after five years.

On Thursday, Premier Bennett said in Kimberley that the provincial government will not automatically lead nurses "by the ear" back to work if they strike.

Earlier, Labor Minister Peterson strongly indicated Bill 33 would be used to prevent a strike against hospitals. Later he expressed the hope that both sides could settle the dispute "without recourse to the mediation commission" established under Bill 33.

Sun Obscured By Overcast On Longest Day

It's the longest day.

Summer began officially at 1:13 a.m. today.

And that means that today's 16 hours and nine minutes of daylight will be the most of any day this year.

Not that summer is too obvious. The sun was hiding behind a solid blanket of cloud most of the day. Scattered showers were in the offing.

Above all that cloud the sun today attained its greatest distance north of the equator to mark the summer solstice.

Daylight Saturday will be shorter—but only by a matter of seconds.

IWA TALKS PLOD ON

Official silence surrounded continuing negotiations today aimed at avoidng a shutdown of the B.C. coast woods products industry.

There was no comment at noon from the International Woodworkers of America, representing 26,000 loggers and mill workers, and Forest Industrial Relations, bargainer for 113 companies.

Earlier this week, the IWA officially reported "some progress" in the talks but gave no details. The current contract expired one week ago but remains in effect until negotiations break down.

Pulp Union Votes 91% For Strike

Some 3,500 members of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada at six mills voted 91 per cent in favor of strike action, the union announced Thursday.

Three of the mills are on Vancouver Island—Crofton, Harmac just south of Nanaimo and Gold River.

The union said it is ready for "real bargaining" and accused the Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations Bureau, bargaining agent for the mills, of "failure to bargain seriously."

It is seeking a 35-cent hourly wage increase in a one-year contract on the current basic rate of $2.84. The PPWC said employers have not made a wage offer. The existing contract expires at the end of the month.

Motorcyclist Only Fair After Crash

A 22-year-old motorcyclist is in only fair condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital after his machine slammed into a steel bus stop sign Thursday night.

Stephen Baxter, 1027 Chamberlain, received a broken leg and severe cuts.

Police said the motorbike apparently mounted the sidewalk 43 feet west of the four foot high steel sign.

The rider landed 12 feet from the sign and the motorbike was found in the centre of the intersection of Quamichan and Cowichan, a further 40 feet away.

A woman injured in an accident Thursday morning is reported in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Police said a car driven by Gladys Smith, 37, of 1042 Goldstream, left the Trans-Canada Highway near Millstream and smashed into a rock bluff.

The drivers of two cars involved in a head-on collision at Fort and Bank just after 8 p.m. Thursday were treated for minor injuries at Royal Jubilee Hospital and released.

Police said an eastbound car driven by Eric Geary, 2326 Estevan, was in collision with a west bound car driven by Herbert Pickup, 2041 Allenby.

Both cars were heavily damaged.

$750 Bail For Break-In

Bail was set at $750 today for a man charged with breaking and entering a Niagara Street apartment Thursday.

Sidney Hayward, 47, of 271 Michigan, was apprehended shortly after the owner of the apartment chased a man from inside.

Hayward was remanded without plea to June 28.

'Velkommen'

Three Anthems Sung Feelingly At 'Sons' Meet

By PAT MOAN

The welcome was a hearty "velkommen" and the spirited singing of "O Canada" would have reddened the faces of those who attended the Trudeau rally.

The Canadian, Norwegian and American anthems were sung with equal vigor by beribboned delegates as the first biennial convention of the 7th District of the Sons of Norway opened here today.

Mayor Hugh Stephen, in welcoming the 150 delegates, said: "In the tumultuous times ahead "it gives me confidence to know that the men of the long ships will be in the vanguard striving for a Canada which Mr. Trudeau will find just, Mr. Stanfield will find compassionate and I am sure Mr. Douglas will find equitable."

FIVE LODGES

The delegates represent 3,000 members from five island and seven mainland lodges.

District No. 7 has only recently been formed. The lodges formerly belonged to an American district. The new district includes lodges from Dawson Creek to Port Alberni and is the order's fastest-growing district.

The lodge works toward promoting Norwegian culture, traditions and fraternity.

A Summer Language Camp has been proposed to encourage children who wish to learn the Norwegian language.

This evening at 8 there will be a drill and dance display, Norwegian-style, at Norway House on Hillside Ave.

The election and installation of new officers will take place Saturday. There will also be a banquet and dance at the Red Lion Motor Inn.

Ask The Times

Q. Could you give me the history of the old brick factory on Sidney Island—when it was built, who the owners were and when it went out of operation?—P.V.

A. This brick factory was started in 1907 under the ownership of Sheen, Courtenay and Greer. It was operated during summers until 1915 by James Readings and his sons Ambrose and Arthur. Ownership changed hands several times and the factory finally ceased operation in 1938.

Q. Will you please give the numbers of French in Canada as well as Chinese, Germans, Italians, Dutch and Hungarians? —M.D.

A. According to the latest ethnic census (1961) contained in the McGraw Hill directory and almanac of Canada, 1968, there were 5,540,346 French in Canada. They comprised 30.38 per cent of the total population. The rest were: Chinese—58,197 or .32 per cent; German—1,049,599 or 5.76 per cent; Italian—450,351 or 2.47 per cent; Dutch—429,679 or 2.36 per cent; Hungarian—126,220 or .69 per cent. English numbered 4,195,175 or 23 per cent. The population at that time was 18,238,247.

SCIENTISTS FIGHT FOREST-DESTROYING INSECTS

Brain-in-the-Tummy Transplants Performed

By TERRY RITCHIE

One of Canada's most recent transplant patients is a caterpillar.

The insect's brain was removed Thursday in a Victoria laboratory as part of a program by which scientists hope to discover new weapons to combat forest-destroying insects.

Although less spectacular, the ravage of insects is far greater than forest fires and destroys millions of dollars of B.C. trees yearly.

Dr. T. S. Sahota, a scientist at the federal Forestry Research Laboratory on Burnside Rd., transplants the brains of some tent caterpillars into stomachs removed from others.

The purpose is to see what effect chemicals released by the brain have on the insects' egg production. To do this, Dr. Sahota compares full-length caterpillars which have no brains and half caterpillars which have brains added.

From these studies, Dr. Sahota thinks chemicals may be developed which will stop an insect's egg production entirely.

Or, he said, the chemical might be a sort of "insect thalidomide," producing deformed offspring which could give no eggs at all.

The chemicals, after further testing, could then be applied to the forests as sprays. This will only be done if they will not harm other, harmless life.

Operations such as Thursday's will help show what chemicals can do this.

The operation is delicate, since the insects are only one-quarter-inch long in the pupa state, and may die if not treated properly with antibiotics.

Thursday's mini-surgery, one of many performed here each week, began at 10:45.

The insect is first anesthetized with carbon dioxide gas. The operation is carried out under a microscope using small, fine, sterilized instruments.

By 11:10 the brain, almost invisible, floats in a preserving solution, and the head wound is sealed with clear plastic and wax.

Later, Dr. Sahota, a Ph.D from the University of Toronto, will implant the brain in the severed stomach of another caterpillar. Techniques for the operation were developed at Harvard and Cambridge.

If kept alive by food injections, both would develop into half-moths—one a brainless insect, the other a stomach with a brain. Dr. Sahota said that Thursday's "patient" would then be a normal-sized but inactive moth, with a hole in its head.

The program is only just beginning. But Dr. Sahota hopes it will some day result in important new weapons which can wipe out all major insect pests.

Six Plan To Join Medicare

Six medical insurance societies have agreed to become licensed carriers of the B.C. medicare plan when it links with federal medicare, July 1.

Geoffrey Stewart, chairman of the B.C. Medical Services Commission said today the six new administrative arms of the medicare plan are:

Provincial Teachers Medical Services, Canadian Pacific Employees Group, Automotive Retailers Medical Association, Fraser Valley Medical Services Society, MSA, and CU and C.

In addition three other societies will join the medicare plan by joining MSA. These are Woodwards, Cunningham Drugs. and Telephone Employees plans, he said.

Mr. Stewart said officials of the carriers are working "night and day" to get ready for the July switch-over in which Ottawa begins paying half the medicare costs in the province.

One of the major jobs under way is to negotiate with the numerous private insurance schemes to provide an opportunity for their total of 244,000 subscribers to join the medicare plan either through the B.C. medical plan or through one of the licensed carriers.

Responsibility to make sure coverage is obtained under the medicare plan rests not only with the private schemes but also with individuals, provincial officials said.

Picnic Planned For Stampeders

Don't stampede, but ex-Calgarians living in Victoria are invited to a reunion picnic Sunday behind Goldstream Inn.

It's a bring-your-own lunch affair and the frolic gets underway at 1 p.m.

Picnic organizer is Paul Rowe, captain of the 1948 Grey Cup winning Calgary Stampeders.

MYSTIQUE COVER-UP

Charman Charges Colossal Fraud

Conservative candidate Eric Charman Thursday accused Liberals of avoiding embarrassing election issues with Trudeaumania.

By concentrating on the Trudeau mystique, the Liberals are perpetrating "a colossal fraud," he said, calling the Trudeau rally here Monday "a political love-in."

In a speech at the White Eagel Hall in James Bay, Mr. Charman attacked his Liberal opponent David Groos as a man who "has failed to speak out for his constituency when he should have done."

Mr. Tudeau had no news for pensioners or west coast shipbuilders when he was here, Mr. Charman said, and he described it as a "remarkable coincidence." that the public address system failed before the prime minister could answer any questions from the crowd.

The Conservative candidate charged this election was called because Canada is in economic trouble.

Thirty per cent of Victorians on fixed incomes are having a hard come to live, he said.

Mr. Charman traced accelerating inflation to a 30 per cent raise given St. Lawrence Seaway workers two years ago, and he said industiral wages have risen 45 per cent in five years.

"This is why we're finding it tough to get into markets."

In response to a question about income tax exemptions, Mr. Charman said that if the economy is in as good a state as the Liberals say it is, why can't this figure, which Liberals set 15 years ago, be raised.

Yard Fires To Continue; Trip Costly

Backyards will continue to burn in Victoria.

The city's lands and firewardens committee was asked Thursday to ban backyard incinerators if not totally at least on weekends.

Only Ald. Robart Baird thought the idea of a partial ban or at least a complete review of the situation worthwhile. Other committee members voted solidly in favor of the smell of smoke and smouldering cabbage stalks.

Oak Bay has already introduced a Sunday ban on garbage incinerators and Vancouver has gone one long step further with a total ban on all backyard burning.

Ald. Baird told the committee that he was aware of the problems a total ban might bring. "It would mean stepping up garbage collections and it would cost the taxpayers money," he said. "But I think the time has come when we should instruct the city engineer to bring us in a full report on the situation. It is quite serious."

Other committee members disagreed supporting instead Ald. Percy Frampton who said he valued his backyard burning privileges.

In other business finance committee members deferred a final decision on a request from city manager Dennis Young that he and personnel director Terry Fitzpatrick be authorized to attend a three-day manpower conference in Montreal in November.

Cost of the trip would be around $1,000 and was termed an "utter waste of money," by Ald. Baird.

Assistant to the city manager William Hooson, presenting the request, said the three-day seminar would be of tremendous value to Mr. Young and Mr. Fitzpatrick. "This wouldn't be a relaxing seminar," he said. "The people attending it will be working 24-hours a day."

Ald. Frampton moved that the matter be referred to the Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee to see if other municipalities would share the cost of sending one representative to Montreal to represent the entire area.

Former City Music Teacher Dies in East

Mrs. Olive Crampton Stuart — teacher, pianist and composer and for many years resident in Victoria — died in New York recently at the age of 70.

Mrs. Stuart came to Canada 16 years ago and helped organize the British Columbia Registered Music Teachers' Association.

She studied under Marc Hambourg in England and later under Boris Roubakine and Lloyd Powell of Vancouver.

In 1962 she entered the University of Washington school of music, specializing in composition. But Mrs. Stuart composed music for musicians rather than for popular use. Many of her works were in competitions and examinations.

She is survived by her husband, A. G. Stuart; a daughter, Dr. Sonia Ryan, Denver; and three sons, Mark C., Victoria; C. Michael, Eugene, Ore., and Robert C., Cambridge, Mass.

Drug Addict Jargon Helpful to Police

An RCMP officer testified Thursday a bag containing 942 "blue tablets" was found shortly after he had asked a Seattle youth if he "might be able to steer me to some acid."

Constable Geroge Robertson said he had spent two months "on the street" and that "a tab of LSD was worth $5 on the street."

The evidence was given in the trial of Harold Wood of Seattle and Ivars Zarins of Santa Rosa, California, both charged with possession of marijuana and selling LSD.

Robertson said he went to an Esquimalt motel unit May 22 clad in cowboy boots, jeans, sweat shirt and an old red jacket. Wood appeared after he knocked at the door.

Robertson testified that Wood said "what person told you that" after he asked him the question about acid. Following the discussion several other police officers arrived and the plastic bag containing the tablets was found behind a board in a garage adjoining the unit.

Court was also told some green plant-like material was found in a large piece of silver foil in the same place as the tablets.

The trial continues July 2.

Linen Workers Ready to Sign Wage Contract

Thirty-five employees of Canadian Linen Supply, Victoria, have voted to accept a new contract, it was announced Thursday.

The 30-month contract provides wage increases of 30 cents an hour in the first year and from 25 cents to 48 cents in the second, said John Squire of Vancouver, representative for the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union.

Other provisions include four and five-week vacations, sick leave, severance pay, welfare and improved contract language, he said.

The new agreement provides the same terms as the recent agreement with Nelson's Laundries and covers office and plant workers. Employees, who had earned $1.37½ to $2.14 an hour, voted to strike the company last week.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Some prices rallied on curtailed offers and exporter interest in an otherwise dull trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Export interests were reluctant to make commitments in view of the Seaway workers strike.

Hydro Spending May Reach $300 Million

Columbia Hydro said Thursday it expects a capital expenditure expects a capital expenditure program of about $300,000,000 in the fiscal year ending next March 31, compared with $341,000,000 the previous year.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, Hydro co-chairman, said the crown authority could not yet give details of spending. It had not yet decided what borrowing would be done or on what markets.

Planned spending is down, he said, because the peak of construction on the Peace River power project was passed last year. A major factor in spending will be new transmission lines and improvement of old ones.

Dr. Shrum said there likely will be a public bond issue but this depended on U.S. and Canadian interest rates.

Hydro has a 5.5-per-cent parity bond issue of $50,500,000 which falls due Aug. 3, and Premier Bennett is expected to announce on July 8 the rate for a replacement issue.

Japanese Car Firm to Open Vancouver Office

TOKYO (Reuters) — Toyo Kogyo Company Ltd. plans to set up a car sales company to be named the Mazda Motors of Canada in Vancouver, jointly with the C. Itho and Co., a Japanese trading house, Toyo Kogyo, said today.

The Japanese car firm said a monthly average of 100 cars will be initially exported through the new sales company to Canada.

The new company would be wholly owned by the Japanese firms. it said. The size of its capital was not made known.

Toyo Kogyo has already set up a sales company in Australia and plans to create another wholly-owned sales firm in California.

Japan sells about 5,000 cars yearly to Canada.

Bonds Redeemed

OTTAWA (CP) — Holders of Canada Savings Bonds redeemed another $37,000,000 worth this week, bringing the amount outstanding to $5,821,000,000 on Wednesday, the Bank of Canada reported Thursday.

Strong Surge In Active Trade

Industrials and oils led a strong surge on the Toronto Stock Market in active trading. Golds slipped.

Brokers said strength was due to Thursday's successful vote on the U.S. tax increase-spending cut bill in the House of Representatives.

On index, industrials gained 1.68 to 164.04, golds fell 1.71 to 211.16, base metals climbed .32 to 102.64 and western oils dipped .29 to 208.97.

Final volume was 3,611,000 shares compared with 3,419,000 Thursday.

In industrials, Imperial Oil jumped 2¼ to 67, Neon Products 2 to 35½, International Utilities 1⅞ to 54⅞, Rothmans 1⅞ to 26 and Imbrex 1⅜ to 13.

Placer Development gained 1½ to 27 and United Keno Hill ⅝ to 11.

Alminex dropped 25 cents to $5.00 and National Pete 20 cents to $3.45. Canadian Superior rose ¾ to 47¾.

AT NEW YORK the market held a gain in active trading, although profit taking trimmed some advances.

Gains outstripped losses by some 200 issues. Averages were well into plus territory.

Passage of the surtax-spending-cut bill was fairly well anticipated, and there was some profit taking on the news. The general trend, however, was higher, and the trend remained the same.

Ashland Oil was up about 4, National General and Hooker Chemical about 2 each.

Among Canadians International Nickel was up ⅝, Distillers Seagrams ¼, Granby Mining ¼ and Massey ⅛. Dome Mines was down 1⅛ and Alcan ⅛.

AT MONTREAL the passage of the U.S. tax bill and signs of progress in Washington-Hanoi peace talks pushed prices up.

Brokers attributed the uptrend to passage today of an income surtax and mandatory cut in federal spending bill by the U.S. Senate and a statement by the country's defence secretary that "there is some movement" in Vietnam peace talks.

Among industrials, Wajax and International Utilities advanced 1½ each to 17 and 54¼ with gains of 1¼ posted by Scott-Lasalle at 28½ and Great Britain-Canada Investment at 14¼.

Southam, McAllister and Molson A added 1 each to 49, 11⅝ and 25 respectively. Argus, which reported a 3.69 per cent increase in half-yearly earnings, went up ½ to 14.

In senior mines and oils, Hudson Bay Mining and Imperial Oil edged up one each to 56 and 65¾; B-A, ⅞ to 41⅛, and Texaco, ½ to 30.

CPR added 1½ to 59½, Royal Bank ½ to 18 on 7,260 shares and B.C. Forest, ⅜ to 15⅞.

AT VANCOUVER prices were mixed as mining issues started to recover from a continued slump in light trading this morning.

Neon Products advanced $1 in the industrials to $34.25, while Interior Breweries gained $1.25 to $11.25. Block Bros. dropped a quarter to $14.25 and Cunningham was off 37 cents at $10.25.

Volume leader in the mines was Tannex, posted for trading this morning, hitting a high of $1.25 at the opening and dropping back to $1.10 at 11:30 on 122,500 shares.

Highmont lost a quarter to $1.40, New Cinch Uranium fell 15 cents to $1, and Arctic posted the same loss to $3.95.

Leading gainer in the mines was Silver-Lee, advancing 15 cents to $1.35, while Bethlehem and Dynasty each added a dime to $7.40 and $7.60, respectively.

Oils were down in price with Stampede losing 11 cents to $1.43 and Giant Reef 15 cents to $1.35. Merit added one-half cent to 43½.

Mortgage Rate Drop Indicated

OTTAWA (CP)—The current 9⅛ per cent ceiling on National Housing Act mortgage interest rates will probably drop to 9 per cent and perhaps lower in July, August and September, latest financial statistics show.

The ceiling rate is geared to the investment yield on long-term government of Canada bonds at market prices, and this has been dropping in the last three weeks.

The change in the financial climate was reflected in Thursday's treasury bill auction and in a sharp drop in average yields on Government of Canada bonds.

Yields on 90-day treasury bills dropped to 6.66 per cent from 6.84 per cent a week ago and 6.95 per cent on June 6. The long-term bond yield, seven per cent a month ago, was down to 6.88 per cent on Wednesday and should drop further next week.

Day loans in the money market have dropped more than half a per cent in the past week to an average of 6.30 per cent.

Corporate bond yields have also dropped this week as part of a widespread recovery in the bond market.

The turnaround in interest rates should mean cheaper bond financing, lower bank interest rates and cheaper mortgages before long.
